Must Continue Fight

F THE inland empire of Oregon Washington and Idaho is to obtain the benefits of river transporpeople must continue to fight. A recent ruling of the board of army engineers has put that body on record as favoring construction of a high dam at The Dalles and other dams on the lower river ahead of the Umatilla rapids development.

This procedure means putting far into the background any immediate use of the river for transportation of inland empire products. Well advised authorities say that slack water transportationaimed at by construction of lower river dams first-is not essential to successful barge transportation. With completion of present channel development as far as Umatilla rapids, barges may be profitably operated up the river to that point. The Umatilla rapids must be dammed, however, before barges can be operated beyond that point.

The Inland Empire Waterways association is set upon obtaining the Umatilla rapids project as the next step in the river's development. This association is the only organization comprehensive enough tackle the job of putting the fight through. The success it attains in putting the fight across, however, depends on the support of the people of the inland empire.

The waterways association has scheduled a meeting to be held in Walla Walla, June 20, when the fight will be planned. All interested farm and other organization leaders of the county should make it a point to attend.

Morrow county, along with the rest of the inland empire, must have the advantages of river transportation before its products can have near an even break with other sections in domestic and world mar-

Has He Forgotten?

A recent issue of The Family Cirings by famous men which in sucding years were recalled by an unforgetting public and served to embarrass those giving utterance. Some of the expressions used by Herbert Hoover were stressed, as ance, "I do not choose to run."

The article might well have contained a declaration by an Oregon rye grass seeded at the same time politician who travelled up and on an adjoining plot has practicaldown he state a few years back ly disappeared, reports ing the aspirant in the state's executive mansion.

But after four years of that "great deliverer" should be given an opportunity to return to his good in his section so far the tion to the white faced calves...

Despite this thoughtfulness on the part of the majority of the state's voters the great apostle of lower taxes was not to remain long in seclusion with his herds. The voice of the people was calling for his services in a broader capacity and he was elevated to congress. He is now in the running for a third term but is not saying any-thing about cutting taxes in half. It is too early to predict just what the campaign in this district will involve but we know our Walter will not be lacking in anything to say about his achievements and he will doubtless exercise care in avoiding anything that will act as a boomerang, such as the tax promise.

The Pendleton East Oregonion appears to be between the devil and the deep blue sea anent the opening of the Republican national convention at Cleveland. Headlining its lead story on the major news break of the day, "Tension Marks Opening Session of Convention, Leaders Frown," it plainly shows its news coloring tendency favoring the Roosevelt administration. At the same time it displays the pic-ture of keynote speaker Frederick "former Pendleton resident," in prominent front page po-sition. Naturally it cannot help but show a soft spot for that old friend and neighbor who was the focal center of public attention at the convention's opening and who bids fair to be one of the leaders of his party's ticket at the convention's close. "Landon and Steiwer" would be a tough combination for the democrats to beat in the fall.

It's a natural.
