COUNTY FARMERS GIVE VIEWS ON AAA

Suggestions Made at Meeting Here on Future Administration.

PAYMENTS FAVORED

1937 Checks Asked for 1936 Land Diversion; "Trashy" Summerfallow, Grass Seeding Liked.

Representative farmers of the county met at I. O. O. F. hall here Tuesday afternoon in one of a series of county meetings held for the purpose of making recommendations on the AAA soil conservation program. The recommendations of the several county meetings will be considered later at a district meeting, the outcome of which is expected to influence future administration of the soil conservation program in the northwest.

William Steen of the state soil conservation committee assisted with the local meeting. He is a Umatilla county wheat raiser.

In gaining views of the farmers in attendance, a list of questions was handed each.

The first question, "What progress has been made in soil conservation in your county under the 1936 agricultural conservation program?"

was answered by Joseph Belanger, county agent, who cited that 7000 acres had been turned under as green manure crops, and 6000 acres were in process of being planted to crested wheat grass.

In discussing future practices, those present recommended first that "trashy" summerfallow be followed, and secondly that unproductive soil be planted to grass. These recommendations were in answer to the second question.

Question three asked, "Should a greater portion of the payments be made for soil-building practices in 1936?" The question sheet explained that two types of payments were made in 1936, one for diversion of land to soil-conserving crops, and the other for soil-building practices. The group recommended that payment be continued in 1937 for diversion made in 1936 without specifying any portion of payment for a single type of practice.

In answer to question four, asking as to whether or not a maximum total conservation allowance should be established for each farm or ranch, the group voted in favor of establishing such maximum allowance.

Question five asked whether the crop income insurance feature of the present program should be enlarged. The group favored continuation of such a feature. This insurance plan calls for setting aside part of the income in fat years to be paid back in lean years to establish what is termed a "normal granary."

The regional meeting for Idaho, Oregon, Utah and Washington at which the county recommendations will be summarized will be held at Pocatello, Idaho, October 14.

CLAIMS PAID RAPIDLY

Indicative of the speed with which insurance companies are paying fire-claim losses at stricken Bandon, is the report of the Oregon Mutual Fire Insurance company. This company set up temporary headquarters at the scene of disaster, with six adjusters in the field. Claims are paid as soon as any adjuster completes his report, and some claims were paid while the ashes were still hot. Officials issuing checks estimate that company's loss at $80,000, of which $50,000 is reimbursed, leaving a net loss of $30,000, reports J. O. Turner, local agent.

BROTHER DIES

Funeral services were held in Pendleton Sunday afternoon for Thomas M. Bush, 38, brother of Mrs. Olive Swagart, of Lexington, who died in that city Friday. Besides the sister in this county, Mr. Bush is survived by four children, William Bush of Athena, Mrs. Nellie Creager of Freewater, Dick Bush of Pendleton and Lloyd Bush of Pullman, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Stamper of Portland.

Clerk's Office Given Auditor's Compliments

Not a single error, and everything in tip top condition, was the report of Bernard Davis, auditor, when asked by Judge W. T. Campbell about the condition of the local clerk's office on completion of audit of that office recently. Judge Campbell said he asked the auditor in order to verify the court's judgment in selection of Chas. W. Barlow as clerk on resignation of Gay M. Anderson.

The auditor highly complimented the double entry bookkeeping system instituted by local officials, and was surprised to find that the local clerk's office balances accounts at the end of every month. This is a rare good practice among county clerk's offices of the state, he said. Davis works out of the office of the secretary of state. His written report had not yet been received.

By MARGARET BLAKE

Fire of unknown origin, possibly defective light wiring, completely destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Connor last Saturday evening. The fire started in the upper floor, had made such headway before it was discovered that there was no chance to save the building.

With the help of those who arrived on the scene as soon as the alarm was sounded Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor saved some of the furnishings on the lower floor. The family has moved into the Harris house near the creek beyond Third street. They carried no insurance.

