Ione Post, Unit Entertain Guests

By MARGARET BLAKE

On Tuesday evening the Auxiliary entertained the members of the Legion and other guests with a dinner. Robert Burlingame of Milton, commander of Dist. 6; Mrs. Marie Todd of Hermiston, president of Dist. 6, and ten other ladies and gentlemen were present from Hermiston, Pendleton and Milton. Following the dinner an open meeting was held during which interesting talks were given by Mr. Burlingame, Mrs. Todd and others.

Later in the evening the Legion elected officers who were then installed by Mr. Burlingame, as follows: O. G. Haguewood, commander; Victor Rietmann, vice commander; Walter Roberts, adjutant; Ray Turner, finance officer; Fred Nicholson, chaplain; Cleo Drake, sergeant-at-arms.

Stunts, group singing, and dancing rounded out the evening.

Mrs. Frank Engelman returned Monday night from California where she visited her sister, Mrs. James Cossman, the past two months.

The Logion Auxiliary held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Mankin on Armistice day. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at noon. Plans were made for a joint meeting to be held with the Legion and for a Christmas tea and bazaar to be held early in December.

Miss Betty Jean Mankin and Miss Mary K. Blake attended the Y. P. F. conference at The Dalles Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalzell of Spokane were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mason last week.

Rev. Ralph Hinkle of Portland conducted services at the Christian church last Sunday following the Sunday school hour.

"Bill" Clark, one time blacksmith in our little city, stopped here for a short time Monday enroute to his home at Elmira. A trailer loaded with three elk was the result of the hunt enjoyed by him and his party.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clark of Medford were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ferris last Thursday and Friday. Mr. Clark is the brother of Mrs. Ferris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Feldman departed by automobile for California last Thursday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Feldman's mother, Mrs. J. L. Schumacher who has been with them the past month. The Feldman's will visit in both central and southern California. Later Mrs. Feldman will visit her daughter, Mrs. Neil Shuirman, in Flint, Mich., before returning home.

Mrs. E. J. Keller returned Sunday morning from Washington where she has been visiting relatives of her family at Tacoma, Seattle and Port Angeles. While in Tacoma Mrs. Keller enjoyed a reunion with her three sisters and a brother. The entire family were together for the first time in twenty-five years.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Salter returned Sunday evening from Olympia, Wn., where they have spent the past three weeks with their son who is ill.

Mrs. Henry Clark has been called to Pendleton by the serious illness of her brother, Will Ganger.

Byron Kinsley of The Dalles was a business visitor here Tuesday.

Miss Frances Stewart, commercial teacher in the high school, has been quite ill. On Monday morning she was operated on for appendicitis at the Heppner hospital. She is reported to be recovering quite satisfactorily. Mrs. Errett Hummel is taking her place at school.

A Thanksgiving program will be presented at the school gym next Tuesday evening by the grade school. The public is invited and there will be no charge.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hinckly of Dixie, Wash., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laxton McMurray. Next week Mr. and Mrs. Hinckly will take charge of the Park hotel for the winter months.

At the regular November meeting of the city council, Paul G. Balsiger, who is leaving Ione and who has served as a councilman for many years, was presented by the members with a beautiful pen and pencil desk set.

R. B. Rice was a Heppner visitor yesterday from Artesian Well farm north of Lexington.

More New Books Come to Library

Books recently received by the Heppner public library include: "Honey, the City Bear," "Winnebago Boy," "The Polar Bear Twins" and "Ting-a-ling and Me-Too" for the juveniles. Boys should be interested in "Great Sea Stories of All Nations" by the world's masters; also in Halliburton's "Book of Marvels" which takes its readers on a tour of North, South and Central America and Europe, as well as having 105 magnificent illustrations including full-page and two-page photographs.

