Robert Smith with his son Harvey and daughter Bonnie spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Dan O'Hara at Kinzua.

Morrow Release First, WPA Survey

Portland, Nov. 28—County inventories compiled by the Historical Records survey, WPA project, have been completed for Wheeler, Lincoln, Clatsop and Clackamas counties, and were forwarded to Washington during November. The content includes descriptions of all county records, essays on the legal organization of county government and a short history of the county itself.

When Washington approves an inventory for publication it is then mimeographed and bound, and released to county officials, libraries, and interested laymen. To date the Oregon office of Historical Records survey has submitted 27 draft inventories to Washington for approval. Morrow county, recently released, was the first inventory to be published for the state of Oregon.

Butter Creek Folk Petition for Road

Petition of 39 Butter creek residents for a county road between the Vey Gate and Vinson on Big Butter creek will be heard before the county court December 10, according to a petition posted on the courthouse bulletin board.

This road would make a cut-off connection between the Oregon-Washington highway at Vinson and the Lexington-Echo road at Pine City. The road as prayed for in the petition is described as follows: Beginning at the end of the present county road at what is known as the Vey Gate on Big Butter Creek to the intersection with present county road from Vinson down Big Butter Creek to Morrow county line.

NANCY GRACE PETERSON

Nancy Grace Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ture Peterson, died at birth at Heppner hospital, November 25. Burial with services at the graveside was made in the Eight Mile cemetery that afternoon.

C. E. Carlson was transacting business in town Saturday from the Gooseberry farm.

Margaret Lieuallen Weds at Pendleton

Miss Margaret Lieuallen, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Lieuallen of Pendleton and former Heppner girl, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Bale of Raymond, Wash., Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock at the Church of Christ in Pendleton. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Cecil L. Lieuallen, Pendleton's mayor, her sister, Miss Anice Lieuallen, was maid of honor, and her brother, Alman Lieuallen, was best man.

The bride wore Oxford grey tailleur with dubonnet blouse, black felt hat with veil and black accessories. Her corsage was of rosebuds and button chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid wore cherry-red taffeta with corsage of snapdragons.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lieuallen following the ceremony. After a wedding trip to California the young couple will be at home at Raymond, Wash., where Mr. Bale has extensive farming interests.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's sister, Mrs. J. G. Barratt, Mr. Barratt, and sons Billy and James, Mrs. Lester Gammell and children, Marianne, Robert and Ray, all of Heppner; Mrs. Vic Wheelhouse and Mr. Wheelhouse of Arlington, also Mr. and Mrs. Orin Wright, Heppner; Mr. George Bale, father of the bridegroom, Raymond, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Alex McKenzie and son Jay, and Mr. and Mrs. John Winn, all of Adams. Other guests included Judge and Mrs. Carl Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Oral Henriksen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jones and children, Miss Verna Kokonen and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Foley and daughter.

Strip Cropping Liked On Anderson Farm

Strip cropping as a method of checking soil and water losses on cultivated land is being used on the Hilma Anderson farm 11 miles west of Heppner.

The plan, drawn up in cooperation with the Soil Conservation service, calls for alternate strips of wheat and summer fallow with a grass strip between. Winter wheat seeded on the strips to be cropped next year has made a good stand. The fallow strips have been basin-listed as further protection against loss of soil and water.

Frank Anderson, operator of the farm, is enthusiastic over the possibilities of strip cropping in controlling erosion. Their field on which it is being demonstrated was formerly subject to severe washing. Anderson believes that in addition to reducing soil and water losses and stopping gullying, strip cropping, by causing increased moisture penetration, will give him a cash return in higher wheat yields.

Frozen Food Discussed At State Hort Meeting

Medford—The new frozen food industry as it affects Oregon horticulture, is being emphasized on this year's program of the Oregon State Horticultural society, which is holding its fifty-second annual meeting at Medford, December 2 and 3.

A special exhibit of frozen foods and a discussion of this subject has been arranged for Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when consumers as well as producers are invited to see the display and hear about the latest developments in food freezing as explained by H. Campbell of the federal frozen foods laboratory, in Seattle, and others.

The regular sessions of the society meeting this year are being devoted to a wide variety of horticultural problems, but with considerable emphasis on the pear industry. Col. Gordon Voorhies of Medford is president of the society this year, and O. T. McWhorter of Oregon State college is secretary treasurer.

SUCCEEDS FATHER WALSH

Father Richard J. Healy arrived the end of the week from La Grande to relieve Father James J. Walsh who is at St. Anthony's hospital in Pendleton being treated for injuries received when he accidentally fell into Willow creek at the South Court street bridge last week.

CCC Camp Enjoys Gala Thanksgiving

A gala Thanksgiving day was enjoyed by CCC Co. 297 at Camp Heppner. Breakfast was served at 9 a. m., and by the time dinner was called at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, members were ready and willing to put away the bounteous meal prepared by the kitchen staff under supervision of Lieut. J. G. Katin, mess officer, and Antone Schiller, mess sergeant. Souvenir place cards and menus were given out.

The menu read: Shrimp cocktail, sweet mixed pickles, hearts of celery, stuffed olives, roast Oregon turkey, oyster dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, candied sweet potatoes, snowflake potatoes, buttered peas, lettuce and tomato salad, Heppner dressing, pumpkin pie, mince pie, vanilla layer cake, assorted fresh fruits, assorted nuts and candies, coffee, sweet cider, cigarettes.

Quite a few of the foremen of the SCS technical staff brought their families to camp as guests. Mrs. LeGrand Guild, wife of Agronomist Guild; Mrs. C. C. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Francis of Warrenton, and Mrs. Marvin Dixon, Mrs. Orval Osborne and son Norval, were all dinner guests.

BUYS RECTOR LAND

Transfer was made this week of 1500 acres of Joe Rector estate land, lying north of Oregon-Washington highway, to Mrs. Helen Cohn, by heirs of the estate. This land has been used as sheep range by H. A. Cohn for several years.

Rice McHaley was in the city on Monday from his home at Prairie City.
