

LEXINGTON

By BEULAH NICHOLS

The following item of interest to local people was taken from the Oregon State Daily Barometer, official student publication of Oregon State college: "Ed Burchell, junior in education, is taking Ed Earp's place as associate editor of the Volume XXXI Beaver, according to an announcement made by Dick Gearhart, editor of the annual. . . Burchell's duties for the term will be handling all picture work for the yearbook. It will be his job to see that all group picture work for the yearbook. I and special feature pictures are scheduled and taken.

"Burchell will be working with Howell's studio, Ball's studio and Burch Davis, campus life photographer for the yearbook and with the upper editorial staff which will help with the selection of pictures for the feature and opening sections of the annual. . . A night editor on the Barometer and former Beaver staff member on the administration section, Burchell is also president of Rosswood, a member of the independent student council, a pledge of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional society in journalism, and won the Sigma Delta Chi cup for being the outstanding cub reporter of his class."

Mrs. William Kletzer, state president of the P. T. A., will speak before a meeting of the local association in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon, January 21. Everyone is urged to be present. Mrs. Kletzer is a very interesting and capable speaker and her talk is certain to hold something of interest to every patron of the school.

It is hoped that as many of the taxpayers of this school district as possible will attend the special meeting which has been called for next Wednesday afternoon, January 20, at 3 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the advisability of instituting a Smith-Hughes agricultural project in this school. The question will be put to a vote at this meeting if the voters so desire. This is a question of vital interest to every taxpayer in the district as it will mean an increase in the tax of the district if the voters decide in favor of the project. Others interested are invited to attend also.

Little Miss Lois Wickersham, who spent four weeks here visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Duvall, returned to her home in Milwaukie Friday evening by train. She was accompanied by her grandmother who returned home Sunday morning.

Fred Pointer is able to be out again following his recent accident. Fred slipped and fell down some icy steps at the S. G. McMillan home last week, injuring his neck quite severely.

Vernon Scott, service station manager, was a business visitor in Portland the first of the week.

The Lexington high school basketball team met defeat at the hands of the Echo high school quintet Saturday evening on the home floor. The final score was 21-13. The referee was Buhman of Heppner. The Lexington line-up was as follows: Ellwyne Peck and Robert Campbell,

The Salt of the Earth.

Christ said that Christians are the salt of the earth. Throughout the 1900 years of history of the church they have demonstrated to the world the truth of this fact-prophecy. Every great advancement in morals has come from Christianity. As salt preserves, so has the church preserved society from utter decay. Often its work has been indirect and often it has not received the credit for protecting humanity from the enemies of civilization, yet it has gone patiently on in its ministry of good not asking the reward of men but looking forward to the eternal blessing of God. The good news is that everyone can have the honor of sharing this ministry and reward if they will.

CCC CAMP NEWS.

The Soil Conservation service of the local CCC camp has rented a Cletrac "55" bulldozer from the United States Forest service at Spokane. The tractor will be utilized in bank-sloping and in restoring water tables.

Lt. Harry B. Formhals has been transferred from Camp Heppner to Camp Moro where Capt. Edward H. von Seeth, formerly a member of the local camp military staff, is commanding officer. Lt. R. T. Mulvanity, 1st Lt. Car.-Res., who was transferred from 1st corps area to ninth corps area last December, has replaced Lt. Formhals in Camp Heppner. Before his transfer, Lt. Mulvanity was on duty in CCC Co. 126, Donbury, New Hampshire.

A course in soil conservation has been added to the educational program of Camp Heppner. The purpose of this course is to give the enrollees a better understanding of the soil conservation setup. The company is divided into four class groups, each of which meets once a week.

Capt. W. R. Reynolds, company commandant, returned last week end from a 21-day leave which he spent with Mrs. Reynolds and their daughter Patricia Anne in Santa Monica, Calif. Lt. Thomas Ricks, who was in command of the local camp during Capt. Reynolds' absence, has returned to his duties at Camp Squaw Creek.

Corvallis.—Second place among teams from all western states was won by Oregon State college student livestock judging team at the annual livestock show in Ogden, Utah, held the first week in January. Wyoming nosed out the Oregon team by 15 points. Colorado, Montana and Utah were next in order. The team coached by B. W. Rodenwold, associate professor of animal husbandry, consisted of Elmer Sibley, Freewater, who was high man in breeding classes; Philip Farrell, ataway; John Welbes, Portland; George Penrose, Dayton, and Delmar Flint, Corvallis.
