We Will Do It!

The annual Armistice Day football game between Hermiston and Heppner will be the crowning point of Heppner high school's football season. Though both schools have always observed the codes of sportsmanship, not mentioning the rather unjustifiable action taken by Heppner students last year, it should be the hope of every student to maintain these standards and try to make Hermiston feel welcome as any good host should do. This will be the only way in which to compensate for the unforgettable goalpost incident. It is only once every year that we are host to Hermiston, so let's not let high-pitched rivalry overrun our emotions to the extent of booing or any other unsportsmanlike attitude.

Social Hour Wednesday

The social hour held last Wednesday evening was well attended and enjoyed by everyone. It was evident that everybody enjoyed the music for dancing, available through the new sound system.

Eighth Grade News

The eighth grade has been busy preparing reports on Oregon history in accordance with their history lessons. Some of the reports have already been given, and the others are expected to be in by Wednesday. The reports so far have been very interesting.
 The grade school boys are scheduled to play a basketball game with the freshmen Wednesday evening. Having been beaten at football, they may turn the tables at basketball.

Health Class Experiment

An interesting experiment is being performed by Mr. Knox concerning the junior and senior boys' health class. The text book method did not prove satisfactory to Mr. Knox, and he had the boys write questions concerning health. These questions are discussed during the health period. Only one class discussion has been had of this type of discussion, and it has proven very interesting. Many questions which have been bothering the boys have been turned in to be discussed later.

F.F.A. Carnival Last Saturday

The F. F. A. held its carnival Saturday night and was very much pleased with the results. This was the first carnival to be held by the organization, and though it was a success, the next one will be bigger and better. The high school would like to see more of the grown-ups of Heppner at these activities.
 The F. F. A. wishes to thank the stores and the towns-people most heartily for their donations to the carnival.

PINTO POINTS

This year's traditional Armistice Day football game between the warring gridiron representatives of Heppner and Hermiston brings together two teams whose fervent rivalry reaches a higher degree with each game played. The revenge-seeking Bulldogs, hailing from the enterprising little city of Hermiston that supports co-ops of all sizes, shapes, and forms, have not emerged victorious in these "peace-celebration" games since 1934. That year, with the game played in the backyard of the Bulldog kennel, Heppner's highly-touted power-house team fell before the onslaught of a snappy Hermiston outfit that consistently played heads-up football. The following year, a green and inexperienced but unpredictable bunch of Heppner boys played host to a much heavier team from our neighboring Umatilla city, whom fans picked as a decided favorite to cart home the laurels of sweet victory. But the grand game of football would not be itself without claiming its amazing yearly total of upsets, and it remained for the Heppner Mustangs to 13 to 0 win over the visiting Hermiston gridders. The scene of battle for the 1936 tilt switched to the project town, and before a large crowd, brimming with enthusiasm, the Mustangs, then known as the Fighting Irish, edged out a 7 to 6 victory. These games, played on a yearly home-and-home basis, have in past years provided gridiron entertainment of the highest degree, and Thursday's fray gives indications of surpassing all previous meetings. Hermiston possesses an enviable late season record. Although losing to Pasco, Mac-Hi, Kennewick, tying Waitsburg and the Walla Walla B squad, the Bulldogs held the strong Pendleton Buckaroos to a single touchdown, gaining victories over Joseph and Arlington, the latter win being the game on which comparative performances are being made between Heppner and Hermiston.

The Mustangs progressed through their current football season with three straight victories, two over Condon and one from Touchet, Wn.; however, in the following game, the locals ran up against Arlington, a team that provided considerably more opposition than they could handle, falling before the Honkers' 5 razzle dazzle aerial circus 18 to 0. In its most recent contest, which was played last Friday at Fossil, the favored Heppner outfit was held to a 6 to 6 tie by a much-improved Wheeler county team.

Heppner's losing to Arlington, the team which Hermiston defeated in a hard-fought game, places the Bulldogs as a favorite in the eyes of fans who are betting their spare change on the outcome of this forthcoming fray between the bitterest of rivals. The results of the Fossil game will not bolster Heppner's claim to a possible victory, but after such a hectic week in which a defeat and a tie were the outcome, the Mustangs, playing on their own field, which is always a distinct advantage, are preparing to stampede for the score that means the third straight victory over Thursday's visitors.

