

THE DALLES PLANS LEGION WELCOME

Crash of Airplanes Part of Spectacle to be Presented in War Pageant at Convention.

The Dalles, July 24.—One of the most ambitious programs ever arranged for the entertainment of delegates and visitors to the annual state convention of the American Legion will be presented in this city August 14, 15, 16, 17.

The convention will open officially at noon on Thursday, August 15, with the arrival of the national commander, Frank N. Belgrano Jr. The convention celebration, however, will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, August 14, with the presentation of a gigantic spectacle of World war service on land and sea.

Among the sensational features of the spectacle will be the crashing of an airplane on the field as the climax of a representation of a student aviator's first solo flight. This airplane has been especially constructed for the spectacle, with a wing spread of 24 feet and a length over all of 35 feet.

In mid-field, the transport ship, which is theoretically conveying troops to France, will be torpedoed by an enemy submarine with a resultant explosion and the "loss of many lives."

Participating in the spectacle will be Company 3, 162nd Infantry, Portland's famous "waltz-time" company, under the command of Captain L. M. Erickson; the 162nd Infantry regimental band under Bandmaster John C. Shields; and Company H, 186th Infantry, machine gun company of The Dalles, under Captain R. M. Weber.

Both the infantry company and machine gun company will participate in a sham battle, which will simulate a skirmish line attack on front line trenches behind a preparatory artillery barrage.

Membership of The Dalles Legion posts, Fort Dalles Drum corps, The Dalles male chorus, and scores of others will join in the action of the drama, which is being directed by Dr. T. E. Griffith.

Other convention high lights include the annual Legion parade combined with the annual Old Fort Dalles Frolics parade, scheduled for 5:30 p. m., Thursday, August 15th, and the annual statewide drum corps contest at 7:30 p. m., Friday.

The state indicate that there will be an attendance of more than 3000 legionnaires and auxiliary members during the four days of the convention. Ample housing accommodations to care for this number and many more are declared available.

Lightning Storms Break Forest Fire Records

Breaking all previous 1935 records for ten day fire period, lightning storms in Oregon started 125 fires last week rolling up a total of 166 fires from all causes on the national forests of Washington and Oregon for the ten days ending July 20, according to forest service announcement.

In addition to the 125 lightning fires, careless smokers caused 21 fires and campfires 10. The extraordinary electrical bombardment occurring in eastern and southern Oregon was felt most severely on the Rogue River national forest according to the report, where 38 fires were set on the Dead Indian, Klamath and Butte Falls ranger districts. On the Whitman national forest including part of the Blue mountain district of eastern Oregon, lightning caused 31 fires. The largest blaze of the period was an 81 acre incendiary fire on land under forest service protection outside the boundaries of the Chelan national forest in Washington. The favorable record thus far in reaching and controlling fires is attested by the fact that of the 166 fires reported all but six were controlled before they had covered an area in excess of 10 acres say forest officials.

These officials call attention to the importance of public cooperation during this critical season in preventing fires caused by carelessly guarded campfires or carelessly dropped matches and cigarettes.

The U. S. Forest service "box score" of telegraphic fire information from the 150 national forests of the United States showed that Forest service protective crews prior to July were fighting an average of 28 fires each day. An average of 20 of these fires were man caused—mainly from unguarded campfires, carelessly dropped cigarettes, matches, and similar sources. National forests in the first half of 1935 had 3,238 fires as against 3,459 for the same period last year. However, 2,902 of the 1935 fires were man caused as against 2,279 for the first half of last year.

Scenes at Public Utility Lobby Investigations

WASHINGTON . . . There was plenty of action here as the House Rules Committee hearings and the special Senate Lobby Committee investigation got under way on lobby activities when the public utilities bill, with the "unnecessary" holding companies clause, was before the House. Top photo shows a general view of the House committee hearings. Center, Representative Sam Rayburn, (D. Tex.) and Senator Burton Wheeler, (D. Mont.) co-authors of the utilities bill, looking on at the House hearings. Below, Philip H. Gadsden of Philadelphia, Chairman of a Public Utilities Committee of Executives which was formed to oppose the abolition clause. He gave evidence before the Senate Lobby Committee, that more than $50,000 had been spent by the utility executives in an effort to defeat the provision.
