"Lend a Hand, Boys!"

THEY RE stampedin', boys! On I your hosses and lend a hand!' As the boss of the Bar X shouted at wrangling time, so the heads of the Heppner Rodeo are entitled to sound the clarion call for all hands to get set for the big fifteenth presentation of Heppner's fall festival, now only three weeks away.

There's work to be done, and aplenty, if this year's show is to excel the fine performances of the past. Not everyone can climb into the saddle of a bucking brone, but everyone can prepare to do his bit—a float or other entry in the parade, an entry in the lists with the fast little pony (or maybe to twirl a lariat over the head of a heifer), or in one of a thousand little ways that will add to the occasion. One thing everyone can surely do is plan to attend and exhibit the Rodeo regalfa. The more colorful the crowd the more attraction and fun there is for everyone. There's work to be done, and there is for everyone.

And don't forget that parade, folks. The usual list of generous prizes is being made up and will be released soon. Then there's the 4-H club fair and wool and grain show. They need your support, too.

That Pesky Mosquito.

Have you had your mosquito bite yet?

It's the fashion just now in Heppner. The city appears to be overrun by the largest number of the pesky varmints of late record, and apparently this new generation has a puncturing proboscis of prepon-derous proportions and the result of its boring blossoms forth in bur-densome blotches of unbecoming prominence.

Just where the singing horde got their start is unknown. Some say they blew in from the south, east, north or west. But they're here, that's certain. They especially de-light in ankle meat, attest those who irrigate in their house slippers; but if that dainty is not available, a slice of the neck is preferred.

Sam Notson advises the varmints may breed in tin cans, or most any receptacle in which water is left standing. And do they breed! If maybe you can count 'em.

If you've had your bite, and so are in the present vogue, take note of the breeding places about you. A little oil on the water will stop them—then we can all start worrying about black widow spiders

A CONTRAST IN METHODS

IN 1917-1918 THE WAR CONGRESS and Woodrow Wilson got trained men, adding nearly 400 thousand Government employees to the rolls, after they had passed Civil Service examinations to test their fitness. In 1933-1935 New Deal Congresses and Franklin D. Roosevelt reduced

Civil Service employees, but boosted the Federal payroll 600 million dollars, by putting on 250 thousand non-Civil Service employees. Wilson used the Merit System, Roosevelt the Spoils System. Civil Service employees may not engage in political activities. But non CIVII Service employees, appointed through political influence, are expected to be politically active.
