

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ridings started Sunday on their return trip to New York after spending the summer with relatives here and at Eugene. Mr. Ridings, ex-U. of O. basketball star, has been coaching and teaching in Seth Low junior college in the big city for several years. Mrs. Ridings spent the last week here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Clark. She took in the Rodeo of which she was the first queen fifteen years ago.

Mrs. J. F. Vaughn sustained a painful injury Monday while at work at the relief office. She fell against the corner of an open drawer with her shoulder. The injury has kept her confined at home since, and X-ray examination was made of the member. Mr. Vaughn was gone at the time, having driven to Pendleton with his mother, Mrs. Carrie Vaughn, who is visiting there with Mrs. Anna Keithley.

Visitors at Rodeo time were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blahm and daughter, Mrs. Katie Brickner, and Mrs. Marie Eggers and little daughter, all of Walla Walla. The Blahms lived for many years on Willow creek about four miles northwest of Heppner and always enjoy a visit to the scene of their former home and endeavors.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Tenney had as guests during the Rodeo, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hodges and daughter, Nancy Lee, of Portland. The Hodges had spent a month on the McKenzie river and wound up their vacation by witnessing the Heppner Rodeo. Nancy Lee Hodges is first cellist in the Portland Junior Symphony orchestra.

Buck Lieuallen, former state policeman and now in charge of the American Legion fight and wrestling cards in Pendleton, was an interested onlooker at arena events during the Rodeo. Buck brought a "stable" of fighters and wrestlers to participate in the cards staged in the open air arena Friday and Saturday nights.

Miss Betty Jannet of 221 NE Stanton St., Portland, is visiting for a fortnight at the Rhea creek home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Biddle. Mr. Biddle, in town Tuesday, reported the young lady as greatly enjoying the opportunity for horseback riding and other features of country life.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stone took time off from their official duties at the Eastern Oregon State hospital Saturday and trekked to Heppner to take in the finals of the Rodeo. The Stones were residents of Heppner many years when Mr. Stone was harness maker at the Noble Saddle shop.

O. G. Crawford departed for Portland Tuesday morning after spending two months here assisting at the Gazette Times office. He was accompanied as far as The Dalles by W. Vawter Parker, who transacted business there and returned on the train Tuesday night.

R. W. "Bob" Fletcher, Pendleton Round-Up booster, was busy putting out Round-Up literature and advertising in Heppner the last of the week. Fletcher and other members of his family were here attending Heppner's pageant of the wild west.

James N. Luper, Morrow county pioneer who has been confined to his bed for the last three years from a broken hip, took severely ill Saturday and was moved from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Truman Babb, to Morrow General hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davidson left Heppner Monday for their home at Forest Grove after a ten-days' visit at the E. E. Edwards home. They were spectators at the Rodeo while guests of friends in Heppner over the week end.

Prominent Pendletonians who forsook the Round-Up city for a few hours Saturday and came to Heppner for the final program of the Rodeo were J. J. Hamley, Roy Ritner, Dr. F. E. Farrior and John A. Beckwith.

Harvey Miller and R. B. Rice, members of the local compliance committee under AAA, went to Spokane Monday on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Dudley of Athena were interested spectators at the Heppner Rodeo Saturday.

Ellis Thomson departed the first of the week for New York for an extended visit.

The market outlook for dairy products is good, as the demand is growing stronger while the per capita supply of milk will probably be somewhat smaller during the next few years than during the immediate past. In the last 10 years the general trend of farm prices of butterfat in Oregon from year to year has been closely associated with the trend of consumer purchasing power as indicated by the factory payrolls in the United States, says Breithaupt. This has been increasing steadily since the low point of 1932 and further improvement is in prospect.

The other major factor in determining dairy products prices is the milk cow population. On January 1 of this year the number of milk cows on farms in the United States was estimated at 25,623,000 or approximately 200 per thousand people. Indications are for some reduction in cow numbers by next January, and further improvement in factory payrolls, which would be expected to result in some betterment in prices, seasonal changes considered.

Marketing of cattle and hogs during the next few months may be expected to be larger, owing to the short supply and higher prices for feeds in areas affected by the drought, the circular continues. To some extent the increase in slaughter will be offset by stronger consumer demand, but the price outlook is better for beef next spring and summer than during the coming fall and winter. Well finished beef cattle are expected to be in better demand than stockers and feeders.

The 1937 market outlook for hogs is strong, although marketings may be heavy during the last half of 1936. The drought has materially affected the market outlook for hogs.

NYA Aid Again Allotted Needy College Students

Applications for financial assistance under the National Youth Administration for attending Oregon State college are now being received by E. B. Lemon, registrar. Mr. Lemon has just been notified that the program will be continued at O. S. C. and all other qualified higher educational institutions on essentially the same basis as last year.

Applications will be received up to September 1, following which committees will start the work of selection to determine the most worthy among those who have asked this aid to attend college.

Requirements are that a student receive this work-aid, must be between the ages of 16 and 25, inclusive, must show promise on the basis of high school or past college record of doing creditable scholastic work, and must be able to show that he or she requires such aid in order to attend college.

All sorts of work projects were carried through under the plan, the chief requirement being that it must be useful work which would not otherwise be done, as the college is not permitted to replace regular employees by this means.

Inquiries already show that there will be more demand for this aid than can be supplied, but the committee in charge is prepared to make a careful examination of each application in order to extend help to those most worthy.

Players! Learn with The American Boy

Boys and young men who want to improve their crawl stroke, their basket shooting, their hurdling, their tennis backhand, or their ball carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing, and the fine points of line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All-American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers, tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

AMERICAN BOY fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game. And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.
