

Local Happenings

Chas. Bartholomew was among those delivering ballots from the Pine City precinct at the court house yesterday. Indicating how loyal the Pine City folks were to their neighbor, L. D. Neill, Mr. Bartholomew said Mr. Neill would have received all the votes there had it not been that he and Mrs. Neill played the part of good sportsman and voted for Mr. Jones, the opposing candidate.

Reports reached here this week of the death last week end of Mrs. I. A. Dempsey at Dallas. Mrs. Dempsey was a Morrow county resident for several years when her husband, the late I. A. Dempsey, was in charge of county road work. The family home was at Rickreall.

Roy Ritner, candidate for congress, and Clifford Sims of Milton were in the city Monday evening working in the interests of Mr. Ritner's candidacy. Mr. Sims was for several years assistant cashier of the Farmers & Stockgrowers National bank here.

Frank Edmundson was in town yesterday from the Lexington district. He reported his grain about all seeded, and was hopeful that indications of falling weather would produce the moisture necessary to give the new crop a good start.

When Hugh Grimm came in with the Irrigon vote yesterday, he waited long enough to get figures on various county offices, so that he could report the election outcome to folks there.

Harry Duncan returned to his home in Heppner the end of the week after spending several weeks visiting in Pendleton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sweek.

L. D. Neill, successful candidate for county commissioner, was in the city yesterday from his Pine City home, checking up on returns.

Lotus Robison was in the city yesterday from the Rhea creek farm. He hoped the darkened sky would be productive of showers.

Jim Carsner and mother, Mrs. Willa Carsner, were business visitors in the city Monday from the farm home near Spray.

From Gooseberry precinct yesterday came Algott Lundell and Carl Troedson to deliver polling returns at the court house.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burnside were in town Monday from the farm in the Hardman section.

Walter Becket delivered the ballots from Eight Mile at the court house yesterday.

William Doherty came to town yesterday with the ballot box from Alpine precinct.

Bert Bowker was in the city yesterday from the farm out Alpine way.

James Higgins came in yesterday with the Lena vote.

OCC CAMP NEWS.

E. R. Rankin, chief of ECW equipment and safety inspector for the west coast states, from Washington, D. C., was a Camp Heppner visitor this week. Mr. Rankin was week pleased with the condition of equipment and efforts made by the camp personnel in eliminating accidents and injuries. Mr. Rankin operated a garage at Pilot Rock a number of years ago. He also made his home in Heppner in 1911 and 1912.

M. D. Rodman, camp superintendent, E. Fulkerson, camp engineer, and L. D. Guild, agronomist entertained members of the SCS staff and their wives with a camp anniversary dinner at the Lucas Place last Wednesday night.

On November 11, at Hermiston, a football battle will take place between Hermiston High and the Fighting Irish. This will be the last game of the season for the Irish, and will probably be the hardest fought game of the season. Hermiston beat Arlington 6-0, and the Fighting Irish beat Arlington 14-0. These scores should reveal to you that this Armistice game will be well worth attending.

With the spirit and enthusiasm that was shown at the Arlington game by students, townspeople and team last Friday, the Fighting Irish should bring home a victory from Hermiston.

Grade News

The 8th grade divided into the two major political parties, with each party conducting their own campaign and speeches. An election was held Tuesday to vote on the presidential candidates and state measures.

Delbert Cromblet of Dry Fork is a new 8th grade pupil.

Those attending the game at Arlington from the 8th grade were Jack Morton, Douglas Drake, Dean Gilman and Donald Bennett.

Officers of the Golden Rule club of the 4th grade were elected as follows: President, Patricia Kenny; vice-president, Mary Lou Ferguson; treasurer, Jean Turner.

The 4th grade children are learning to make correct change by the means of a toy store. The toys are made by the pupils, and paper money is used to make change.

In a recent interview with Coach Tetz on the basketball squad, it was learned that the physical education classes will soon start on the fundamentals of basketball, such as handling the ball and of handling the body. Later the classes will be divided into squads so that everyone will be playing. The style of basketball to be played will be announced at a later date.

Personals

Study of Etiquette Introduced

Last Thursday Mr. Blankenship introduced in the Heppner high school the study of the essentials of etiquette that every high school student should know. The boys and girls met in separate rooms. At the first meeting Miss Mitchell spoke to the boys on several points of etiquette, and Mr. Tetz discussed the same topics with the girls. Although the subject does not have a regular schedule, Mr. Blankenship plans to have more meetings throughout the year to discuss the different questions that confront the students.

