JOHN DAY GIVES VISITORS TREAT

Local Folk Attend Fair With Band; Find Many Things of Interest.

FINE HORSES SHOWN

Spirit of Independence Exhibited by Neighboring Folk; Dredge Tears up Pretty Valleys.

Heppner folk in goodly numbers followed the band to John Day last week end and were privileged to see one of the best little fairs and rodeos held any place. The oldest fair in Oregon in years of continuous exhibition, the Grant County fair reflected the spirit of independence, pride and loyalty which exists among Grant county people.

They received at John Day a true neighborly welcome, reflected partly in the selection of Henry Alken, Rodeo president, as one of the race judges, and of Eddie Sheridan, experienced Heppner showman, as one of the arena judges. Mr. Alken appropriately expressed appreciation of the good will existing between the two sections when he was accorded privilege of the microphone Saturday afternoon to bring greetings from the Heppner Rodeo; and to show that a common bond of fellowship also exists with Pendleton's premier western show, he introduced visiting officials of the Round-Up including Dr. W. D. McNary, president; Roy Ritner, secretary; Herb Thompson, "Binky" Boylen and A. L. Powers, directors.

It is not our purpose to bring a detailed report of the various events, but rather to point out highlights of the visit which should be of general interest to our readers. For instance many readers will be interested to know that our former leading resident and good friend, C. A. Minor, rode on the prize-winning Mr. Vernon community foal, which we wot not he helped produce as leading Mr. Vernon merchant. Donald Boyer, native Heppner boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boyer of Mt. Vernon, showed prize stallions from the Boyer stables. Miss Edna Rice, granddaughter of John Beltenbrock of this city, had one of the prize cow ponies in Oliver brothers' inimitable contest which has done much to stimulate the raising of many fine Grant county horses. Then there was Johnny Farley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Farley of Heppner, who had so many committee jobs in connection with the show that he had little time to take care of his job as manager of Wilson's store at John Day.

In the lists were Kenneth and Lloyd Depew, Ivan Applegate, John Watkins, Emory Moore, and round and about were Ad Moore, Jack French, Mr. and Mrs. Dillard French, and mayhap numerous others whose frequent Heppner visits make them almost as much at home here as elsewhere. Kenneth Depew won third in the bucking, with Stub Bartlemay of Arlington first, and Dude Farrell (a performer at the last Heppner Rodeo), second.

The band was prominent at all times, playing on the street, in the parade and at the grounds, and never stinting. Billy Schwarz officiated as baton wielder for the marching, wearing the high feathered helmet of the drum major; and the entire group was stunningly arrayed in their blue and gold capes and caps with white trousers.

Exhibits at the fair reflected some of the reasons for Grant county independence, displaying a wide array of fruits from garden, orchard and field, handiwork of the sewing room and kitchen, but most of all, an abundance of purebred livestock.

It was the livestock, too, that stood out in the parade and in the rodeo performances. Especially were fine horses in evidence, and a lot of pride exhibited by the owners. Morrow county, once among the leading cattle domains of the West, has become more devoted to sheep and wheat in these later years. But Grant county is still preeminently a cattle country. Grant county boys and girls grow into the saddle. They ride as if they were a part of the horse, providing a show more picturesque than the professional bucking and roping to one less accustomed to life on the range. And as the cattle industry is impressed upon the mind of the spectator as being the backbone of the country, one becomes truly appreciative of the importance of the fine horseflesh which of necessity plays a vital role in that industry. And again one appreciates what those community leaders, the Oliver brothers, Frank and Herman, have in mind when they put up a $50 purse for the best cowpony each year. It is a magnificent gesture toward maintaining the permanency of the cattle industry, and of fostering the love they hold for it.

No less than the cattle industry, has gold mining contributed to the colorful historic background of Grant county. 'Tis said that when a "native" goes broke in town, he hies himself back up Canyon creek with a little pack outfit and a pan and within a few days comes back

NORTH END FAIR IS SUCCESSFUL

Good Exhibits in All Classes; Monstrosities Hold Interest; Attendance Good.

