Official Paper for Morrow County

Redistricting Good Idea.

REPRESENTATIVE SEMON of Klamath county has introduced a bill to make a separate senatorial district of Klamath county and placing Morrow county in the 18th senatorial district with Wheeler, Gilliam and Sherman counties.

Morrow is now in the 19th district with Umatilla and Union. Its present situation is unfavorable in that the two counties to the east have heavy population majorities whose interests are not closely linked with the interests of this county.

Before the last gerrymandering, this county was combined with Grant and Harney counties. Under that set-up two men from this county were sent to the senate, the late J. W. Morrow and the late Henry Blackman, both of whom represented the district creditably.

Shifting economic interests have given Morrow county more in common with its neighbor counties to the west. Inclusion with them in the same senatorial district is not inept, in fact it is quite logical.

As for Klamath county, it is considerable of an empire in itself, worthy of separate senatorial recognition. At present it is unfavorably situated in a district with Lake, Deschutes, Crook and Jefferson counties, the largest district in the state and all too unwieldy from geographic and economic angles.

An Appreciation.

THIS newspaper appreciates the many compliments it has received on an special souvenir edition issued for the 48th convention Oregon Wool Growers association.

Heppner is still basking in the glowing felicitations that have been poured upon it by the hundreds of more-than-pleased visitors at the annual convention of the Oregon Wool Growers' association and the Ranger, not there in person, hastens to add its words of praise—this time to the progressive staff of the Heppner Gazette Times, who published a splendid souvenir edition on the first day of the session.

Eight pages, brimful of interesting sketches on the growth and development of the host city, side-lights on the wool growing industry, interspersed freely with typical and interesting pictures go to make up the eight pages of this tabloid supplement to the Heppner newspaper. The printing and typography are exceptionally attractive and the delicate gray-blue stock upon which it is printed is particularly attractive.

Always typographically excellent, the Heppner Gazette Times has scored again in publication of an eight-page souvenir edition upon the occasion of the woolgrowers' convention. Profusely illustrated and printed upon book paper, the number portrays Heppner of the past and present. A job well done—Condon Globe Times.

Heppner residents received high praise for entertainment of the visitors and management of the convention. A particularly fine feature was the special convention number issued by the Heppner Gazette times, with program details and many valuable articles on sheep raising and marketing.—Enterprise Record-Chiefstain.
