Local Students Among 398 Graduated at OSC

Among the 398 graduates who received their diplomas this week amidst the colorful ceremonies of the sixty-eighth annual commencement at Oregon State college was Edgar Whitney Houghton of Irigoin, engineering major. The occasion was marked by the presence of high officials of the state's educational system, including Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter, taking part in his first such occasion in Oregon, and D. W. J. Kerr, chancellor emeritus, participating in the exercises at O. S. C. for the twenty-ninth consecutive year. One of three recipients of honorary degrees of doctor of science conferred by Dr. Kerr on behalf of the institution was Ira N. Gabrielson, who succeeded J. N. "Ding" Darling as chief of the United States biological survey. Gabrielson, who was for 20 years stationed in Oregon and the northwest, came from Washington, D. C., to receive the honor. The other two given the honorary degrees are R. K. Brodie, graduate of Oregon State and University of Chicago who has become director of manufacturing and technical research for the Proctor and Gamble company, and J. A. Hansen, Corvallis, international authority on poultry breeding and first to apply commercially the principle of heredity egg-production characteristics.

Addressing the graduating class was Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, former president of the University of Missouri, who spoke on "Your Business." Dr. Brooks departed from the usual procedure among modern college commencement speakers by speaking as a college man to college people on their past and future business, rather than using the occasion to discuss the state of the universe. Far better employment conditions than for a number of years resulted in most of the graduates who desired them being placed in positions before they received their diplomas.

crowded into the time. But before leaving this mountain milling metropolis, stress must be placed on the opportunity provided the visitors to see the milling operation itself under guides who patiently explained any questions which might be asked above the din of the machinery. Among Morrow county people who enjoyed the day at Kinzua were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine E. Isom, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oviatt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gentry, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Crawford, C. J. D. Bauman, R. C. Phelps, Merle Becket, Claude Cox, Miss Nancy Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Akers, Harold and Howard Evans, Miss Lois Oliver, Al Massey, Rod Thomson, Heppner; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Windrow Baler Found Practical Farm Machine

A windrow pick-up hay baler operated by three men in addition to the tractor driver is now in use in some commercial hay producing sections. Its operation and possible future were recently reported on by Clyde Walker, associate professor of agricultural engineering at OSC. Tests made at other experiment stations show that the capacity of such a baler for a full season is around 1.5 tons per hour, though it has a theoretical capacity of close to five tons an hour. Those who have used this new type outfit say it is economical in labor costs, and permits putting up a better quality hay than when extra handling is practiced. Weather conditions would be more of a factor with this outfit, believes Professor Walker, though in commercial hay sections of eastern Oregon growers would encounter little difficulty from this source.

TO ENTERTAIN MEMBERS. Officers of Morrow County Wool-growers auxiliary will entertain members of the organization at the home of Mrs. Ralph I. Thompson, president, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bloom and Kay Elizabeth will leave tomorrow for Pendleton. After a short visit there they expect to go on to Seattle, returning to Portland in time for the meeting of school superintendents and National Education Association convention.

OSC 4-H Summer School Ready for Record Crowd

Four-H club boys and girls in every county in Oregon are busily making preparations to attend the twenty-second annual 4-H summer school which opens at O. S. C. Monday, June 8. Most of them are expected to arrive on the campus Sunday.

The enrollment this year is expected to exceed 1200, filling all available dormitory space. The fraternities and sororities have cooperated by making their chapter houses available to accommodate the overflow of some 800 club members.

The general procedure at summer school this year will be the same as in the past, with classes in the forenoon, general assemblies with prominent speakers in the afternoons, followed by sports and other recreation, and evenings filled with parties, moving pictures, games, and similar entertainment. A new feature this year will be "amateur night," when everyone will have a chance to display his or her particular talents.

Classes for both boys and girls this year cover a wider variety of subjects than ever before, with opportunity to "major" in some particular phase of the work, and with special lectures and demonstrations on topics of general interest, such as safe driving, first aid, and many others. A highlight of the two weeks session for the girls will be style revue night, Tuesday, June 16, when Mrs. Laverne Axelson, stylist at Meier & Frank's department store of Portland will bring a staff of models to the campus to show the clubbers not only the new styles of the year, but just how a real style revue is staged.

ROSICRUCIANS TO MEET. C. A. Miller, local Rosicrucian, announces a meeting of the order at Walla Walla beginning June 14 in the Windsor room of the Marcus Whitman hotel. Membership meetings will be held Sunday and Monday, the 14th and 15th, and a public lecture on the 16th including two talking motion pictures, "Lemuria, the Lost Continent" and "The Human Crucible." Cecil A. Poole, K. R. C., member of the national board of lectureship of the Rosicrucian order, AMORC, will address the meetings.
