

Current Tax Roll 58 Pct. Collected First Half Year

Irrigon Leads, John Day District Lowest in Payments, Shown

Current taxes of Morrow county were 58 percent collected at the end of the first half year, July 1, according to an itemized statement issued by Chas. W. Barlow, county clerk.

With levies totaling $277,073.66, receipts were $159,356.19, leaving a balance to be collected of $117,717.47. However, included in the receipts is an item of $4,501.29 allowed as discount to taxpayer who paid the full year's tax in the first taxpaying period. While this amount was credited against the total levy, it was not actually received. Total interest collected and not shown in the receipts was $44.83.

School district No. 10 at Irrigon, where the Union Pacific railroad is the heaviest taxpayer, shows the highest percentage of collections, with $8,437.17 paid on the total special levy of $9,040.20, or 93 percent. Smallest collection was on the John Day Irrigation district levy. Only $746 of the $14,819.40 levied against the irrigation district had been collected.

City of Heppner showed just a trifle above the average collection, at 60 percent. City of Ione was a little below average at 54 plus percent. Lexington was just at the average with 59 plus percent.

Levies and receipts for the various tax levying divisions are shown as follows:

Canning, Preserving Help Farm Income

Eastern Oregon county farm home makers during the past year canned, preserved and stored fruits, vegetables and meats contributing a large amount in money value to the annual income of farm families working under the rural rehabilitation program of the resettlement administration, according to Emily R. Husbands, home advisor, Pendleton.

Working in partnership with their husbands towards greater farm security, homemakers have assisted in carrying out a program to provide approximately 75 percent of the family food needs directly from the farm.

Preserved foods are supplemented by milk, butter, cheese, eggs, and fresh meat produced on the farm. Necessary staples and supplies needed for preserving and canning are bought in quantity at the lowest seasonal price in order to keep food costs at a minimum.

"While the husband manages the farm, the homemaker makes the home plans to insure adequate clothing, plenty of food, comfortable living quarters and the most efficient household practices."

Food is always the largest single item in the budget of most rehabilitation families and when this need is met from the farm, cash income is released for taxes, old debts, clothing, household goods, and other capital goods necessary to bring improved living standards to farms handicapped by inadequate credit facilities.

Resettlement Loans Aid 39 Families

Rural Rehabilitation loans totaling $26,115, have been made since February to thirty-nine farm families in this district for the purchase of livestock, farm equipment, feed, seed, and other farm needs, reports R. S. Thompson, supervisor, Resettlement administration, at Pendleton.

Aiding these families in regaining farm security through a minimum cash loan, good management and business-like operation benefits the entire county through cutting down delinquent taxes and relief costs and restoring the normal purchasing power to many families unable in the past to buy clothing, farming equipment and other necessities.

Additional services are being made available to many families through farm debt adjustment, community and cooperative services.

State Fair Dates Set Sept. 6 to 12

With State Fair dates definitely set as Sept. 6 to 12 inclusive and the 1937 premium book mailed to exhibitors throughout Oregon and the northwest, those responsible for working out the details of the many educational, entertainment and thrill features of Oregon's 76th State Fair have taken up headquarters at the fair grounds and have cleared the decks for action.

In keeping with the progressive spirit of the State Fair board toward a consistent year-to-year improvement in the beauty and facilities of Oregon's state fair grounds, already known as the most attractive in the West, construction is being rushed on a mammoth new cattle barn which will house 500 head of blooded stock. The building will be 185 by 240 feet and is so planned that additions in units of 35 feet can be constructed from time to time as needed. Fresh cream colored paint being applied to other exhibit buildings will further enhance the clean, attractive appearance of the grounds where many thousands will see "Oregon on Parade" Sept. 6 to 12.

WORK ON HIGHWAYS

More than 3,680,000 man-months of labor were expended on highway construction and maintenance in the United States during 1936, according to the Oregon State Motor association.

"OL' MAN RIVER" OF THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST

ONE of the truly great rivers of the world, the Columbia finds its rise among the giant mountain peaks of Canada before crossing the border to reach the sea at Astoria, Oregon. The 460 miles that the Columbia runs through British Columbia are turbulent miles and much of the distance is paralleled by the motor highways which follow the spectacular Columbia Valley. The actual source of the river, Columbia Lake, can be reached from Spokane, Washington, or by driving north from Yellowstone Park. The road leads directly to Canada's famous national parks, Yoho and Kootenay in British Columbia and Banff in Alberta. The photographs show three of the scenes along the route. Upper left, Takakraw Falls, Yoho National Park; upper right, Giant's Steps, Banff National Park, and lower right, typical scenery along the route of the upper Columbia River.
