DEFENNIN IN THE NAME OF THE STA Corvallis .-- Miss Thelma Gaylord, for five years home demonstration agent in Clackamas county, has been recommended by Vice-director F. L. Ballard to be acting state leader of extension work in home economics, effective September 1. Miss Gaylord succeeds Miss Claribel Nye who resigned to enter the California extension service.

Miss Gaylord is a graduate of Montana State college who taught in high schools several years before entering the OSC extension service. Her record in Clackamas county is considered outstanding. A suc-cessor for her in the county position has not yet been selected. With the change in state leaders will also take place some expansion in extension work in home economics, made possible by receipt of additional federal funds and through county cooperation. As soon as qualified personnel can be obtained a new specialist in home management and another in child welfare and parent education will be added, as will one or two district home demonstration agents and one or two county workers if counties cooperate financially, says Ballard. "A well rounded program of extension work applicable to the en-tire rural family is the aim of the extension service," Ballard explaintire rural family is the aim of the extension service," Ballard explain-ed. "This is accomplished through the agricultural, home economics and 4-H club workers serving as a unit in the common cause of in-creasing farm income so that there may be better home conditions and enriched country life generally." Printing in the modern mode as turned out by the Gazette Times shop will please you and attract at-tention to your business. NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION. Department of the Interior, U. S.
