STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Reorganization

By A. L. LINDBECK

SALEM.—Back from a four-day tour of the state in company with members of the highway commission Governor Martin this week set himself to the task of reorganizing his official family.

The governor has already made it clear that so far as he is concerned there will be no wholesale house-cleaning of departments and commissions but that he will confine himself to the selection of the heads of these departments and commissions. That being the case it can readily be seen that there are bound to be a lot of disappointed applicants among the 10,000 seekers after places on the state payroll.

Juciest among the plums at the governor's disposal are the jobs of director of agriculture and superintendent of the state police. Chas. P. Pray who has filled the latter post since the police bureau came into being in August, 1931, is assured of reappointment to the job if he wants to stay and it is understood that he is willing. Max Gehlar announced some time ago that he wanted to retire as head of the department of agriculture but it is known that many farming interests have been urging him to reconsider his resignation and insisting that the governor retain him on the job. Should he be replaced there is no dearth of aspirants for the post. William Aird of Oregon City who wanted the job four years ago is said to be actively campaigning for the appointment again. Others "prominently mentioned" for the post include Selon T. White, county agent of Yamhill county; Henry Semon, Klamath county potato "king," and J. C. Miller, S. P. & S. agricultural agent.

Far less lucrative than the agricultural post but apparently just as popular is the office of insurance commissioner now held by A. H. Averill of Portland. No fewer than four deserving Democrats are offering themselves for this job. The list includes Ormond Lipscomb, William L. Graham and Fred Brennan of Portland and Hugh H. Earl of Eugene with Lipscomb believed to have a slight edge over the other candidates.

At least one change is expected in the personnel of the industrial accident commission where T. Morris Dunne, republican, is expected to be sacrificed to make room for State Senator George M. Aitken of Washington county or some other democratic appointee.

No change is expected to be made in the post of corporation commissioner now held by Judge Charles H. Carey unless the commissioner insists on resigning in which event it is not anticipated that any difficulty will be experienced in finding some democrat to accept the job. Rumors that State Senator John Goss of Marshfield might be in line for this job are not taken seriously here since the post does not pay enough to make it particularly attractive.

While all three members of the highway commission have placed their resignations in the hands of the governor it is not expected that he will accept more than one of them at this time.

Changes in the tax commission personnel require two votes but should the governor strongly desire to replace either of the present commissioners it is believed here that he could secure the support of either Secretary of State Snell or State Treasurer Holman in effecting the change.

It has been rumored for some time that Governor Martin would ask for the resignation of Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce as a member of the board of higher education and it would not be surprising to see at least one, and possibly two changes in the personnel of this board within the next few weeks.

Governor Martin may be a little bit rusty on his first hand knowledge of Oregon and its needs but he is not losing any time in correcting this deficiency. Last week he covered more than 1200 miles of state highway in central and southern Oregon and the coast counties in order to familiarize himself with the state's road program.

Expenses of the 1935 legislative session totalled $117,082, or nearly $16,000 more than the 1933 session which ran one day longer. This figure does not include printing of the session laws in either case.

Twelve persons lost their lives and 319 persons suffered injuries in 1436 traffic accidents on Oregon highways during February. That makes a total of 29 traffic fatalities for the current year compared to 37 for the same period last year.
