

New Supervisor Visits; Forest News of Week

R. W. Crawford from Pendleton, who recently took the office of supervisor of the Umatilla National forest, called at the office of F. F. Wehmeyer, local ranger, Sunday, accompanied by his assistant, James Iler.

O. G. Johnson, assistant supervisor in charge of grazing for the Umatilla National forest, was in town Monday checking on grazing conservation practices in the forest.

Fred Pratt will be in charge of the 12-man range survey crew expected to get under way in the local district of the Umatilla National forest this week. Six of the men will be transferred to Jefferson county as soon as they receive sufficient training. Creighton Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Lawson, former residents, and a student at Oregon State college, arrived this week to join the crew.

Irvin Perlberg was struck in the eye by a splinter of steel while at work with the forest ERA crew this week, being laid off for several days.

Lester Hunt was struck under the chin by a crowbar which slipped from under a log while working with the forest ERA crew this week. The injury required treatment and he was kept from working for a time.

George Caskey reported Monday at the local forest office as protective assistant in charge of fire control.

A soil conservation spike camp with 25 men is being established on Ditch creek this week.

Miss Elsie Crump was tendered the position of typist in the local forest office this week.

Five fire danger stations and three radios will assist with the work of protecting the local forest district from fire this season.

R. P. Parrish called the local ranger's office Sunday night to notify the ranger of a fire on Service creek.

A new basis for orientation in the Umatilla National forest is being established by correlating a recent triangulation of the geodetic survey with data of general land office surveys. A big improvement in mapping which will assist greatly with protective work is expected by F. F. Wehmeyer, local ranger.

MRS. LAURA WARD.

Mrs. Laura (Farrens) Ward, Morrow county pioneer, died at Chehalis, Wash., May 29, and was buried at Hardman I. O. O. F. cemetery on June 2. Her family came to Oregon in 1853 and first settled in Morrow county in 1871. Laura Farrens was born in Heppner May 3, 1873, and was married in this city June 7, 1897, to Charles Ward. Mr. Ward had extensive livestock interests in this county until his death in 1914. The family moved to Portland in 1916, and Mrs. Ward resided there until recently, when she went to Chehalis as she felt the climate was better for her health. She is survived by a daughter, Fay, a teacher in Hosford school, Portland; a son, Wilfred of Chehalis; a foster son, Gilbert Douglas Becker of Chehalis; three brothers, Ernest Farrens, Yakima, Wash.; Glenn and Walter Farrens of Hardman, and a sister, Mrs. Anne Clements of Tacoma.

ADDITIONAL LEXINGTON NEWS

Following the severe wind and dust storm of Monday the rain which fell here Wednesday and Thursday was welcomed by the people of this community. While the fall was not as great as wished for by the wheat growers, the season is most opportune and the moisture will do a vast amount of good.

Mrs. George Gillis and her cousin, Miss Anne Holey, were outgoing passengers on the train Thursday evening. They went to Portland for the week end.

Irene and Elsie Tucker motored to Portland Thursday to spend the week end.

EARL THOMSON MARRIES.

Earl Thomson, son of Mrs. Mary Thomson of Heppner, took as his bride, Miss Frances Elkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elkins of Portland, at wedding ceremonies performed by Rev. Earl D. W. Hanna, Methodist minister, in Vancouver, Wash., Sunday morning. The newlyweds visited in Heppner over Sunday night and Monday morning, receiving best wishes of many Heppner friends, and leaving shortly before noon on a wedding journey to be concluded Friday in San Francisco where they will make their home. Mr. Thomson has been employed for the last two months with Standard Stations, Inc., in San Francisco.

GREET NATIONAL HEAD.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Crawford, Alva W. Jones and Harold Cohn were in Pendleton Tuesday evening as representatives of Heppner post, American Legion, which joined other posts from eastern Oregon and eastern Washington in greeting Harry Colmery of Topeka, Kans., Legion national commander. Mr. Colmery addressed the large audience in the new Vert Memorial building.

BECKET-HANNA.

Miss Norma Jean Becket and John Hanna, Jr., stole a march on their many friends when they slipped over to Prosser Saturday evening and were quietly married. Mrs. Hanna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Becket of Eight Mile, and Mr. Hanna the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna who reside on Hinton creek. Both are popular young people who have the well wishes of a wide circle of friends.

KITCHEN CLUB MEETS.

The 4H kitchen club girls met in Mrs. Rodgers' office at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and elected officers. They are Claudine Drake, president; Ellen Hughes, vice president; Peggy Tamblin, secretary; Wilma Hudson, treasurer; Ellen Hughes, scribe. They expect to meet on Wednesdays at the fair pavilion. Their leader is Miss Carolyn Moyer.
