- $108.59 to County

SALEM.—Of the more than $32,000 in liquor tax revenues distributed to Oregon counties and cities this week by Secretary of State Snell, $108.59 went to Morrow county and $40.54 to the city of Heppner.

The long predicted retirement of Jack E. Allen of Pendleton as state liquor administrator will materialize Friday afternoon.

Allen, who became liquor administrator last April, is understood to have been ready to step out of the picture in October because of lack of harmony within the liquor control organization.

George M. Aitken of Garden Home, state senator from Washington county, is not a candidate for a state job he declared on a visit to Salem this week.

Senator Peter Zimmerman of Yamhill county whose district was cut out from under him when the legislature took Washington and Yamhill counties out of the twenty-fourth district, is understood to be flirting with the notion of coming out as an independent candidate for Congress.

Otto Hartwig, former member of the Industrial Accident commission, is now employed by the new Unemployment Compensation commission as a public relations man.

The first issue of a new monthly publication to be edited by inmates of the state prison will be off the press shortly after the first of February.

The budgetary control authority vested in Governor Martin and his budget director by the legislature of 1935 was put into effect this week.

Except for those actively supporting or opposing the measures on the state ballot little interest is being manifested in Friday's special election according to reports reaching Salem from over the state.

The proposed constitutional amendment permitting the legislators to fix their own rate of pay is not expected to pass. While most voters admit the lawmakers in this state are under paid they do not take kindly to the proposal to leave the adjustment of the per diem to those who will benefit thereby.

Vocal sentiment throughout the state seems to be pretty well divided on the student fee bill, with opponents of the measure having the advantage of the "no" votes usually cast by those who are indifferent as to the fate of a measure.

Here's something more to worry about. A group of tax experts have just discovered what they regard as another serious flaw in the old age pension bill as amended by the recent special session.

Employees of municipal corporations do not come under the provisions of the new unemployment compensation act, according to a ruling by the commission.

Material improvement in the employment situation in Oregon is indicated by the semi-annual report of the Industrial Accident commission.

George G. Brown who has resigned as clerk of the state land board effective April 1 is the oldest employee of the state in point of continuous service.

Farm Price Prospects Lower for Spring Crops

The market outlook for a good many spring sown crops seems less favorable than for farm products in general, owing to probable trends in production, according to the annual report of the O. S. C. extension service on the outlook for spring sown crops and vegetables.

The general tendency is toward increased production of the animal crops, especially grain and hay, according to the report, although the outlook is variable, according to the commodity considered.

livestock and improved consumer purchasing power, the report says. Commenting on the current farm price, cost and demand situation, the circular indicates that at mid-January the general level of farm prices in Oregon was unchanged to slightly lower, compared with the November-December level.

The cost of farming, on the other hand, as indicated by the government index of prices paid by farmers for commodities, taxes and interest payable, was 26 per cent higher than pre-war, placing the "parity" exchange value point 31 points over the current farm price level in Oregon, the circular points out.

The advance in farm income is shown by the report to have been approximately proportionate to the increase in factory payrolls. For the year 1932 the Oregon farm price index averaged 46 per cent of the 1926-1930 level, and the factory payroll index also averaged 46 in that year.

Seat Pads on Wooden Chairs Save Clothing

Straight varnished or painted chairs, some of which are found in almost every home, not only sometimes seem a little plain and uninteresting, but often are somewhat uncomfortable. And they tend to make clothing shiny.

To make a seat pad, cut the desired number of thicknesses of cotton batting the exact shape of the chair seat, but half an inch smaller on all sides.

from knotting when the pads are laundered. The outside cover is merely a slip that may be put over the pad and closed with snaps at the back or basted together. Make tapes of the same material to tie the pad to the chair posts.

The back pad is measured and fitted in a similar way, and kept at the right height on the chair by sewing tapes to the top corners and snapping them just below the top bar of the chair back.

Col. Robins Recommends Low River Improvement

A ship channel 300 feet wide and 27 feet deep at low water as an aid to navigation of the Columbia river between Vancouver and Bonneville has been approved by Colonel Thos. M. Robins, United States division engineer, in a report to the chief engineer at Washington, it was announced yesterday.

Such improvement, estimated to cost $2,380,000, would open the Columbia river as far inland as The Dalles to the smaller ocean-going vessels and pave the way for port developments at The Dalles, Hood River, White Salmon, Stevenson and other points.