A fine exhibit in all the divisions was shown at the North Morrow County fair held here in the gymnasium Friday and Saturday when a large crowd of local and out-of-town people attended. An unusually fine showing of poultry and stock was there. The monstrosities class in the fruit and vegetable divisions is always of interest to the public. The tallest stalk of broom corn measured 14 feet 5 inches and was grown by Harlan Jones. The tallest stalk of field corn measured over 16 feet. The largest watermelon weighed 49 pounds and was brought in by Buster Randa. The best bunch of broom corn which took first prize was grown by J. A. Allen, with that of Zearl Gillespie taking second. A beautiful display of flowers, fruits, canned foods and fancy work was attractively arranged. One of the outstanding articles in the fancy work display was a full size quilt, made and quilted by Mrs. J. F. Barlow, which contains 12,204 diamond shaped pieces. Dinner was served cafeteria style in the school basement by the H. E. club and the Ladies Aid society. A dance in the grange hall Saturday evening with the Lundell orchestra playing closed the fair.

Heppner people attending the fair Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Briggs, and Mrs. Charles Barlow and family. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Howell, Mrs. Harold Case and daughter, Mrs. Lucy Rodgers and Joseph Belanger.

Higher Farm Income Expected for 1935, OSC

Higher average prices and slightly better crop yields are expected to bring the farmers of Oregon 5 million dollars more cash income from the crop and animal production of 1935 than received from that of 1934, and possibly 10 million more says the September report on the agricultural situation just released by the O. S. C. agricultural extension service. It is also indicated that purchasing power of farm income per acre will be greater than in any of the previous four years. Cash farm income from 1935 production is placed at 85 million dollars—possibly 90 millions, depending on price trends during the balance of the marketing season. At the higher figure 1935 cash income would approach 75 per cent of the estimated annual average of 124 million from 1928 to 1930. The lower figure, 85 million, is approximately 70 per cent of the 1928-1930 average, but is greater than in any year from 1931 to 1934, both in amount and purchasing power.

In 1934, Oregon cash farm income was approximately 80 million dollars, 70 million in 1933, 58 million in 1932, and 74 million in 1931, according to data given in the circular which also gives the first estimate ever made of Oregon cash farm income in the 1910-1914 prewar "base period." This is placed at an average of 74 million dollars annually, or 60 per cent of the 1928-1930 average. The acreage of all land in Oregon farms from 1910 to 1914 was about 80 per cent of the 1928-1930 acreage and farm prices averaged about 75 per cent of the 1928-1930 level.

In respect to the purchasing power of Oregon farm income in relation to prewar "parity," in the report which was prepared by L. R. Brethaupt, extension economist, gives valuable new estimates of "net" income per acre after deducting taxes and interest payable in the different periods and years.

The old price ratio formula in the Agricultural Adjustment Act is shown to indicate that farm products in Oregon now have a purchasing power, or exchange value for the commodities usually purchased by farmers, of about 70 per cent of parity. The new formula in the 1935 amendments produces a ratio of about 68, owing to the inclusion of taxes and interest in the index of prices paid by farmers.

The net income per acre plan outlined in the circular produces an even lower index of farm purchasing power, as it is estimated that "net" cash income per acre in Oregon in 1935 will have but 56 per cent of the 1910-1914 purchasing power.

"The reasons why the net income per acre method of calculating 'parity' produces a figure for 1935 which is 12 or 14 points under the price ratio method are chiefly (1) farm taxes and interest in Oregon, despite some reductions, are still approximately twice as much per acre as during the 'base period' and (2) crop yields in Oregon in 1935 are expected to fall about 10 per cent below average," says the circular, "although crop yields may be slightly better than in 1934."

The net income per acre formula of calculating parity purchasing power, outlined in the circular, indicates that, compared with 100 in the 1910-1914 base period and 56 for 1935, Oregon farm income in 1934 had a purchasing power of about 53, against 50 in 1933, 39 in 1932, 48 in 1931, and 77 as the 1928-1930 average.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sackett arrived this week from their home in Salem, Mrs. Sackett visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Notson, while Mr. Sackett is enjoying a deer hunting trip.

IONE

By MRS. MARGARET BLAKE

"Most of the men in our little city joined the caravan of deer hunters passing through town the latter part of the past week and spent Sunday in the mountains. So far as can be learned no hunter from here caught even a glimpse of a deer.

