Danger of Colds

A tight harsh cough came from the red-inflamed throat of a student on one side of the assembly; another from the opposite side; then all sides chimed in unison. They are signals, not of mockery, but of distress.

At this time of the years colds are very prevalent. In some places the number of cases being greater than during the World War. This in itself should be a warning to take the utmost care of yourself. As a result of this sickness, the ravages of tuberculosis are given just the chance they are seeking—the weakened condition in which influenza leaves the lungs and throat.

The best remedy is to build up a resistance. To build up a resistance against this is to build up good health, and good health is a requisite of a successful life.

New Band Books

Mr. Buhman purchased some new band books, which he issued to the members last week. These books contain many lively marches. The band played these marches before the public at the basketball game last Friday night.

When the weather warms up, Mr. Buhman is planning on holding some special band classes after school hours to make up the practices missed in the coldest weather. This should help to pave the way for our band to win the cup for the second time in class D at the annual State Band contest.

Assembly

The Pep club gave their annual skit in front of the student body on Friday, January 22. The skit had as its purpose the showing of the lack of spirit at pep assemblies and at the games. The program was concluded with a song contest between the four classes. A bag of all-day suckers was won by the seniors, who were judged the best songsters. The judges in this contest were Miss Mitchell, Mr. Peavy and Mr. Tetz.

F.F.A. Smoker to be Held Soon

A meeting was called Friday by Mr. Grimes, advisor of the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America, for the purpose of setting the price of club dues. A committee was appointed by the vice president, Fred Hoskins, who presided during the absence of the president, Riley Munkers. Another committee was appointed for the purpose of determining the price of admission to the smoker which is to be held February 12. Several Condon boys are invited to participate in this smoker, and by all signs it is going to be very exciting. The public is invited.

Heppner Loses to Arlington

Last Friday in one of the poorest showings of the year, the Heppner high basketball team met defeat at the hands of the Arlington Honkers. The local hoopsters couldn't get to clicking, and their inability to hit the basket kept the Mustangs from endangering the lead which the river boys took from the start.

Gilman was high point man for the locals with 7 points, while Baker led the Honkers with 9 points. The line-up was as follows: Heppner: Hoskins g (2), Munkers g (1), Van Marter c (6), Gilman f (7), Coxen f (2)—19; subs. Aiken (1), Hayes, Stone; Arlington: Harford g, Woods g, Rice c (4), McMullen f (6), Bowman f (8)—31; subs. Wetherill (4), Baker (9).

Humor

It looks as though the Republicans came out on top after all; they didn't have to go to the President's inauguration and stand in all the rain.

Teacher: "You are twenty minutes late again. Don't you know what time we start work in this school?"
New Student: "No, Sir; they're always at it when I get here."

It looks as though times are picking up with the W. P. A. and "Pennies From Heaven."

Arlington Game Friday

The Heppner Mustangs will journey to Arlington Friday to avenge the defeat handed them last Friday by the Arlington Honkers. The local boys insist that they can beat Arlington, so let's show our appreciation and pep by giving them our support.

Hermiston Plays Here Saturday

Next Saturday the Heppner team will try their skill against the Hermiston Bulldogs. Hermiston has been defeated but once in eight starts; therefore this meeting should prove to be keenly contested. They have one of the strongest teams in their district. Heppner still has a chance for a great team this year, so let's give them a boost.

"Guess Who?"

He's five foot ten and very blond, A nice looking chap of whom we're fond.

He kind of struts when he walks, And kind of brags when he talks, But everyone likes him just the same.

Now really can't you guess his name? He likes the one that begins with "D".

But don't call him the one that starts with "T".

Grade School News

The eighth grade held a class election last Tuesday for the purpose of electing class officers for the coming six weeks. The officers elected were as follows: President, Hugh Crawford; vice-president, Harry O'Donnell; secretary, Donald Bennett; librarian, Jack Morton; reporter, Frances Wilkinson; patrolman, Jack O'Hara. The vacancy left by Hugh Crawford, lieutenant in the School-boy Patrol, who resigned in order that he might devote more time to the presidency, was filled by Henry Aiken.

Farm Production Figures Are Compiled

Many and varied have been the estimates as to Oregon's annual income from agricultural sources. Some of these estimates have been found to take figures from Oregon's primary agricultural production and compare them with income from other industries after manufacturing values have been added, and vice-versa.

In an attempt to establish some authoritative basis for figuring agricultural income in this state, extension circular No. 300, by L. R. Breithaupt, extension economist, has just been issued, which is entitled, "Agricultural Income in Oregon—Sources and Trends."

This bulletin showed that on the basis of 1928 figures, before relationships had been disrupted by depression factors, crop and animal production represented approximately 75 percent of the value of all primary production in Oregon. Of the total of $163,600,000 of cash farm income credited to that year, 38.4 percent came from crop products, 40.6 percent from animal products, while 21 percent was added value through manufacturing or processing.

The bulletin includes government figures on cash farm income in Oregon from 1924 to 1935, and shows the approximate division among the various farm enterprises. Official government figures are in the main somewhat below actual income, it is believed, because of omission of important specialty crops, such as seeds, flax fiber, flower bulbs, poultry as meat, and fur bearing animals.

New Radio Devices Aid Aircraft

Corvallis—Improvement in radio aids to aircraft navigation are being made so rapidly that increasing safety is certain to mark future air travel, says E. A. Yunker, in charge of radio instruction at O. S. C. The department of commerce has developed radio landing aids which permit a plane to be brought to earth in the densest fog or in darkness at airports equipped with this device. These are so new that they have not been generally installed throughout the country, says Yunker.

Surplus Feed Grain Needed

Corvallis—A call for Oregon farmers, feed shippers and dealers to list surplus feed grains with county agents for possible sale and shipment to deficient areas has been received from E. O. Pollock, in charge of the federal livestock feed agency in Kansas City. The listing is being made to determine supplies of feed grains available for shipment to livestock feeders in the drought counties of northern California. The listings desired would show amounts and kinds of grain available, name and address of owner and point from which the grain would be shipped by rail.

ROUND-UP DATES SET.

The Pendleton Round-Up association has set the dates for the 1937 show as September 16, 17 and 18. This puts the roundup a week later than the state fair at Salem and eliminates the conflict of last year. The arrangement will prove popular with many who like to put in full time at both big shows.
