Official Paper for Morrow County

The Die is Cast.

CONVENING of the second session of the 74th congress this week accompanied by President Roosevelt's address on the state of the union broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup, closely followed by supreme court's ruling the Agricultural Adjustment act unconstitutional, this week focused public attention upon Washington. The stage is rapidly being set for evolution of major issues which will play important roles in the fall presidential election.

It is not improbable that soldiers' bonus, social security, stabilized currency, balanced budget, and the numerous other issues will be cast into the background by a forced test of constitutional government itself. A deft was issued by the president in his address to congress when he said, in effect, "the congress can find ways of enforcing its own prerogatives and powers..." apparently in anticipation of the high court's adverse ruling on New Deal acts.

In former utterances the executive threatened the high judiciary if it dared not to accede to the will of the legislative branch as dictated by the executive. The threat conveyed the possibility of enlarging the judiciary department and filling it with men who would bow to the executive will.

The present crossing up of the New Dealers by the supreme court may or may not increase the tenseness between the constituted branches of government, each of which is delegated separate and distinct powers by the constitution. If the president maintains a determined course in accomplishing his aims regardless of the judiciary department, the issue will loom large.

That the supreme court was not unmindful of the effect its decision might have on the general public welfare is shown by the fact that it waited until congress had convened before making the decision known. Such action makes it possible for congress to act immediately on measures which may be needed to bolster the economic structure where it rested upon New Deal's AAA.

It may be expected that congress will act rapidly to provide necessary bolstering for whatever the future of AAA may be, nothing will be left undone to preserve the government's integrity. The $500,000,000 still owing by the government on unfulfilled contracts will undoubtedly be appropriated and a new source of taxation found to supplant the processing taxes nullified by the court's decision. Certain it is there will be no delay in making the government's promise good to those who fulfilled their part of contracts with the government but have not yet been paid.

There is nothing in the supreme court's decision which attacks the underlying principle of controlled production, such as has been applied to wheat growing in this section. The supreme court's action merely takes issue with the right of congress to usurp rights reserved to the states and to the people by the constitution. It denies the right of congress to levy taxes for money to be used in purchasing compliance. Such purchase interferes with voluntary compliance and is contrary to constitutional safeguard of the people's rights.

A question at issue is how far congress may delegate extra-constitutional powers unto itself in legislating for the public welfare. The supreme court has not taken issue with congress in that the public welfare was served by AAA. It did point out that a dangerous precedent had thus been set in that should congress apply the same principle to business and industry generally, all business and industry would be subservient to the will of the legislative branch of government.

There is need for cool, clear-headed thinking by citizens of the United States just now in determining the future course of government. A crisis is present like unto many previous crises from which the constitution emerged unscathed. Clear thinking will again uphold its wisdom in providing a strong judiciary to assure fair and impartial administration of government.

They Lead.

WHEN the Oregon Woolgrowers association meets at Baker this week end, its sessions will be called to order by J. G. Abratt of this city. He has served as the association's president for the last year. At the recent convention of the Eastern Oregon Wheat League in Pendleton, Harvey Miller of Lexington was chosen as president of that group. Recently selected to head the state high school athletic association was Edward F. Bloom, local school superintendent. Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers through election to the vice-presidency of Oregon State Teachers association at its recent meeting in Portland will serve as president of that body next year.

This is Morrow county providing leadership for large state and sectional organizations. So many heads of so many organizations at one time from a county of relatively small population is a distinction of which to be proud. With such leaders in our midst, Morrow county's light most assuredly will not be hidden under a bushel.

WPA Cuts Road Cost.

A SAVING of 30 to 40 percent on road construction work is being made on four projects in Morrow county through assistance of WPA. Without WPA help the projects probably could not have been undertaken at this time. WPA has furnished fuel, oil, building materials and hand labor to the amount of the saving.

Compared with CWA and SERA, WPA has been a great improvement. The projects are better planned, and the sentiment of the sponsors seems to be that more worthwhile work is being accomplished. The feeling between the sponsors and WPA is one of mutual helpfulness and cooperation, and under these conditions much good can be done.

CARD OF THANKS.

We extend our sincere thanks to the people of Ione, the neighbors and friends, those who assisted with the music, and all who gave their help and sympathy in the bereavement of our mother, Mrs. Alice McTabob. We especially appreciate the large floral tributes.

COURT PROCEEDINGS FOR DECEMBER TERM

County Court met on December 4, 1935, when were present: Wm. W. Peck, County Judge; George N. Peck, Commissioner; Frank S. Parker, Commissioner; C. W. Barlow, County Clerk; J. D. Bauman, District Attorney; C. J. D. Bauman, Sheriff. Minutes of the November term of Court were read and approved. The various cases were presented and either approved or disapproved. Those approved were ordered paid from the proper fund. Those disapproved were ordered to be paid by the party. The Engineer's reports for the vacation of C. D. Huston et al. for road in Blackhawk and the road in Morrow County during the year 1935. The court having received the amount of State tax due and which should be given to the county, the court made the final adoption of the Budget as follows: State and County $88,837.57; General School $14,597.00. The court appropriated the sum of $2150 for use in and about agricultural or farm demonstration and field work in Morrow County during the year 1936, subject to the supervision of the State Agricultural College. The court ordered the amount of $2000 for the appropriations that were overdrawn.
