Ten Years Ago This Week

The senior girls held a meeting Friday for the purpose of settling once and for all what kind, color, etc., of dresses they should wear for the graduation exercises.

The six weeks' exams were given Thursday and Friday. Because of the debates, the grades could not be issued as soon as usual.

The Heppner girls played their last basketball game of the season when they lost to the Lexington girls by a score of 22 to 6, Friday evening.

It has been the policy of the Booster club to give the visiting basketball team a lunch after each game. This has done a great deal to promote a feeling of sportsmanship.

Junior Play Soon

March 19 is the day! The junior class will present its annual play. This year it is a three-act comedy, "Crashing Society." The play plot revolves about a farmer and his family who inherited a million dollars and are trying to crash New York society. If you can imagine one in this predicament, you have some idea of the comedy in this presentation. We feel it will be well worth your time, money and effort to attend this program.

Seniors Have Dress-Up Day

A group of bums, dandies, mountaineers, sailors, and grandmothers came strolling into the assembly Tuesday. What could it be—a circus? No, it was Senior Dress-Up day, a tradition that is observed by the graduating class every year. This group of gay students entertained the assembly a few minutes, then marched through the grade school class rooms. The president of the student body failed to enter into the events; consequently, he will be punished by having to entertain the assembly in the near future.

PINTO-POINTS

Congratulations, Boardman! The best team won. And to those who think not, come around, and to prove so will be my objective.

Led by "Ike" Wilson, the classiest ball-hawker of the tournament and probably of the whole district, the Yellow Jackets can the strong Condon squad all but through the floor. Without a doubt, Boardman was the strongest team. Although the river team had easy sledding in the first and second rounds of play, they really showed they were a top notch ball club, especially after shellacking Condon by 22 points.

To Coach Ingles and his team, the best of luck, and may your trip to Arlington be a successful one!

There seems to have been a slip-up in the selection of the all-star team. One local lad, although he received recognition, should have been put in the first group. And without mentioning names, the member of Heppner's vanquishers who received his position on first string all-star as a gift, has the same surname as that of the writer. But disregarding this incident, which can hardly be overlooked, Heppner's placing three basketballers on the all-star teams signifies that their efforts were not all in vain. As an incidental thought, possibly accidental, there were three centers on the second all-star five.

A few statistics on the tournament . . . Boardman's standing from an offensive and defensive standpoint was, of course, the best of the lot, but Heppner beat Condon offensively by 44 points and defensively eight. The solution to this is the fact that Heppner piled up high scores against Lexington. Among the players who scored ten points or more during the tournament's entirety . . . the tournament's ruffian, Willis of Condon with 11 personals; vice versa, Black and Tannehill of Boardman, and Burns of Condon, each with one foul; high point man, Gilman, Mustang forward, with 41 counters to his credit.

As a last statement concerning the tournament, the poorest showing, made by a team capable of doing better . . . well, you guess!

The district meet at Arlington promises to be a classic, with Hermiston, Athena, Boardman, Richland, Grant Union high, Arlington, and two unreported teams all having a one-fold objective—on to Salem! This year the Arlington tournament representatives' play was not the calibre of basketball seen in last year's melee held here. Umapine's '36 edition would probably show any of them a few tricks about Dr. Naismith's invention. Of course, that's just one man's opinion.

Here and there . . . It's Mac-Hi against Hood Rver, and again, the Pioneers . . . The center on a colored girls' basketball team is the short little thing of six feet eight inches . . . atmosphere is no doubt cooler in those heights . . . With another basketball season practically over, it's time to start thinking about the country's national game.

Humor

Have you ever wondered—
What Betty Bergevin knows about capital S's?

Why Joe Aiken has been seen so much lately around a mortuary?
Why some people received such awfully high grades in the Time current events test?

How Maude B. rated so many Condon fellows at Rhea Creek?
Just what kind of a "Cannon" Gerald Roberts had?

How Len G. rated such a girlish figure on senior dress-up day?
Why Ruth G. is worrying about an absentee from school?
Whom Paul Mc. spent some time talking to Tuesday morning?

—H.H.S.—

Mrs. Tetz to her husband in the next room:

"My dear, what are you opening that can with?"

Mr. Tetz: "Why, with a can opener. What did you think I was doing it with?"

Mrs. Tetz: "Well, I thought from your remarks that you were opening it with a prayer."

—H.H.S.—

Guess Who?

A very nice senior boy is he.
And why he's so popular is easy to see.

He's handsome; he's tall,
He's friendly to all.
Surely it isn't a mystery
Who this lad in our school may be.

Brain Busters

The answer to last week's problem is: The man was colored, too.

A Fictitious Cloister

A nun of a very strict order received continuous visits from a comely young man. A jealous sister complained to the mother superior, who asked for an explanation. The nun answered, "This man's mother is my mother's only daughter."

Who was the young man?

CARD OF THANKS.

THE FLAG OF THE UNITED STATES

How to Display It— How to Respect It.

Following is the list of questions prepared by the American Legion Auxiliary Americanism committee on the flag of the United States, for the eighth grade boys' Americanism contest:

- When flown with the flags of other nations, what are the requirements regarding the height of all staffs and the size of the flags?
- What does international usage forbid regarding the display of flags of different nations in time of peace?
- What is the correct way of displaying the flag on an automobile?
- When displayed in a church what is the position of the flag of the United States? (1) If in the chancel? (2) If outside the chancel?
- On a float in a parade, how should the flag always be displayed?
- When used to cover a casket, what is the position of the blue field of the flag? Why?
- How should the casket be carried?
- When the grave is reached, what is done with the flag?
- How is the flag placed to indicate mourning when flown from a stationary staff or flag pole? How should it be hoisted, and what should be done before lowering the flag for the day?
- What is the rule about displaying the flag on Memorial Day? Is this rule observed in Heppner?
- How is mourning indicated when the flag is fastened to a small staff, as when carried in a parade?
- How is mourning indicated when the flag is not on a staff, but is displayed flat?
- What are the only cases in which the flag of the United States should be half-masted?
- If it is desirable to show that a state, city or society mourns, what should be done?
- Is crepe used with the flag when it is at half-mast?
- What can you say about dipping the flag?
- What is meant if the flag is displayed with the union down?
- Give ten cautions to be borne in mind in displaying and respecting the flag.
- (1) What is the correct way for the flag to be saluted by men in uniform? (2) By men not in uniform? (3) By women? (4) Should these rules be observed by boys and girls?
- When is the salute to the flag in a moving column rendered?
