

"Scab" Rock Dams Considered.

Condon—The possibilities of making small water conservation dams in the "scab" rock streaks that run up through many wheat fields in the vicinity of Condon are being considered by County Agent R. M. McKennon and farmers of the district. The streaks, Mr. McKennon says, are comparatively level and have rocky bottoms, and it is believed that by damming up these streaks in a number of places a large quantity of water can be held on top of the "scab" where it can be absorbed and thereby increase wheat yields on the adjoining land. A rotary fresno and a large tractor were used in constructing some of these dams on the L. G. Parman farm. No expenditure for material is required.
