STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Legislative Posts 448 Candidates Interest, Not Taxes By A. L. LINDBECK

SALEM.—Sixty legislators—51 representatives and nine senators—who served during the last session aspire to continue in the service of the state either in the same capacity or in some other and, generally, more remunerative position.

Of the 15 state senators whose terms are expiring, nine are candidates for re-election. These include J. G. Barratt of Heppner, Allan A. Bynon of Portland, Henry L. Corbett of Portland, Robert M. Duncan of Burns, Walter S. Fisher of Roseburg, Dorothy McCullough Lee of Portland, Isaac E. Staples, formerly of Portland but now of Tillamook; W. H. Stelwer of Fossil and N. G. Wallace of Bend. The six senators who are retiring from public life include Geo. M. Aitken of Garden Home, N. A. Booddy of Portland, James T. Chincock of Grants Pass, James H. Hazlett of Hood River, Henry L. Hess of La Grande, and Peter Zimmerman of Yamhill.

Seven senators and former senators aspire to seats in the national Congress. Sam H. Brown, republican, wants to go to the United States senate. Curtis D. Stringer of Lebanon, Byron G. Carney of Milwaukie, C. D. Nickelson of Hood River, Roy W. Rittner of Pendleton, Phil Yates of Wasco and Charles M. Thomas of Portland are in the race for Congress. Stringer and Carney are democrats. The others are republicans. Former state senator Ashby C. Dickson, democrat, Portland, is a candidate for the circuit court judgeship in Multnomah county. Congressman Walter M. Pierce of La Grande, candidate for re-election, is also a former state senator.

Of the 51 representatives who are candidates for nominations on the primary ballot four seek promotion to the state senate. These include Homer D. Angell of Portland, William L. Dickson of Portland, W. A. Johnson of Grants Pass, and E. L. Ross of Hillsboro. Four others aspire to still higher honors and are candidates for Congressional nominations in their respective districts. These include E. W. Kirkpatrick of Milwaukie, C. P. Haight of Canyon City and Warren Erwin and Nanny Wood Honeymoon of Portland. All four are democrats. Howard Latourette, another Portland democrat who presided as speaker of the House at the special session, now aspires to be head man of the party in Oregon and is a candidate for national committee man. Harry Frazier, Molalla democrat, is a candidate for district attorney of Clackamas county. The nine House members who failed to file in the state primary are J. R. Caulfield of Tillamook, William L. Graham of Portland, Wm. W. Knight of Roseburg, Roscoe Krier of The Dalles, J. A. McKevitt of Eugene, Victor J. Nelson of Portland, William C. Rankin of Portland, Millard D. Rodman of Culver, and James H. E. Scott of Milton. Graham has a job with the state as deputy real estate commissioner.

A number of veterans of previous sessions also aspire to stage a comeback in the forthcoming campaign. Frank H. Hilton, former House member, seeks to represent Multnomah county in the senate. Other former representatives who would be content with their old seats include A. M. Janssen of Washington county; Arthur McPhillips of Clackamas county, Arthur McPhillips of Yamhill county, and Fred J. Meindl, W. C. North, Denton G. Burdick, John H. Hall, John B. McCourt, F. H. Dammasch and Frank J. Lonergan of Multnomah county. Burdick and Lonergan have both served as speakers of the House. Congressman James W. Mott of Salem is also a former member of the lower House of the Oregon legislature.

Jack E. Allen of Pendleton, former state senator, is a candidate for the democratic nomination for state treasurer, and P. J. Stadelman of The Dalles who served a year as secretary of state, is out for the republican nomination for the senate from the Hood River-Wasco district.

After the candidates finally made up their minds—several withdrawing after filing their declarations—a total of 448 remain in the primary race. Of these 248 are republicans, 178 are democrats and 21 are non-partisan candidates for judicial positions. There are 257 candidates for legislative posts—143 republicans and 114 democrats. Thirty-four republicans and 23 democrats aspire to fill the 16 available senate seats and 109 republicans and 91 democrats want to serve in the House.

For the first time in many years the democrats have a complete state ticket. The republicans, on the other hand, have a number of vacancies on the primary ballot. There is no republican candidate for the state senate from Douglas county and no candidate filed for nominations in the 17th, 27th, 28th, 32nd and 33rd representative districts.

Thirty-three republicans and 17 democrats want to attend the national conventions of their respective parties as delegates from Oregon. Only ten seats are allotted to this state in each convention. The republicans have 17 candidates from the state at large with only four seats available.

The legislative interim committee on penal institutions, meeting in Portland this week adopted a program which will be presented to the next session with a view to making the state prison self-supporting. According to Senator Lesnard, chairman of the committee, the program includes the manufacture of automobile tags and highway signs, brooms, shoes and clothing used by inmates of all state institutions.

Bonds owned by the state land board have increased by $132,694.76 over their cost according to an appraisal just completed at the request of state Treasurer Holman. Present value of the board's investment in federal, state and school district bonds is placed at $2,999,856.89. None of the bonds held by the board were appraised at less than par.

Oregon is on the eve of a great development in the flax and linen industry in the opinion of Governor Martin. Facilities of the state prison flax plant have been offered to the Champagne Paper corporation, manufacturers of cigarette paper, for use in processing their flax crop in the Willamette valley. If experiments now being conducted by this company prove successful it is expected that a large acreage will be devoted to flax for cigarette paper alone.

Young republicans around the state house are threatening a counter attack to purge republican controlled departments of democratic employees in retaliation against the young democrats who insist on monopolizing all of the minor jobs in democratic controlled departments.

Income tax payments to the state this year promise to exceed estimates of the tax commission by approximately $500,000 based upon returns to April 1. Members of the commission said it would take at least two weeks to tabulate the returns that flooded the department on the last day for filing.

W. L. Gossain, secretary to Governor Martin, is leader of the young democratic group and generally credited with doing out the jobs to the youthful followers of Jefferson, Jackson, et al. David Hoss, son of the late Hal E. Hoss, former secretary of state, is leader of the young republicans.
