

Local Happenings

Leonard Carlson came to town Saturday from the Gooseberry farm. Seeding in his section was reported as well along and farmers were ready to welcome rain. There was deep moisture in the summer fallow, he said, but surface moisture was needed to give the new grain a good start. Some of the new seeding was showing through the ground.

Leslie L. Matlock is confined at Heppner hospital suffering a severe attack of pneumonia. His sisters Mrs. Gene Vaughn and Mrs. Bertha Richardson were notified at Portland, and one brought oxygen tanks to assist in treatment. Mr. Matlock battled successfully against a similar attack last winter.

D. S. Barlow was in the city yesterday from the farm in the Gooseberry section. He had not commenced his fall seeding yet, preferring to wait until good rains arrived. So far his section had been missed by heavy showers.

Ed Dick, Jr., expects to leave tomorrow for Forest Grove where he will continue studies at Pacific university. He delayed entering this fall while assisting his father in installing oil stoves.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barratt, Billy and Jim, returned home Sunday from Portland where they were called by the death of Mr. Barratt's father, the late W. B. Barratt, last week.

Bang's Disease Tests Subject of Meetings

Oregon dairymen will have an opportunity during the latter part of October and the first three weeks in November to express their views regarding a proposed order requiring that all Bang's disease testing be done only by persons authorized to make such tests, and that all reactors found will be branded as such by these testers.

The Oregon State college extension service is cooperating at the request of the state department of agriculture in holding these hearings at which the proposed order will be carefully explained to the dairymen and their views on the matter solicited. Meetings will be conducted for dairymen of every county in the state, according to S. T. White, director of the state department.

Most dairymen of the state are aware of the many disadvantages of the present system under which unofficial testing is possible. All who are interested, however, are invited to attend these meetings to hear the matter explained in detail and express their opinions on the subject, in order that any action taken may be in accord with the wishes of the dairy industry as a whole.

Morrow county will join with Gilliam, Wheeler and Sherman counties in a meeting at Arlington on November 2, Mr. White announced.

NO DEVASTATING COLD STARTING with the The "CAT"

These cold mornings make Caterpillar owners appreciate its independent starting system, making possible a Diesel engine designed for minimum wear and fuel economy.

See a footballer trotting on the side lines; horses practicing before the race; airplanes "revving" their engines before the take-off.

—It's the conditioning period known as "warming up." "Caterpillar" Diesel engines use it. The starting engine (strictly independent) turns the big engine over to break the oil film, runs it against compression, but without fuel until it is warm.

Thus is the "Caterpillar" Diesel conditioned for starting—cylinder temperatures are sufficient—oil is flowing to vital parts—before the engine starts.