Henry Smouse departed Monday for Corvallis to take his son Kenneth down to register for the fall term at O. S. C. They were accompanied by Miss Clara Nelson who will be a junior at O. S. C. this year. Mr. and Mrs. Cole E. Smith went to The Dalles last Saturday to spend a week or so visiting relatives.

Mrs. Mary Cunningham of Post Falls, Idaho, visited her sister, Mrs. Elmer Griffith, over the week end. Mrs. George Allyn of Lexington is staying with Marianne and Walter Corley while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Corley enjoy a hunt.

The Women's Topic club met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Smith for its social meeting last Saturday afternoon. Four tables of bridge were at play, high scores going to Mrs. Roy Lieualen and Mrs. George Tucker.

Charles McElligott returned Sunday from Portland. E. Patrick of Walla Walla, E. S. McKinney of Long Beach, Wash., and S. C. Kurly of Portland were in town Sunday looking at real estate.

Jack Saturday Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crabtree held an auction sale of their farm machinery and household goods at their ranch. E. J. Keller cried the sale which was well attended. Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree left on Sunday morning for Salem where they will make their home in the future. They made the trip with their son-in-law, Roy Stender.

George "Shorty" Calkins, with his wife and family, of Brush, Col., stayed overnight here last Thursday on their way to the Willamette valley where they hoped to find work in the hop fields. Mr. Calkins, a brother-in-law of E. G. Frank, made his home here about fifteen years ago.

The Home Economics club of Willows grange was entertained by Mrs. John Eubanks and Mrs. Walter Eubanks at the latter's home last Friday afternoon. A social time was enjoyed, the meeting being chiefly intended as a farewell party for Mrs. J. E. Crabtree, Mrs. Crabtree was given a shower of handkerchiefs during the afternoon. Refreshments were served. Members present were Mesdames Ida Helker, Hattie Crabtree, Roxie Krebs, Beulah Lundell, Mary Lundell, Etta Bristow, Stella O'Meara, Marie Ledbetter, Elsie Peterson, Anna Krebs, Mary Swanson, Veda Eubanks, Mildred Eubanks, and Misses Helen Lindsay and Dorothy May Brady. Mrs. Della Mobley, Mrs. Sylvia Gorgor, Mrs. Harry Yarnell, Mrs. Otto Lindstrom, Mrs. James Ledbetter and Mrs. J. H. Bryson were invited guests. Mrs. Glenn Copp will be the hostess of the club in October.

On October 30 a council of state officers of the grange will be held at the Legion hall in Ione. State officers will preside at the all day meeting and the public is invited and urged to attend. The program will cover all lines of endeavor sponsored by the granges and each person who attends will be able to join a special group taking up the thing in which he or she is especially interested. Home economics, group entertainment, etc., will be presented. Further particulars will be announced later.

ENTER PACIFIC U.

Pacific University, Forest Grove.—Two Heppner high school graduates of last June entered the freshman class at Pacific university, Forest Grove, last week. They are Miss Frances Rugg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rugg, and Louis Edwin Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dick.

Both of the new freshmen were active in high school activities. Louis participated in football, baseball, debate and dramatics and Frances was active in dramatics, glee club and as yell leader and class officer.

AUXILIARY MEETS MONDAY.

Morrow County Woolgrowers auxiliary will be hosts to Echo and Pendleton units of Umatilla county at 12:45 luncheon meeting at the Lucas Place Monday, Sept. 30. The free knitting school will be held at the library Monday as usual.

O. E. S. MEETS TOMORROW.

The Order of Eastern Star will meet in regular session tomorrow evening, with special entertainment as part of the program. All members are urged to attend.

ELKS MEET TONIGHT.

Heppner lodge 358, B. P. O. Elks, will meet at the hall tonight in regular session, and all members are urged to attend.

Miss Anabel Turner departed on Tuesday for Corvallis where she will enter Oregon State college, having transferred this year from University of Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Phelan have returned from a trip to New York where they were called recently by the death of Mr. Phelan's mother.

MAN KILLED NEAR CASTLE IDENTIFIED

Fall From Train Fatal to Paul Helfenbeck of New Jersey.

LIQUOR GIVES CLUE

Name Gained from Permit Issued at Pendleton; Body Awaits Word from Relatives.