Assembly

School was adjourned ten minutes early Friday noon to give time for a short pep assembly. The students went to the gym where they sang several school songs, led by Dora Bailey, and accompanied by the band. Following the songs, Mr. Tetz gave a short talk on his idea of the outcome of the game that afternoon. The assembly was closed with several rousing yells led by the yell duke, Joe Alken, and the yell duchess, Frances McCarty.

Class News

The sophomore class has decided to purchase school hats. These hats will be in the school colors, purple and gold. The junior class has decided to purchase their class rings now, so they will have them in plenty of time for their senior year. The seniors have chosen the graduation announcements they wish to have, but will not purchase them until early spring.

There will be a battle in the sand Armistice day.

Feature Story

Are you one of those people who do not care how they treat other people's property?

It seems that there are quite a few of that sort of people in high school. These people seem to find delight in dirtying up other people's desks by putting paper in them, in scratching their initials in the study hall, in putting their waste paper on the floor for other people to clean up, and in doing all sorts of little acts that tend to degrade their character in other people's eyes. If you are one of these people, you are probably aware of it by now. Why don't all of the people in the school join hands and try to prevent all this? It would not only help our own student body, but it would also help us to attain a higher standard in other people's eyes.

Girls' League

The first Girls' League meeting was held during the first period on Monday. The object of this meeting was to explain to the girls of the student body the purpose of the Girls' League.

The Home Economics club is planning to give a banquet for the football boys. Following the banquet will be given a dance at the Parish house by the club. Invitations for an outside guest may be secured from the club advisor.

Committee Sets Hearing On 'Open-End' Contracts

Small fruit growers of western Oregon, particularly those interested in berries and prunes, are invited to attend an open hearing to be held in Salem, November 7, under the auspices of the State Agricultural Investigating committee, appointed several months ago by Governor Charles H. Martin. The meeting will start at 1:30 p. m. in the chamber of commerce rooms.

This committee was appointed in June to gather information on the use of the so called open-end contract used by processors and canners in signing up tonnage of berries and prunes. It was also empowered to study such related matters as grades and standards, inspection service, culling practices of canneries, current production, carry-over, and available markets for dried prunes.

means of a public hearing to get direct information and opinions from as many growers as possible. These will be combined with information already gathered in compiling a final report which is to be submitted to the governor by December 15. The report is to include recommendations for desirable legislation, if any.

Major attention of the committee has been given to the so-called open-end contracts, which is a term grown into common usage in the Pacific Northwest. It applies to contracts made before harvest in which no definite price is stated. There has been considerable discussion as to the desirability of such contracts, says Carpenter.

Other members of the committee are Louis H. Harner, Carlton, chairman of the committee and president of the Yamhill Cooperative Prune Growers; L. H. McBe, Dallas prune grower; John Ramage, Woodburn berry grower; and D. N. Busenbark, Roseburg, president of the Douglas County Prune Growers' association.

Plans for refinancing Bandon's $277,000 municipal debt are now being worked out by Fred Paulus, deputy state treasurer, in cooperation with a committee of the Bandon city council. With the city's assessed valuation substantially reduced by the recent disastrous fire it is expected that bond holders will be asked for a moratorium on interest payments and a reduction of the interest rate if not an actual scaling down of the principal amounts of some of the bond issues.

Gertrude Sanderson Quits New Specialist Appointed

Miss Izola D. Jensen, who will replace Mrs. Gertrude Skow Sanderson as specialist in community social organization in the Oregon State college extension service, effective December 15, is one of the few persons in the United States trained as a leader in recreation, dramatics and music, according to extension officials at Oregon State college.

The fact that Miss Jensen is a fine musician, trained in both piano and voice, will make her services especially valuable in the development of chorus and choral clubs, for which there have been numerous requests throughout the state, says Mrs. Azalea Sager, state leader of home economics extension.

Miss Jensen is a graduate of the University of Utah in physical education and art, and of Brigham Young university in drama, music and methods of education. She did graduate work in drama, public speaking and home economics at the University of California, and received her Master of Arts degree from New York university. She spent several months with the National Recreation school in New York City, receiving a recreational certificate. In addition, Miss Jensen has had four years' experience as home demonstration agent in Utah.
