John Eubanks returned on last Thursday from The Dalles where he has been confined in the hospital for nearly three months. Although he will have to remain flat on his back for several weeks longer he has made very good recovery from his serious accident.

Mrs. Bert Mason motored to Spokane last week for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Delzell. On her return she was accompanied by Mrs. Fred Mankin who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Misner, at Thornton, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Keithley Blake and daughter, Betty Belle, of Kinzua spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Blake.

Miss Dorothy Howell who has been at Hermiston for several weeks returned home Friday.

The library committee of the Women's Topic club has been busy getting the new quarters for the library ready for occupancy. Bert Mason has arranged his hardware storeroom so that the east end of it can be used by the library. Shelves have been rebuilt to fit the room and when complete very attractive and roomy quarters will house the library. School district No. 9 (Ella) has loaned its library books to the club to be placed on the shelves.

Mrs. Cynthia Cochran went to Lone Rock on Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Carrie Cason.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Smith and children have returned from La Grande.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keihn and daughter Luwina stopped here Friday on their way to their home in John Day, to call on old friends.

C. J. Latham of Salem spent last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rietmann. He is owner of some land north of Ione.

Charles Hudson of Pendleton was looking after his land interests here last Friday.

SOME THINGS OF INTEREST

business, a business which in this case had a million-dollar turnover. All of which helps to substantiate Jerry's statement that Los Angeles is destined to be the world's largest city. We were there four years ago just as the depression was beginning to be felt. Los Angeles is busier now than it was then, though on our previous visit more visitors had been drawn to town to see the Olympic games. Los Angeles is leading coast cities in attracting new industries, and its growth now contrasted with that of boom days is on a sounder foundation. The boom promoters laid the basis for the substantial business life now developing, and with real estate values just emerging from the low ebb, there appears every reason to believe that Jerry may be right. To begin with Los Angeles is already the largest city in the United States, geographically, and its Western avenue is said to be the longest street in the world—some 60 miles.

We stayed in Hollywood at the home of Mart King, Mrs. Crawford's brother who spent some time in Heppner as a boy, and who plays trombone in the Paramount orchestra. Mart has a fine home in Hollywood hills which he built himself, and is happy with his wife and two-year-old son. From Hollywood one gets a close-up of the large movie industry, still the largest income producer in Los Angeles. We didn't get a close-up of any celebrities, but we did meet one actor who it was our pleasure to see later in a feature at one of the theaters. This man took the part of a criminal on the screen, but off the screen he was a cultured and refined gentleman, a contrast that adds somewhat to appreciation of the actor's art. In Hollywood, it seems, everyone is "in pictures" or "not in pictures."

The trip down and back was made without mishap except for one blowout. We went the inland route all the way, taking the Heppner-Spray road, the Service creek cut-off and Ochoco highway to The Dalles-California highway over the Klamath Falls-Weed cut-off to the Pacific highway. Leaving Heppner shortly after 5 in the morning, July 9, we reached Woodland, Cal., at 8:30 that evening. Spending the night in an auto camp there, we started on the next morning and reached the King home in Hollywood at 7:30 that evening—a two day trip, made through heavy traffic much of the way which did not permit fast driving. A fact which shows Heppner and Los Angeles are not so far apart after all.

Reports throughout California were of heavier travel, and the heavy traffic everywhere was a substantiation.

That the world is a small place after all was impressed upon us by one incident on the return. We Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to consignee's door.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

returned by way of the coast highway from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Stopping at Pismo beach for gas, we were accosted by the service man who had noted the Oregon license. "Portland?" he asked. "No-o, eastern Oregon—Heppner," we replied. "Know the Notsons?" he quizzed. "Yes, we remembered her as having taught school at Heppner. He informed us that she was then nursing in a sanitarium at Pismo. The young man's name developed to be Ryan, a native of Oregon City, and his brother had been a fraternity brother of Bob Notson's at Willamette university.

The heat was excessive when the road strayed away from the ocean breezes, but fog was falling over San Francisco on arrival there in the evening. The cold air was conducive to the heavy slumber taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Crawford in Sausalito. Leaving there shortly before noon, the drive was made to Fort Klamath where stop for the night was made at 11 o'clock. Home was reached by 4:30, via the same route taken going, yesterday afternoon.

There was heat every place—except the evening in the San Francisco bay region, and some places were a lot hotter than Heppner, which may be some comfort to home folk.

gave 45 percent of the cost. If the movement is sponsored by a responsible organization, such as the city or county, WPA might even loan the other 55 percent. All local labor would be used in construction work.

Matter of location for the tank is still undecided. Choice seems to rest between the hill site back of the court house and the property in the creamery block. Suggestion was made that the down-town site offered possibilities of developing a playground park as well as a place for the swimming tank.

It is not deemed possible to get the tank built in time for use this to the big Heppner show.

The official staff of the Heppner Rodeo association includes Henry Aiken, president; L. L. Gilliam, secretary, and R. B. Ferguson, Edwin Hughes, Tony Vay and Walter Blackburn, directors.

First indication of Rodeo activity was seen this week when Bill Francis put his pony express team in training on the local track. Other exhibitors are expected to open training activities during the next week or so.

The association is desirous of making the parade more of a feature this year and invitations have been extended to all civic groups, fraternal orders and individuals to enter floats. Suitable prizes will be awarded and it is hoped the competition will be lively.

T. Morris Dunne, member of the unemployment insurance commission, and Ralph Campbell, attorney for the commission, left Sunday night for Concord, N. H., to attend a three-day conference of officials from states whose unemployment insurance laws have already been approved.

The city fire department last evening assisted in burning off most of the drying grass about town. The fire truck and hose carts were put in readiness to guard against spread of the flames, as fire was set to the grass on vacant lots and other places where the dry grass might be a fire menace. It was a good piece of work, though a warm job for the fire boys.
