DOLITICS was forgotten in the celebration at Long Creek last Friday, That is said with reservations, however, for candidates were circulating among the people gath-ered in the little town for the day and no doubt fences were being ing it was a different story. The candidates kept their political ambitions in the background and entered wholeheartedly into the spirit occasion. When one stops and thinks about two candidates for congress being on the program and there was no allusion to governmental affairs, aside from road building, it is cause for pondering. But such was the case and it is fair to Congressman Pierce only Roy Ritner, who seeks to and succed him that their contributions to the program were delightful No doubt both gentlehighlights. men made friends at Long Creek.

The congressman was congratulating the Grant county folks upon the completion of the new highway link, pointing out the benefits to be derived from this and other routes either under construction or contemplated. Prin-cipal of those under construction the Starkey-Ukiah road, which, when completed, will give La Grande and other centers of north-eastern Oregon access to the John Day region. "Our people are only waiting the completion of the Starkey-Uklah road to come through this way to Portland and other districts west and south," stated Mr. Pierce. And Pendleton is on the Old Oregon Trail. The crowd took this statement just as Mr. Pierce meant it-a compliment to

REGISTER AND VOTE

There is a nation-wide drive to induce all persons who are legal voters to register and vote. A number of articels have appeared in the public press recently in which the writers stress the fact that a large percentage of the voters of the country do not appear to ap-preciate the American form of government. If our form of govern-ment is to be effective, it is necessary that the people exercise their right to express themselves at the polls. It is not only a right, but a duty to take part in the elections. If a large percentage of the voters fail in this duty, it gives the small, but active, groups an opportunity to control the government. In recent years, not quite fifty percent of the voters have, on an average, appeared at the polls. Under such circumstances, it happens that a small minority controls. This gives the opponents of our form of gov-ernment the argument that a democracy is a failure.

If you are not registered, or if you have allowed your registration to lapse, or if you have changed your name by marriage, see to it that you register correctly. Then inform yourself on the issues and candidates, and on election day be sure to vote.
