TODAY'S QUOTE.

"When a motorist buys 10 gallons of gasoline he gets concentrated energy equal to that represented by 1800 gallons of water elevated 100 feet above a power plant. Using gasoline, however, is using our principal, while water power comes in continuous dividends."—Dr. W. F. Durand, national president of Sigma Xi, in an address at O.S.C. on "Power and Civilization."

Pork is a universal favorite. It appears more frequently on the American table than any other meat dish, but there are a good many attractive pork cuts which are passed over by the average homemaker, because she is not acquainted with the possibilities they offer for new and attractive main dishes. The pork chart shown above deserves a place in the household files because it shows at a glance the variety of pork cuts and how to cook them.