Curfew chatter . . . Hermiston has the reputation of being able to dish it out . . . from newspaper reports of its game with Joseph, in which Frank O'Neill's proteges were 19 to 0 victors, the Joseph coach withdrew his team from the field in the third quarter . . . the reason given for the forfeit was the hard-driving, fast-stepping Bulldogs were too big and tough. The humor editor of last week's Hehisch was evidently lacking in his foundation on football results . . . it seems he was asking why somebody didn't invent a team that could beat Arlington . . . the truth of it is thus far this season, four squads have done so. The return of Jackson Gilliam, Mustang tackle, to the line up for the Hermiston meet, will bring Heppner's varsity to full strength . . . he has not played in the last two games, as business demanded his presence elsewhere on the dates of the most recent duo of meetings. Six certain boys on the roster of the Hermiston team constitute a total of three names . . . there being two Shipp boys, a Moore duet, and the same number of Rankins. According to the Hermiston high school paper, La Verne Van Marter has added considerable poundage to his frame since last year's game . . . that publication gave his weight at 205 . . . they are due for a surprise when they see a wee fellow of 190 pounds come plunging through the line at full speed.

The answer to last week's cranium breaker: The car would coast a distance of 1,440 feet, with B winning the bet.

This week's: In a note to his employer, an ignorant gardener wrote he had "sewed" a flower bed. The employer read therein what the yield would be. What was it?

Hearsays

Bob Scrivner: "I mustache off to class."

Van Marter: Wants to live with the Eskimos. (To chew the fat.)

Paul McCarty: Thinks week-ends should be used as hat racks.

Lloyd Burkenbine: Thinks track meets are some new-fangled steaks.

Shirley Wilson: Thinks a quack doctor helps sick ducks.

Lost: A fountain pen by Dean Sprinkel, half full of ink. A watch by a freshman with a screw loose.

Bill Browning (to team mate): "That's a fast man, wasn't he?"

Jack Morton with Dad as they passed Gordon's: "It's too bad I am broke, Dad, or else I would have bought you a malt."

Don Evans: "Aw, gee! Ma made me take a bath; now see how plain that hole in my sock shows."

She: "What did your dad say when you asked him for the car?"

He: "Ah! He was just like a lamb."

She: "He was! What did he say?"

He: "Baa!"

Clayton: "I see New York is having political pie again."

Mr. B.: "What kind of pie is that?"

Clayton: "Apple sauce and prune juice."

Bob Davidson: "What caused the explosion between you and Lourne?"

Pat Healy: "Powder upon the coat sleeve."

Betty Robinson: "Do you know how to make anti-freeze?"

Marjorie McFerrin: "No, how?"

Betty: "Hide her woolen pajamas."

Mr. Peavy: "Correct this sentence: 'Girls are naturally better looking than boys.'"

John Crawford: "Girls are artificially better looking than boys."

Mr. Blankenship (using phone): Give me 2-2 double 2.

Operator: "Two-two-two-two?"

Mr. B.: "Yes, but hurry up. I'll play train with you later."

ISSUES WARNING

To the Editor:
 It has come to the attention of this office that local people have occasionally purchased from members of the C. C. C. camp, blankets, articles of clothing, cigarettes, and various other articles.

This was undoubtedly done without thought being given to the source from which the boys obtained these articles, and the position in which the purchaser was placing himself.

Therefore, I am taking this method to warn all local citizens that all equipment issued to the C. C. C. boys is the property of the Federal Government. Also, no issue of cigarettes or other items is made to the boys. Any article offered for sale by any C. C. C. boy should be thoroughly investigated as to his right to possession, before a purchase is made. This, of course, applies only to personal property. As to military equipment, including blankets and clothing, the only assumption possible is that this is Federal property, and anyone purchasing or receiving such property is subject to prosecution in either the local or Federal courts, at the discretion of the camp authorities.

 District Attorney.
