British Columbia Verdant Field for Thrill Seeker

A trip through British Columbia is worth anybody's time and money, according to J. O. Turner who, with Mrs. Turner and son Don, completed a week's tour of the province to the north Monday.

The Turners left Heppner August 18 and drove to Seattle. From there they took the boat, Princess Kathleen, to Victoria, B. C., shipping their car. After a 50-minute stop in Victoria they moved on to Vancouver where it was their good fortune to see part of the Golden Jubilee celebration. Their particular interest was in the Chinese display. Interested in the exposition, the Heppner party missed a $600,000 fire which destroyed several buildings in a quarter of the city.

Leaving Vancouver, the Turners started for Revelstoke, a drive of approximately 450 miles. They had planned to cover the distance in one day but Mother Nature had other plans which halted them. A cloudburst between Lytton and Spence's Bridge created havoc with the highway and the travelers, along with several hundred others, were marooned for several hours, while highway and railroad crews cleared debris from their lines. In this connection, Turner told of an incident which proves that luck travels with some people. A young woman was driving along the highway when the cloudburst struck. She had just crossed the bridge when it went out. Shortly after that the slide which held up travel for hours covered the highway just behind her.

The Heppner party did not reach Revelstoke that night. They stayed at Kamloops, driving on to Revelstoke the next day. There they took the train, passengers, baggage and car, and rode for about 115 miles, passing through the 5-mile Connaught tunnel, said to be the longest double track bore in the world. This stretch of railroad crosses the roughest part of the Rockies. The train was left at Golden and the party drove to Field, near where the Columbia runs down one side of the divide and the Missouri starts its course toward the midwest of the United States.

Lake Louise is a beautiful place and Banff was found to be very popular—with people who had more money than anything else. To the Heppner travelers, the national parks, three of which, Yoho, Banff and Kootenai, were visited, there was much of interest. The native wild animals and other wild life add color to the picture, while the roads within the parks are much better than the highways leading to them.

The return to Heppner was made on Highway 395, the Three Flags route, through Spokane to Pasco. At a point on the Oregon side below Wallula the Turners came upon a wreck in which three women were badly injured. The sight of one woman badly burned, another with three fractures on one limb, and the third woman with an injured back had a tendency to take the joy out of the trip. Aside from this unpleasant feature, the travellers recommend a jaunt to British Columbia to those who seek something different.

Long Creek

(Continued from First Page) start and the intervening years have seen more than $150,000,000 spent on Oregon roads and the end is not yet in sight.

Mr. Pierce pointed to the fact that during his term as governor he urged the highway commission to ride down into the John Day valley and see what could be done about a highway through the region. The commission's report was not favorable at first but eventually the road was built and the benefits to the region have fully justified every dollar spent. The speaker likewise paid R. H. Baldock a glowing tribute as the originator and developer of the oil-rock binder surfacing for state highways, not only in Oregon but in the United States.

Mr. Baldock recited some history of the Oregon highway system and the John Day highway in particular, with reference to the new road, assuring his listeners that the money is being spent where it will do the most good.

Senator Duncan of Burns made a plea for support to the legislature in the matter of fighting against the raids being made on the highway funds to divert to other departments.

Archie McGowan of Burns has been an ardent booster for the Three Flags highway since its inception and was proud to represent his community at the Long Creek celebration.

Mr. Aldrich represented the highway commission. He is credited with much of the responsibility in getting this piece of highway work allocated and in getting it pushed through to completion.

Mr. Allen, Mr. Powers and Mr. Rittner each expressed the good will of Pendleton.

Several hundred people were fed at the free barbecue supper and later in the evening attended the smoker and dance at the community hall.

Heppner, while not taking an active part in the program, was well represented. Several cars made the drive and the Kemmer airplane took a list of eight passengers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson of Portland are guests this week of Mrs. Johnson's sons, Frank and J. O. Rasmus, and families. Mrs. Johnson, then Mrs. Rasmus, lived many years in Heppner and always finds it a great pleasure to visit her friends here.

Dr. J. P. Stewart, Eye-Sight Specialist of Pendleton, will be at the HEPPNER HOTEL on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2nd.

NEW BRIDGE AT MONUMENT.

A new bridge over the north fork of the John Day river at Monument is nearing completion. The new structure is of reinforced concrete and of a type in common use on the highways of the state. Approach fills are being made and it is expected the span will be in use in a few weeks. The new structure will displace the old, narrow steel span that has served for many years.

The John Day river is unusually low this year, as is the case with most of the streams in the northwest. Ranchers along the river have put up good hay crops, however, and an air of prosperity was apparent. Business buildings and residences in Monument are in good repair, indicating that conditions are good in that vicinity.

FLY TO LONG CREEK.

W. O. Bayless, Carl Cason and Doc Sherer and wife made up a party that flew to Long Creek last Friday in the Kammer Airplane Service plane. It took less than an hour to negotiate the distance between the two towns. Two of the passengers, Bayless and Mrs. Sherer, could not stand the altitude and both were quite sick when they landed at Long Creek. Bayless decided to not return home by plane and secured a ride with Roy Rittner, who spent Friday night in Heppner on his way to Bend.

CANDIDATES SPEAK.

Members of the Heppner Townsend club heard talks Monday evening by candidates for county offices. Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman gave a good talk on "Why I am for the Townsend Plan," and Bert Johnson spoke on "Transactions Tax." Other candidates present were Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, R. B. Rice and Josephine Mahoney. At the regular business meeting, Mrs. Chris Brown made a report on the Cleveland convention which she attended as a representative of the Morrow county Townsend clubs.

NOTICE.

I will not be responsible for any bills not contracted by myself, E. L. Smith, Lexington, Oregon.

W. V. Coulter and A. W. Boland of Portland were in Heppner Tuesday seeking living quarters. These men operate logging trucks and will haul for the Western Pine Lumber company of The Dalles. Mr. Coulter will move his family to Heppner.

SHERIFF SELLS LAND.

Sheriff Bauman this week sold on execution two parcels of land. The State Land Board bought in advertised property in the Ione section in foreclosure on Al Henriksen, Daisy Butler, Ralph Butler, W. V. Pedro and Morrow county. The Federal Land Bank of Spokane bought in the northeast quarter of section 18, township 2 north, range 26, E. W. M., in foreclosure against Daniel J. Way and Iva E. Way and Ione National Farm Loan association.

McHALEY FARM SOLD.

Harry Duval, realtor, reports the sale recently of the McHaley estate farm south of Heppner to Jos. T. Peters of Portland. Rice McHaley of Prairie City is administrator of the estate. The land has been farmed for a number of years by Charles N. Jones, and brought $11.50 an acre.

Case Furniture company is offering $7.00 in crystalware as an additional prize for the oldest lady in Friday's Rodeo parade. This was not listed with the prizes published last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Bloom were in Heppner over the week end, getting their household effects ready for shipment to their new home in Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Githens of Berkeley and Mr. and Mrs. William Jack of San Francisco were guests at the Spencer Crawford home Wednesday. The party had been on a tour of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia and drove to Heppner Tuesday from Lewiston. Mr. Githens and Mr. Jack have worked together on various jobs around the bay district and the two families have taken numerous automobile jaunts together. They were sorely tempted to remain for the Rodeo but had to leave here this morning in order to reach San Francisco by Friday evening.

E. L. Smith, Lexington farmer, was transacting business in the city yesterday, and expressed his intention of bringing the family to the Rodeo this week end.

The first regular fall meeting of Heppner Lodge No. 69, A. F. & A. M., will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 1, at Masonic hall.
