Band News

The band is working on a new piece, "The Dawn," which they expect to use in some public appearance in the future.

An interesting assignment given the English VII class was to write a poem. Twenty of more poems were handed in. The three that were chosen as outstanding are as follows:

A SLEEPING CHILD

Like a picture is a baby,
Sleeping in her little bed,
With the blankets tucked about her
and a pillow 'neath her head.

Quietly sleeps the doll-like infant,
Lulled to sleep by her mother's song.
All the family wait in silence,
For she'll be awake 'fore long.

What one thing could be more lovely
Than that precious little babe?
For she is the richest blessing
That our Father ever gave.

—Dora Bailey.

DEATH MOANING LOW

There came the scream of hissing lead,
The thunder of powerful motors,
The horrible sight of the dying and dead,
The boom of the mighty mortars.

Lightning flashes, guns boom, men die of horrible wounds.
Children wail, women weep
For the lost souls
Who forever sleep.

From out of the night comes a ray of hope,
For the loyalists survived that mighty stroke.
They no longer hear the scream of hissing lead,
For they are leaving that horrible city of Madrid.

—Leonard Gilman.

JUST AN ORDINARY BOY

One would be able to find him,
Walking lazily on his way
To the "old fishing hole" near the river
On a hot midsummer's day.

His face was a mass of freckles;
His hair was fiery red.
He wasn't the kind to say, "I'll hold your coat,"
But got in the fight instead.

He's the picture of the average boy,
With his big toe all tied up;
And when he tired of other joys,
He'd tie cans to the tail of a pup.

Of course he was not always bad,
But at times behaved quite well.
You see he is just an ordinary boy,
And folks all think he's swell.

—Harriet Hager.

Humor

G. Cason: "The freshmen certainly don't have any respect for old age."

R. Munkes: "I should say not; some of them even laugh at these jokes."

This Week's Divine Thought:
"School spirit is more than wearing a school pin or ring."

Have you ever wondered—
Why Jessie Tinsley wants to go to Arlington?

Whom Gerald Cason brought home from Condon?

Norton King (racing down the street): "I want to get a-head."
Mr. Peavy: "Do you need a new one?"

Rosanna Farley: "Ruth, do you have any silk hose in your brother's store?"

Ruth Green: "No, it's mostly rubber."

Local Pugilists

The following boys from the local Smith-Hughes class went to Condon to assist the Condon organization present a smoker: Rufus Hill, Willie Stone, Riley Munkers, Andy Shoun, Clayton Wright and Howard Patton. Out of the six matches, three were won by Heppner boys, and one resulted in a draw. This was a very good showing considering the small amount of practice the local boys have had. Condon has consented to help the local chapter put on a similar exhibition in the near future.

Feature

It seems that a campaign for cleaner dressing rooms and halls in the girls' section of the gymnasium would be very effective in several ways. Not only would it make more desirable conditions in the gymnastic classes, but it would eliminate any possibility of diseases. Many of the students dislike gym classes because of these conditions and still they do nothing toward helping to keep suits, etc., off the floor and thus help eliminate these conditions. If they are eliminated, the girls' gym classes will be better, but the danger of disease cannot be totally done away with unless each girl, who uses these rooms, does her part to keep them as clean as possible.

Gravely Ill

The N. Y. A. boys have the installation of cement foot baths at the entrance of each shower room as a project for Christmas holidays. This will prevent any possibilities of "athlete's foot" since an effective disinfectant will be kept in these foot baths at all times. With this added help, let's all do our share.

High School Defeats CCC Team

By Paul McCarty
Displaying a much improved passing attack, the local high school squad annexed its third victory in as many games by virtue of their 29-21 victory over the Heppner CCC five last Saturday night.

The Fighting Irish held the lead throughout the game, with the exception of the first five minutes.

Hoskins led the Irishers in scoring 10 points. Munkers was runner-up with 8. Dean took scoring honors for the CCC hoopsters, making three baskets.

ARTHUR GAY ILL.

Arthur Gay was brought to Heppner by ambulance last Saturday from Albany, suffering from a serious illness. Cornett Green and Mrs. Wm. French, sister of Mr. Gay, made the trip to bring him here. A former resident of this county, Mr. Gay has made his home in the Willamette valley for many years.
