BRINGS IN FLOWERS

This office acknowledges receipt on Saturday of a beautiful bouquet of flowers from the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rugg on Rhea creek. Included were many excellent specimens of zinnias, asters, marigolds, and a seed dahlia. The seed from which the dahlia grew were planted this spring, said Mr. Rugg. It created considerable interest as few of the people who viewed it knew that it was possible to grow dahlias from seed. Speaking of flowers, Mr. Rugg said they had grown beautiful gladiolas at their place, but found that the chief difference between growing "glads" here and at Grants Pass and other places where the flower has been made famous, is that the bulbs do not reproduce as well. He believed this might be attributable to a shorter growing season.

O. E. S. MEETS FRIDAY

Heppner chapter 32, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its memorial service at the regular meeting tomorrow (Friday) evening, and Virginia Turner, worthy matron, urges all members to attend.

ENJOY WASHINGTON TRIP

Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Young report an enjoyable motor trip across the river into Washington, from which they returned home yesterday noon. Leaving Heppner right after the morning church service Sunday, they first went to White Salmon where Mr. Young that afternoon united in marriage Miss Doris Wnuk, daughter of S. F. Wnuk, county commissioner of Klickitat county, and Mr. Fred Rayburn, both of White Salmon. They went back to Goldendale Monday night and visited friends, and on Tuesday went nutting in the Goodnough hills. Their nutting expedition netted a sack and a half of filberts at the rate of a dollar a sack which they picked from trees allowed to go back after an attempted introduction of the industry on a large scale several years ago. Returning through grain fields of the region, they saw fields where fall sown grain was already up four inches high.

CONVICED OF LARCENY

John Steel, 19, a member of the local CCC camp, plead guilty to charge of larceny in justice court Monday morning and was sentenced to 60 days in jail and subjected to $30 fine and $2.50 costs. The charge arose from the theft of keys from the CCC trucks at the camp last week end. Steel acknowledged taking the keys, refused to admit there were any accomplices, and denied that entry was forced into the sheds in which the trucks were stored. Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman appeared as complaining witness, and Justice J. O. Hager pronounced sentence. The degradation took place just after announcement had been made to the boys that those over 24 were subject to dismissal. Asked why he did it, Steel said, "I don't know. Something just told me to do it."

Bert Johnson Named To Waterways Post

Bert Johnson, county judge, this week accepted appointment to the post of regional vice-president, Inland Empire Waterways association, to succeed the late S. E. Notson.

In his letter of acceptance to H. G. West, executive secretary, Johnson stated the coincidence of his views with those of the association in the river development program. He stated belief in development of the Columbia river for transportation as a single unit between Bonneville and as far inland on the Columbia and Snake rivers as may be practicable to go, supported construction of a dam at Umatilla rapids as the next logical step in the development and urged a definite appropriation by congress each year looking to eventual fruition of the entire river program.

The fourth annual meeting of the association is slated to be held at Walla Walla, October 19 and 20, and Mr. Johnson urged attendance of all interested persons in this county. Everyone in Morrow county should be interested, he asserted, as largest hope for lower transportation costs for our people lies in the development of the river. Not only should our people take a passive interest, but they should take an active interest, supporting the program financially when called upon to do so. The work of the association cannot be carried on without funds, and through the association lies the main hope for bringing about the development.

SCHEDULES AUCTION

W. F. Pettyjohn has announced a large auction sale at the Webb ranch 13 miles south of Heppner for Wednesday, Sept. 29. He was in the city yesterday making arrangements. V. R.