In the mystery group here is "Give Me Death" by Isabel Briggs Myers, and "The Stolen God" by Edison Marshall. Chosen from the most recent fiction is "The Lost King" by Sabatini, a historical tale of the French revolution and the strange disappearance of Louis XVII, the Lost Dauphin—perfect material for this author. "Daylight Moon" is by Elizabeth Chabot Forest. Mrs. Forest and her husband, after leaving their eastern Oregon farm, go to the northern tip of Alaska to a government settlement of Eskimos where they are responsible for the well-being of 200 natives, cut off from contact with the rest of the world. "Daylight Moon" tells of their experiences in his far-off village.

"Enchanter's Nightshade" is the story of an amazing family, destined for amazing events—not the least among them being the coming of an English governess. Written by Ann Bridge, the author of "Illyrian Spring" and "Peking Picnic."

"The Citadel" is called "a great novel about a doctor by a doctor who is a great novelist." It is based on the famous author's experiences as a young physician in the Welsh collieries.

"General Chiang Kai-Shek" is, of course, the last decade in China and tells of the work of this famous general and his brilliant wife.

There are three more books to come in this group and are expected to arrive soon: Another Oppenheim story, "The Magnificent Hoax;" "Tish Marches On" by Mary Roberts Rinehart, in which perennially interesting Tish, Lizzie and Aggie find themselves in game hunting and get themselves and everybody else into trouble; and "Home for Christmas" by Lloyd C. Douglas, author of "Magnificent Obsession," "The Green Light" and "White Banners." "Home for Christmas" is a delightful novelette—a story of five widely scattered brothers and sisters who return home for Christmas.

Beulah Nichols Gets Bid to Honor Meet

Oregon State College, Corvallis, Nov. 17—Beulah Nichols of Lexington, freshman in education at Oregon State college, was one of 63 freshmen women honored November 16 at the annual banquet given by Alpha Lambda Delta, honor society for sophomore women. Only freshmen women who had outstanding scholastic records through all four years of high school were present.

Selection of the women was based on a grade standing which included more A's than B's and nothing below B, or an equivalent of this standard in other grading systems.

Irene Etter of Pilot Rock, president of Associated Women students, presided as toastmistress. A silver cup was awarded to Marion Tatom of Philomath, who attained the highest grade point average as a freshman woman last year. This is the first time the award has been made. Mrs. Kate W. Jameson, dean of women, addressed the group of women students and faculty guests. The theme of the banquet was "Flying High."

Miss Phyllis Pollock, who is teaching at The Dalles, spent the week end at the home of her mother, Mrs. Glenn Jones.

Orlo Martin of The Dalles was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

Here's what we did to FATHER!

1. Father had become an old grouch. If we kids opened our mouths at night, he'd bite our heads off. He'd fall asleep under his paper—gee, evenings at home were terrible.

2. I used to sneak over and visit Pinky Jones as often as I could. Their house was so bright and cheery—not gloomy and glarey like ours. Reading or playing games there was as easy as pie. It was fun to be there.

3. Well, was I surprised one night to hear jolly Mr. Jones say that eyestrain had almost made him an old meanie once . . . but that light conditioning had changed him back into a human being.

4. Believe me, I told Mother about this light conditioning business. We had Pacific Power & Light Company's home lighting advisor come out. We found light conditioning meant having the right kind of light for seeing, comfort and beauty.

LIGHT CONDITION your living room with this beautiful lamp!

If you like lovely things, you'll want this semi-indirect I.E.S. floor lamp. The standard is silver and gold finish. Three candles containing 40-watt bulbs grace the diffusing bowl and the 100-200-300 watt bulb in the center. The shade is pleated silk, and you have your choice of three soft, warm colors. A night light in the base is a useful accessory. See this beautiful lamp today!

PRICE $24.95 TERMS IF YOU WISH

5. Mother agreed just to light condition Father's chair and wait for results. Gee whiz—Father's like a different person—not nervous or irritable at all. Our whole house is light conditioned now, and it's swell. Light conditioning doesn't cost much because Pacific Power & Light Company's electric rates are so low. If your Father's grumpy ask their home lighting advisor to show him the "light" She'll do it for nothing.
