

THE HEHISCH

Our Student Body President

Paul McCarty, president of Heppner high school student body, entered the Heppner school system in the sixth grade. During his freshman year in high school he was class president the first semester and also football manager. In his sophomore year, he served as class president the second semester and was yell duke for the student body. As a junior he served on the Hehisch committee and in addition wrote the Pinto Points for the Hehisch. This year he is student body president and continues to write Pinto Points.

Juniors Entertain

Last Friday the juniors put on their assembly program. The first part consisted of the "Junior Frolic," which was a dance, the "Burlesque of the Class of '31," by several boys dressed in feminine attire. In the second part, some of the juniors divided into pairs, each pair representing certain well-known individuals in the various classes. As a prelude to the program, Art McAtee entertained on the piano. After the program, the new school song, "On for Heppner," was introduced to the student body.

Coach is Boxing Champion

Robert Knox, physical education director and science instructor, graduated from Melbo high school, Melbo, Idaho. During high school he played football and baseball. After graduating from the University of Oregon, where he majored in physical education, he took post graduate courses at Stanford and New York State college. He later returned to Oregon to receive his Master of Science degree. While at the University of Oregon he played freshman football and as a member of the boxing team he won the Northwest amateur welterweight boxing championship in 1937.

In the past few years he has taught at the Woodrow Wilson and Eugene Junior high schools. This summer he was active as recreational and playground director for the city of Eugene.

Freshmen Initiated

Last Friday the annual initiation was held at the school gymnasium, members of the sophomore class being the administrators. The freshmen first gave the customary skits. The sophomores then escorted them down to the basement, where they were blindfolded and ordered to put on tennis shoes. Then they crawled up the stairs on their knees, encouraged by frequent spats. After being forced to undergo various ordeals, they were given the oath of allegiance by Paul McCarty, student body president, following which the seniors served refreshments.

Pep Club Holds Initiation

Did you hear a girl scream in the Gilman apartments last Thursday night? That was one of the five persons being initiated into the Pep Club. These five members are Bethal Blake, Scott McMurdo, Buddy Blakely, Paul Doolittle and Carolyn Vaughn. All of them were baptised in the spring at the rodeo grounds, which was quite cool, and then they were blindfolded. They were taken to Miss Smith's home where they finished the initiation with many heart failing episodes, followed by refreshments. They then returned home as full pledged members of the Pep club, to take part in increasing the school spirit.

Salesman: "And, my good lady, this used car is an opportunity of a lifetime."

Juanita Phelps: "Yes, you're right. I hear it knocking."

"M-m-m, but that popcorn has a heavenly smell!" she exclaimed, as they drove past the stand.

"Hasn't it!" he exclaimed, "I'll drive a little closer."

John Crawford, (at a Parish house dance): "May I have the last dance with you?"

Jeanette Blakely: "Don't be silly. You've had it!"

Visitor: "Can you tell me if Paul McCarty is up in his room?"

Omer McCaleb: "Sorry, there's nobody home in the top story."

Visitor: "Oh, excuse me. I'll ask someone else."

Bill: "If a man steals, no matter what, he will live to regret it."

Mary (cooly): "You used to steal kisses from me before we were married."

Bill: "Well, you heard what I said."

Carolyn (to telephone operator): "Please give me the zoo."

Operator: "Sorry, the lion is busy."

Grade School: "Oh, excuse me."

"Could I have this dnace?"

"May I have the pleasure of escorting you home?"

High School: "Pardon."

"How about a hop?"

"Lets go."

College: "Get out of my way."

"Let's struggle."

"Come on."

Lester Taylor: "I'm doing my best to get ahead."

Sammy Johnston: "Well, you certainly need one."

"Snooper's" Findings—

Alberta Garret has a "beau."
Scott McMurdo doesn't always "dress for the occasion."

Dean Gilman and Laura Warfield make an excellent Romeo and Juliet.

Jack Vaughn is interested in Willow creek agriculture. (You know, Hays.)

Jack Morton is standing "Pat."
Shirley Wilson has to "Grin and Barratt."

PINTO POINTS

Due to the inability of Fossil to conform to its schedule. Heppner's first two games of the season are to be played against Condon, with the second game scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on the latter's home field.

After two weeks of practice with no games in that length of time, the locals will be at full strength for the Gilliam county team. Condon's squad was hit by injuries in the last fray with Heppner, and barring such happenings in the coming tilt, they show promise of making it a memorable encounter. Good-luck omens seem to favor Condon, as it is on the home field, all injuries diminished to a minority, and a defeat for which revenge must be gained. The first game of the season revealed a weak defense on the part of the Mustangs, and with this given an extra polish, Heppner's forces will march into battle fully equipped with the materials of gridiron warfare.

Lexington's christening of six-man football in Morrow county last Friday demonstrated that it is the ideal game for schools whose enrollment does not permit a standard-size squad. Although still in the developing stage, it proved its worthiness and displayed several possibilities of providing a capable substitute for the eleven-man game. Easily the star of the game was Bob Campbell, Lexington power-boy. On the morning of the game, an "uncalled for" remark was made to one of the Jackrabbit linemen concerning his physical appearance . . . it didn't set exactly as planned, and when game time rolled around, a slight remembrance of this statement still remained in his mind. As a result, the line-play of this forward wall member was not exactly topping par. One noticeable feature of the game was an intentional act of a Lexington back-field man . . . carrying the ball on an end-around. he found himself practically running into the arms of a tackler . . . instead of attempting to side-step his opponent, he immediately increased his speed and hurled himself into the lone lad.

Goalpost shadows . . . An outstanding line prospect for the University of Oregon is Jim Stuart, 210-pound tackle from Hermiston . . . in high school while playing for the Bulldogs, he also substituted as full-back . . . playing this position only when Hermiston needed a last minute score to assure them of victory. The Adams Warriors, under the mentorship of Henry Tetz, ex-Heppner coach, defeated the Helix Grizzlies 27 to 7, playing the game minus the services of Bill Warren, stellar halfback, who recently sustained a broken collar-bone . . . in this game, a member of the Helix team received a concussion, and was unconscious for two days . . . the Adams six-man football team was recently viewed by newspaper readers of eastern Oregon, as their picture was featured on the sport page of one of last week's East Oregonian issues. An additional game has been added to Heppner's "uncertain" schedule . . . to be played here on October 15 with the gridiron representatives of Touchet, Wash.

Football fans who happened to tune in on the Pacific University-University of Portland football game last Saturday heard the name of Len Gilman mentioned very frequently . . . one time being the ball-carrier who detained the progress of the game because of the hard knock received by his tackler, removing some wind from his opponent's sails . . . in a resume of the game, the announcer commended his passing ability, citing his bullet-like passes.

Upper Classmen Victorious

The upper classmen proved themselves the more aggressive in last Friday's game, winning from the lower classmen by a margin of 6-2. Receiving the kickoff on their own twenty-yard line the upper classmen ran the ball back about twenty yards, but lost it on downs. Little was done until the last half, when the upper classmen tried to put the ball out of dangerous territory. The kick was blocked, but the ball was recovered by an upper classman behind his goal line, the result being a safety for the lower classmen.

As the upper classmen were moving up the field, a pass was tossed by Coxen to Kenny, who with excellent blocking made a 50-yard run for a touchdown. With but a minute remaining in the game after the score, the lower classmen attempted in vain to push across the winning tally.