Mrs. and Mrs. Dwight Misner of Thirton, Wash., arrived at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mankin, on Saturday for a short visit. Mr. Misner states that for the first time in his life he can say he raised a crop of wheat that averaged forty bushels to the acre. With Mrs. Misner he intends to attend the fair at Dallas, Texas, a little later in the season.

Deer hunters come and go and to date not many have returned with anything to show for their trip. Among the lucky hunters are M. E. Cotter and H. E. Yarnell. Harvey Smith with the Gibson brothers and George Porter made up a party which came out with a deer each. They went into the mountains beyond Canyon City.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Bajsiger enjoyed a week-end visit with relatives at White Salmon, Wash. They were gone from Saturday until Monday.

The ladies missionary society of the Gooseberry Lutheran church will have a birthday party at the church next Sunday, Oct. 4, at 3 p. m. A similar affair held last year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Peterson will be remembered and it is hoped that these friends and as many others as are interested will attend this year's meeting. Special numbers have been arranged for the entertainment of the guests.

Miss Lorraine Reed has as her guests Saturday and Sunday her brother and two sisters of Mitchell.

Mrs. Roy Brown who spent the week end at her home near Hermiston was called back there Sunday evening by the tragic death of her nephew, Patrick Joseph O'Reilly, Jr., who was accidentally shot while targeting the ducks with four young friends near Hermiston. Pat O'Reilly, Jr., Victim of Shooting Accident Morrow county friends were saddened this week by news of the death of Patrick Joseph O'Reilly, Jr., 16, who was accidentally killed near Hermiston, Sunday, by a shot from a .22 rifle in the hands of one of several companions while shooting at targets. Young O'Reilly made many friends in this vicinity while living for the last several months at the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kilcup, on Butter creek. He but recently went to Hermiston to visit a cousin, Miss Ruth Guillard. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Reilly of San Francisco, former residents of this city.

With young O'Reilly in the shooting party were Harold Buell, 17, William Jepp, 18, Stewart Rankin, 17, and Marvin Rankin, 18, all of Hermiston. The boys were shooting at a rock target, and all had fired their guns except the Rankin brothers. O'Reilly stepped in front of them as they fired simultaneously, and it was not known which gun fired the shot. The bullet struck the unfortunate lad in the skull, lodging just above an eye. The boy died two hours and a half later after being rushed to the Hermiston hospital. Funeral services were held at Hermiston yesterday.

HITLER, MUSSOLINI VIEWS OF OREGON CAPITOL TOLD

(Editor's Note: This is one several articles written for this newspaper by Eric W. Allen, dean of the University of Oregon school of Journalism, who traveled in Europe on a fellowship granted by the Oberlander Trust of the Karl Shurz memorial foundation.)

By ERIC W. ALLEN,
Dean of the University of Oregon
School of Journalism.

ROME.—The big event in Rome, for one traveler at least, was the receipt of a copy of the Salem Statesman, sent by the editor, Mr. Charles Sprague, and containing a fine account, with ample pictures, of the projected new capitol at Salem.

These pictures aroused much interest when shown to Italian acquaintances. "Novo tipo italiano!" they exclaimed. Of course they were partly wrong; the new style is not exclusively Italian but it is to be found springing up everywhere one goes in all countries except one.

It is natural for Romans to be interested in capitol. They invented the idea. The very name is taken from the hill about four blocks from here where we ventured in the dusk last evening. With a good strong flashlight one could probably see his way from the roof of this hotel (itself a former palace) a dozen or more structures that have once served as the seat of government. Governing is the principal industry here and has been going on for twenty-seven centuries. Of course, in a stretch like that, one builds a good many capitol. Salem is a mere beginner with its second or third or whatever it is.

Even at this distance an acute ear can detect a slight murmur on the horizon that probably represents an active controversy going on in Oregon as to whether the new style is appropriate for an Oregon capitol. One can almost hear the acute outcry of those to whom a capitol just wouldn't look right unless it has an old-fashioned dome. Also, how about Carl Gould's idea that the structure should express the well known primness of New England?