A man who officers believe they have identified as Paul Helfenbeck of West New York, N. J., was killed and badly mutilated on the main line of the Union Pacific west of Boardman near Castle Rock Saturday night when he fell from a moving freight train. The body was brought to Heppner Sunday by Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman and District Attorney S. E. Notson, who were called to investigate, and after being prepared for burial at Phelps Funeral home is awaiting instructions from the family.

There were no clues on the body to indicate who the man might be, but a man riding on the front of the oil tank car with the supposed Helfenbeck said that the dead man had been drinking. The traveling companion also said that the supposed Helfenbeck had boarded the train at Reith. All indications were that he had stopped in Pendleton, which caused officers to make a search there.

The officers found that a strange man giving the name Paul Helfenbeck, West New York, N. J., had purchased a liquor permit there on the 21st, the day before his death. They also found a coat matching the dead man's trousers in one of the barber shops, and in an inside pocket was found a letter to the same Helfenbeck from his wife in New Jersey.

The family was contacted by wire for description of Helfenbeck who was said to have had the end of a little finger nipped off by a machine and had lost all his teeth. These identification marks checked with marks on the dead man. Helfenbeck's identity was established through the chief of police of West New York, and local officers are certain there can be no mistake.

The man on the car with Helfenbeck said the fated man was sitting alone in front of the tank when he last saw him. He said he had warned Helfenbeck about falling off, and himself had crawled under the side of the tank for a snooze. Falling to find Helfenbeck when he awoke, he worked his way clear around the car, and still found no trace of the man. Helfenbeck's bed roll was still on the car, however, and he turned this in to the station agent at Arlington where officers later picked it up, but found no clues as to the owner's identity. Helfenbeck had recently been shaved, his hair cut, and his clothes, aside from the dirt and matting, appeared well kept. He carried a very good watch which had stopped at 7 o'clock, making it appear that 7 o'clock Saturday evening may have been the time of the accident. He also had $1.95 in money in his hip pocket. His age was given at 42.

Peavy Raps Attacks

On Higher Education

Corvallis.—Higher educational institutions are in grave danger from insidious forces which are attempting to destroy this type of public education and ultimately demote it to a secondary position. President Peavy attacked upon legislative appropriations for higher education, the loud wails of the man of wealth when he pays his taxes for education—these are but surface indications of a movement, deep and sinister.

President Peavy advocated development of a social consciousness which would enable students to grapple understandingly with the perplexing problems of social readjustment and at the same time provide more of a safeguard for democracy.

"This nation has developed the greatest industrial geniuses the world ever saw, but our record of social engineering is pitiful and humiliating," President Peavy explained. "It is axiomatic that democracies are founded upon the consent of the governed. The perpetuation of democracy is dependent upon the support of the majority governed. We in America are finding ourselves too close to a condition in which a majority of the governed may, by their votes or otherwise, challenge democracy for falling adequately to provide for the general welfare."

LEXINGTON

By BEULAH B. NICHOLS.

Saturday night is Booster Night at Lexington grange and Mrs. Laura Rice, lecturer, has prepared an excellent program for the occasion. The program starts at 8 o'clock and every grange member is expected to come and bring a friend whom they think might be interested in the grange. Mrs. Rice hopes to have the Heppner school band on hand for a couple of numbers. After the program the remainder of the evening will be spent with games and other forms of amusement.

A reception for the teachers in the local schools was held Friday evening in the high school gymnasium. The affair was planned by the Lexington Parent-Teacher association of which Mrs. Charles Marquardt is president.

Mrs. J. E. Gentry returned home last week from a month's visit with relatives and friends in Baker.

Lester White, Earl Warner, Orville Cutsforth, Paul Smouse, Fred Nelson and a number of others from this community were off to the tall timber early Sunday morning with red hats and guns in quest of the ever elusive deer. Most of them have returned, but without any deer. Better luck next time!

The Lexington grange will sponsor a card party at the grange hall on Friday evening, October 4. Both bridge and 500 will be played. Admission will be 15c each of 25c per couple.

Miss Clara Nelson left Monday for Corvallis to resume her studies at Oregon State college.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Way and family have moved into the Duran house from their Sand Hollow farm. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Campbell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Ingles of Boardman, enjoyed a hunting trip during the week end, although they were not successful in getting their deer.

Kenneth Smouse left Monday morning for Corvallis to continue his studies at Oregon State college.

Mr. and Mrs. Oryz Padberg and family have moved into one of the Barnett houses from their farm in the Clarks Canyon district.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peck and sons attended the North Morrow County fair at Boardman Saturday.

Miss Betty Skyles spent the week end in Portland.

District Official Guest of Lions; Compliments Club

Lion Bud Kilham, deputy district governor, was guest of honor at a postponed meeting of the Lions club Tuesday noon. A member of the Park Rose club in Portland, he was accompanied by the club's president, Frank Clark; its secretary, Ross Jarrett, and past-president, Carl Hanneman.

Mr. Kilham complimented the local club on being one of the liveliest and best clubs in the district, and expressed pleasure with the appearance of Heppner—especially the picturesqueness of the courthouse—as it impressed him on his first visit to this city. Mr. Jarrett recalled being in Heppner shortly after the time of the flood and on occasion had worked in Morrow county harvest fields. Mr. Hanneman issued an invitation to local club members to attend a picnic sponsored by the Park Rose club on the beautiful Hill Military academy grounds to be held October 9, and Mr. Clark told of his automobile trip to Mexico City in July to attend the international convention of Lions clubs.

OLD-TIME BARBER VISITS.

Heppner was still in its swaddling clothes, but none the less a healthy youngster when Holmes Hayman barbered in the old Minor hotel shop some 40-odd years ago. Mr. Hayman came to town this week from his present home at Toledo accompanied by a son, Arthur, of Portland and is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Dee Cox, while the son is enjoying a deer hunt with the Cox boys. Mr. Hayman was last in Heppner 43 years ago and it had been 15 years since he last saw his sister. There is little remaining of the old town, Mr. Hayman found, and he was disappointed in not being able to see more of the old time residents, many of whom have passed on.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS HAVE PARTY

The local Campfire Girls group had an enjoyable party at the Albert Adkins home last evening, with games and refreshments enjoyed by thirteen members, their leader, Miss Dale, and assistant leader, Miss Case. Girls present included Lois Jones, Jean Gemmill, Margaret Tamblin, Jeanette Blakely, Eunice Omis, Katherine Nys, Constance Instone, Shirley Vaughn, Claribel Adams, Carolyn Wilson, Margaret Doolittle and Albert Adkins.

TO HOLD SALE.

Roy Feeley of Ione was in the city this morning announcing an auction sale to be held at his place on Rhea creek Monday, October 7. Included in the many items offered for sale are a number of good horses, milk stock and turkeys. A full list of the items will be found in an advertisement in another place.

LEGION LADIES TO MEET.

The American Legion auxiliary will meet next Tuesday, Oct. 1, at the home of Mrs. Victor Peterson where Mrs. L. E. Dick associate hostess. Installation of officers will be held with Mrs. Harriet Gemmill installing officer.

The Phelps ambulance took Mrs. H. E. Kennedy, sister of the late Luther Hamilton, to Fossil on Tuesday. Mrs. Kennedy will make her home there with a niece.

Paul M. Gemmill has returned home from the Dale section where he was employed for several weeks with the federal road crew.

LUCKY HUNTERS BACK FROM QUEST

Outside Nimrod Brings in 250-Pounder; W. Waldron, Holton Leads in Buck Contest.

Expectations for the opening of the deer season were largely fulfilled as last week end saw an unceasing procession of outside hunting cars passing through the city timberward bound, and the fore part of the week saw many happy hunters returning from the haunts of the famous mule tails with fine prizes of the hunt.

Yesterday T. L. Kellar of La Grande had hung up the prize weight in the Green Hardware company big buck contest, his buck weighing in at 208½ pounds. He was outdistanced this morning by W. Waldron of Holton whose buck weighed 234½, though his is not the largest buck coming to town. An outside hunter by the name of Schultz who had not registered in the contest, weighed in a buck at the Burkenbine market which went 250 pounds. The hunter weighing in the biggest buck in the hardware store contest will receive a fine new $50 rifle.

Just who got his buck to town first has not been determined, though several were brought in Monday morning. Dick Wells is among the first. He went out Monday morning and was back with his deer before noon. Bruce Bothwell also brought in a buck Monday morning, and Scott Furlong and Si Slocum had one between them.

One of the most slated hunters was young Scott McMurdo. Both he and his brother Bernard killed nice bucks on the opening day. W. L. Blakely, Tom Beyer and Burl Coxen composed a one-hundred-percent party, each of them bagging a nice specimen, while Earl T. Fulkeron, soil erosion engineer, Hoemer Hayes, chief of police, Reese Burkenbine, George Bleakman and Harold Case were other successful hunters.

Many more deer have come to town, not a few of them tied to foreign cars, giving indication that early reports of many deer were authentic. However, many nimrods have returned empty handed, and of these some will make a second quest before the season's close.

MRS. A. P. PARKER SUCCUMBS IN FALL

Accident at Salem Fatal to Local Woman, Native of County.

VISIT ENDS SADLY

Had Just Arrived at Home of Brother; Enjoyed Visit With Friends Here Day Before.

Like a bolt out of the blue came news Tuesday evening of the sudden accidental death of Mrs. Arthur Parker in Salem. She fell down the basement stairs in the home of her brother, Lee Reaney, and was killed instantly.

In company with Mr. Parker and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Miller, Mrs. Parker had motored to Salem that day, and had arrived but shortly before the Reaney home when the fatal accident happened. Apparently in the best of health and spirits, Mrs. Parker had spent Monday at the home of her nephew, Andrew Baldwin, in Heppner and that evening had taken dinner with Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Pope. She had also called at the S. E. Notson home and expressed pleasure over the prospective visit to Salem.

Only three weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Parker lost their farm home at the head of Dutton canyon by fire, and nearly all their personal belongings were a complete loss. Their many friends and neighbors came to their assistance with many useful gifts, and the Parkers were enjoying the prospect of reestablishing their home on the farm.

Mrs. R. C. Phelps and Emmet Ayers brought the body here by ambulance and funeral preparations are in charge of Phelps Funeral home. Services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the Methodist church in Heppner, Rev. Joseph Pope officiating, and interment will be in the Lexington I. O. O. F. cemetery.

A sister, Mrs. S. E. Lee, is coming from San Bernardino, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. Della Phelps and Mrs. Mary Lundstrom of Kelso, Wash., arrived last evening.

Emma Pearl Reaney was born March 10, 1891, at Lexington, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reaney who settled on the land claim there 53 years ago. She attended the Lexington schools and her entire life was spent in this county. On September 22, 1912, she was united in marriage to Arthur P. Parker and the first year of their married life was spent in Lexington. They then spent a year on what is known as the old Pedro place, and the next year they were employed on the Evans farm near Lexington. In 1917 place below Heppner where they resided until 1932 when they moved to the Gilman place at the head of Dutton canyon where the home was made until the time of the fire a short time ago.

Surviving relatives besides the husband include five sisters and two brothers. They are Mrs. Hattie Lee of San Bernardino, Cal.; Mrs. Della Phelps and Mrs. Mary Lundstrom of Kelso, Wash.; Mrs. Hazel Budden of Boise, Idaho, and Mrs. Edith Miller of Lexington; Lee Reaney of Salem and Lawrence Reaney of Vancouver, Wash.

For many years Mrs. Parker had been a member of the Rebekah church and of the Rebekah lodge.

Co-op. Council Meeting

Draws National Leaders

Some of the leading national authorities in the field of cooperative marketing will be in Portland Friday, September 27, to appear on the program of the special meeting of the Oregon Cooperative council called for that day. The meeting will be held in the Multnomah hotel starting at 10 o'clock.

Invitations to present council members as well as to officers and executive associations in Oregon have been extended by Paul Carpenter, secretary-treasurer of the council and marketing specialist at Oregon State college.

Among the speakers on the program will be H. M. Bain, deputy commissioner of the bank for cooperatives in the Farm Credit administration for Washington, D. C. He is in charge of the division of research, education and service. Another prominent speaker will be Robin Hood, secretary of the National Cooperative council, from Washington, D. C., who is one of the pioneers in the cooperative marketing movement and conversant with the relation of cooperatives to the AAA. A number of other speakers from Oregon and neighboring states are listed.

Free picture show, Star theater, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, sponsored by Blackburn-Jones Motor Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bartholomew were in the city today from the Pine City district.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hughes of Umapine are visitors in the city today.
