

Nelson, Stephens To Judge Exhibits Wool, Wheat Show

4-H Clubbers Will Make Good Showing With Fair at Rodeo

With the wool and grain shows plus the 4-H club exhibits, the Morrow county fair, held in conjunction with the Rodeo, promises to be not only the largest but the best showing since the abandonment of the old county fair some years ago.

An outstanding feature of this show will be the 4-H club sheep exhibits. Prof. O. M. Nelson, Oregon State college, has agreed to judge the sheep on Thursday, the 26th. Professor Nelson is an outstanding man on the Pacific coast as a sheep judge and goes from the Morrow county fair to the big Canadian show at Vancouver, B. C. The marked improvement shown in the sheep exhibits last year over the year before so impressed him that he expressed the wish to judge our show again if he could arrange it on his schedule. While there will be an excellent showing of blackface sheep, the outstanding feature of the sheep show will be the line-up of fine wools. The competition between Delaines and Rambouillets should be of interest to every sheep man in the county. For the last two years, Morrow county 4-H club members have won all premiums at the state fair in the 4-H fine wool classes. With the quality of exhibits further improved this year, 4-H club members are bent on making a third clean sweep at the Salem show.

In the dairy department, nearly twice as many animals are lined up as were exhibited last year.

Every sheep man in the county will be interested in looking over the wool show. Last year fleeces from this show won first and second in their classes at the Pacific International. There is every reason to believe that the wool show here at the Morrow county fair this year will be as fine as any in Oregon outside of the big show at the Pacific International.

With Morrow county standing out as an important wheat producing section, our grain show should be good. D. E. Stephens, director of the experiment station at Moro, will be the grain judge. Samples of grain for this show should be a full bushel of wheat. These samples can be tagged with the name of the exhibitor and the variety of wheat and left at any of the warehouses in the county where they will be picked up for the show. After the fair they again become the property of the owner. First and second prize winning exhibits will be cleaned up and taken to the Pacific International. It is planned this year to show field-run samples.

all liberty loan and other national drives.

Mr. Notson was elected to the office of president of the Lions club in July, but his illness prevented his serving in that capacity. He had served as vice-president of the club for several years, and signed the charter roll when the club was organized. He served several years as president of the commercial club, and was vice-president of Inland Waterways association, and first vice-president of the International Association of Sheriffs and Police, in both of which organizations he was long active.

In 1912 Mr. Notson attended the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church as a lay delegate.

Mr. Notson married Miss Mary Ann Nelson at Dunlap, Iowa, August 28, 1895, who survives. The children are Lee Wallace Notson of Logan, Ia.; Mrs. Wenvor M. Sackett of Salem; Edward A. of Anasket, Wash.; Robert C., city editor of the Portland Oregonian; Charles E., a missionary at Hochow, China, and Mrs. David Moser of New York city. Lee and Edward served with the American Expeditionary forces in France in the World war.

Mr. Notson was affiliated with Heppner lodge 66, I. O. O. F., in which he was long active, and in which he had served as noble grand.

DAVID OLIVER JUSTUS

David Oliver Justus was born to James H. and Nancy (Bennett) Justus in St. Clair county, Missouri, July 22, 1863. His father was a native of Illinois and his mother a native of Knoxville, Tenn. His early days were spent in Missouri, and he married Miss Margaret Devin of Boliver, that state, July 30, 1882. He first came to Morrow county 46 years ago, making the trip out from Missouri with his brother-in-law, the late S. P. Devin.

Mr. Justus first found employment on the James Jones ranch near Lexington, working there and on the Jones ranch just above Heppner, now the Frank Monahan place, for two or three years before locating on the present ranch on Hinton creek, the original part of which he took up as a donation land claim. Following stock and sheep raising continuously since that time, and for the last several years assisted by his sons, Nels and Ralph, his land holdings were largely increased to include a large tract just above the forks of Willow creek.

For many years an additional residence was established in town where Mrs. Justus and the boys stayed through the winter while the boys attended the local schools. Mr. Justus found time from his large ranch operations to take an active interest in fraternal work, and at time of death was a trustee of the Odd Fellows lodge. He was also affiliated with Knights of Pythias, Masons, Elks, Rebeccas, Order of Eastern Star and Ancient Order of United Woodmen. Of progressive nature in both private and public affairs, he lended his support to betterment of the community, and while never himself seeking public office he was at all times interested in better government.

He was a highly respected citizen whose loss is keenly felt by the entire community which extends its sympathy to the bereft family.

Mr. Justus was the last member of his immediate family. Surviving are the widow, two sons, and one daughter-in-law, Hulda Justus.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Jones at their home in this city Sunday, Philip Robert, weighing 8 lbs.

Camp Heppner Rated Second in District

In accordance with the policy established by Capt. B. A. Johnson of awarding a gold flag with letter "S" to the superior camp, in all departments, of the Pendleton sub-district, Vancouver Barracks CCC district, and a blue flag with letter "T" for the camp showing the greatest amount of physical improvements each month, Camp Heppner won the blue flag for the month of July and was runner-up to Camp Squaw Creek for the gold flag, losing out by only two points. The losses were on administrative deficiencies and lost time injuries. With a little effort, care and watchfulness the above items can be reduced to a minimum and this camp will be the superior camp. Anent the honor Capt. W. R. Reynolds, camp commandant, said:

"At this time I wish to give all credit for winning the blue flag to Assistant Leader Sylvio Roberts and his 'landscapers' because it was due to their efforts that Camp Heppner won this flag. If all members of this company will cooperate to remove weeds along paths, put papers in trash cans, keep bunks and lockers neat and tidy, Camp Heppner can't help but fly both flags. The office force has agreed to do its part and with the spirit of the three musketeers, 'one for all and all for one' this company will rise to its rightful position in both district and sub-district."