In Europe also there is a good deal of difference of opinion about the new architecture. In fact, the two most spectacular personalities in Europe hold diametrically opposite views. To Adolf Hitler the whole idea is pure poison. That kind of architecture is, to his mind, definitely anti-Nazi. It is Jewish; it is communist; and if he could think of anything worse it would be that, too. Formerly, Germany was a rather progressive center on the development of the new architecture. From all over the world young architects flocked to the famous Bauhaus at Dessau where the new ideas were taught in a rather notable architectural school. Now the Bauhaus has been wrecked, its students and professors scattered, this kind of work no longer appears on the pages of the Illustrierte Zeitung, and where the buildings exist there is a tendency to disguise their original style. Hitler wants buildings in Germany to carry the older German atmosphere. Just as Carl Gould wanted a little flavor of Salem, Mass., to be carried on to posterity at Salem, Ore.

In Italy, quite the opposite. Mussolini dotes on the broad surfaces, the ample glass, the simple lines, the convenient arrangements. He isn't building capitol; goodness knows Italy has enough of them already--and enough of churches and palaces and castles--probably too many. But wherever a new railroad station is built, there you see the half-acre windows and the square roofs and terraces, the pure and undefiled wallspaces, the modern gadgets of bakelite and chromium steels, and the simple coloring. The same is true of the hundreds of apartment houses that are springing up around the 2,000 year old cities of this teeming land where new babies are swelling the population for a 400,000 increase each year.

The new buildings, not being capitol, or palaces, or cathedrals, or castles, do not appear on the easily available postcards for sale at every

AGENT COMMENDS NORTH END FAIR

Plans for County Show at Heppner Should Not Interfere, Belanger Tells Lions.

Any plans for establishment of a county-wide fair should not contemplate doing away with the North Morrow County fair, Joseph Belanger, county agent, told the Lions club at its Monday luncheon. Belanger made a short report on the fair at Irrigon last week end. The exhibits and entertainment were generally good, with the crop exhibits especially high in quality while the livestock exhibits were not up to par, he said.

While the north end fair, held alternately two years at Irrigon and two years at Boardman, is open for exhibits from all over the county--and state and nation, too--in effect it has been purely a local show drawing exhibits only from the Irrigon and Boardman projects, said Belanger. This will probably remain the case, but as such it is wholly justified. It is not reasonable to suppose that the people there would or could bring all their exhibits to Heppner for showing.

If a general array of exhibits is to be shown at the county fair in Heppner, it would be more logical to bring only the best from the north end fair. In effect this is what is being done in Umatilla county in 4-H club fairs. Four district fairs are held there from which exhibits are taken to a county-wide fair at Pendleton. The smaller fairs help to stimulate interest in the larger, he said.

A discussion of the possibility of having the proposed ranger home in this district of the Umatilla National forest established at Heppner gained favor of the club to be half of bringing it here, and President Ray P. Kinne appointed J. V. Crawford, Earl W. Gordon and S. E. Notson as a committee to act.

President Kinne proposed a joint meeting with the John Day Lions club some time this fall as a desirable project and Secretary Frank W. Turner was instructed to write for an expression from that club.

By-laws call for election of seven directors who elect the association officers from their own body. Nominations were opened and without accepting declinations the following were nominated: R. C. Phelps, L. L. Gilliam, Oral Scott, Henry Alken, R. C. Lawrence, Harlan McCurdy, Paul Hiesler, Fred Mankin, Tony Vey, L. E. Bisbee, Scott Furlong, Frank Swagart, Jack Glavay and Walter Wright. It was voted to leave nominations open until the October 21 meeting when further names may be presented and the election held if it is the will of the community to continue the show. Spencer Crawford was temporary chairman of the meeting.

Financial report of the secretary showed that the 1936 show had an income of $3154.58 and expended $3163.94, thus reducing the cash balance of $53.26 at the beginning of the show to $43.90 at the close. The detailed statement of receipts and expenditures as read, follows:
