

Local Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fraters and family were in the city Tuesday from the Eight Mile farm. They arrived home Sunday from a month's vacation enjoyed in the San Francisco bay region, visiting relatives and taking in the Golden Gate Bridge fiesta. Mr. Fraters reported that they drove across both the big bay bridges, and saw the fiesta parade, which took two hours in passing. The crowd was so dense the first couple of days the new bridge was open that people waited for hours to get a chance to cross, and some never did make it. On the return trip they took the Redwood and Roosevelt highways as far as Newport, turning inland from there to take the Pacific highway at McMinnville.

Paul Gemmill was in the city Saturday while assisting in examining Morrow county applicants for operators' and chauffeurs' licenses. He accompanied C. M. Bentley and C. G. Bracher, other field representatives from the secretary of state's office. Bracher, formerly of Pilot Rock, reported his son Vic, known in these parts for his trapshooting ability, as having recently won a professional's cup in a shoot at Washington, D. C. The younger Bracher now represents an ammunition firm, and has his headquarters at Columbus, Ohio.

Many people from round and about were called into the city Monday on court business and otherwise. Ione was represented by a goodly portion of its population. 4-H'ers Attend Union Livestock Show

Ten members of the Lexington calf club are back home after two days spent at the Eastern Oregon Livestock show at Union. The livestock show was a success, despite the heavy rain and hail which softened the ground to a soggy mud the first of the three days. However, the sun shone the second day, and underfoot a heavy sawdust litter packed into the mud made a good walking surface. Our members took part in the livestock judging the first day. Due to the heavy downpour and mud, our members were greatly handicapped, since they had not anticipated such weather when preparing for the trip. Who would, after the drought so far this spring? Nevertheless, the trip was a grand success even though every member regrets that we did

PICNIC SEASON

The picnic season is here once more
And jolly good times are again in store.
Cakes for the luncheon of every kind
At our quality bakery you will surely find.

Instead of cooking a dinner tonight, why not pack a picnic lunch and surprise the family. And you can spend the time for preparing dinner for something else. There will be no dishes to wash. Grand idea, isn't it? And of course you'll want some frankfurter rolls, sandwich bread, individual cakes, etc.

not enter livestock and haul down some of the excellent cash prizes offered. Contrary to advice we received locally, our chances were excellent to share in the pay-off, and a number of good prizes were certain, had we exhibited our stock.

Our members had the privilege of watching Clayton Fox, the 4-H livestock wizard of the state, in the ring showing his animals. Truly it is wonderful the way he handles them, soothing and shaping them to show perfectly. He has taken many prizes including trips all over the United States, college scholarships, prize purebred calves. He has talked to the Kiwanis club of Chicago and to other influential gatherings. His voice has also been heard over most of the broadcasting networks throughout the country.

Our club regrets that there are not more 4-H clubs organized in Morrow county.

The following 4-H club sponsors attended the livestock show: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marquardt and Majo, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Rauch and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson and Mae, Mrs. Adolph Mjeske, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Biddle and Dede.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miner and daughter, Miss Dorothea, of Portland were in Heppner today and visited for a short time at the home of Mrs. Miner's cousin, Mrs. Spencer Crawford. Mr. Miner is with the Perry Granite company in the city and has been on an extended business trip through eastern Oregon.

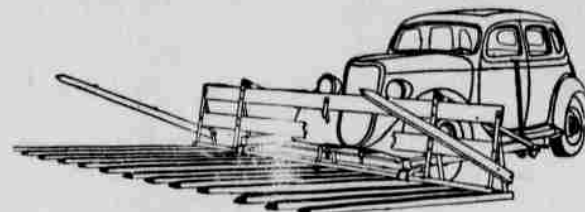

Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Rice returned home yesterday from a fishing trip to Olive lake, where they caught the limit of beautiful finnies.
