Athletics Financial Success

Basketball season has been officially opened in Heppner high. In the opening game the team played in new outfits purchased this year by the student body.

So far in this school year athletics have enjoyed financial success and the excellent support of the townspeople. If throughout the basketball season this same loyal support continues, Heppner will have finished a very successful year from a financial standpoint.

The Upper Columbia league is divided into two groups, made up of the smaller schools and the larger schools. The teams in the "A" are Arlington, Fossil, Heppner and Condon. The winners in each league will play for the championship.

Practice Game With CCC

The basketball team played its first game of the season, a pre-opening practice game, with the local CCC camp, last Friday evening. As indicated by the score, 19 to 38 in favor of Heppner, it is evident that a promising future is in store for the squad this coming season. Though well based on fundamentals, there are many rough spots to be polished off, mostly with the aid of experience. Van Marter proved himself capable of holding down his reputation by a series of running shots mainly responsible for the victory. Aiken and Coxen, two promising first stringers, took good care of the ever necessary defensive end of the game. All "subs" saw action, most of whom are freshmen, stars of last year's grade school team, who display great possibilities of becoming a future team "to beat."

Fifth Grade News

The fifth grade had a Thanksgiving program last Wednesday. It was enjoyed by all the fifth grade pupils, also their mothers and friends.

The fifth grade pupils held a meeting in their room. They elected new officers as follows: President, Marylou Ferguson; vice-president, Ted Ferguson; secretary, Kathryn Howell; treasurer, Glenn McMurtry; reporter, Patricia Kenny; sergeant-at-arms, Frank Christenson.

Eighth Grade News

The eighth grade elected new officers for the six weeks. These were as follows: President, Kay Ferguson; vice-president, Billy Padberg; secretary, Calvin Crawford; reporter, Billy Scrivner; patrolman, Junior Greeley; librarian, Lib Healy; yell leader, Peggy Tamblin.

Monday, the grade school team played the freshmen in basketball. The score was 42 to 10 in favor of the freshmen.

PINTO POINTS

The attention of local sports fans will be diverted for a short time, approximately three months, to the indoor sport of the maple court. Of course the name of that diversion is quite familiar. Commonly known as basketball, the object of the game is to drop the circular ball through the mesh net for a total score greater than that of the opposing team, whether it is done by straight basketball methods or by sleight-of-hand work. As to who will emerge on top of the newly formed league, composed of Heppner, Arlington, Fossil, and Condon, is a question the answer to which anyone would give a wooden nickel to rightfully and correctly possess.

However, the "grapevine" telegraph has a way of secretly dispensing inside news, and from the information gained through that usually reliable source, Arlington is the team to beat. Why? Because the Honker town has on its squad, five returning veterans who composed the team that reached the semi-finals in the district tournament last spring. This district, by the way, comprises more territory than any in the state. Fossil has enough reporting lettermen this year to more than form a formidable quintet. The dopsters have the Condon outlook figured as questionable, the Gilliam county basketball ambassadors' chances having been strengthened by the reporting to practice of Don Jones, transfer from the Grant Union quintet of John Day, which also reached the semi-finals in the '37 meet. Figuring the future of the local hoopsters is a task no one craves, including yours truly. With Van Marter the only returning letter-earner, the prospects of a successful second term will be hampered by the possibility of his ineligibility. The tenure of his position at center hangs on the results of the decision to be rendered in December by the Tregon State High School Athletic association.

To prove that girls participating in sports become as infuriated and aroused as do boys, the writer questioned a feminine student of this school who was formerly the same of the Ione institute of learning. As center on the Ione basketball team that was playing the girls' squad from Umatilla, she received or was made the victim of an act rarely seen or heard of on the basketball court. The center opposing this local student had fouled the then-Ione miss three times in rapid order while trying to gain for herself a gift shot. On the fourth time, which meant being excused permanently from that particular game, so tired was the girl from the river town that she let loose with a swing that hit the Ione center flush on the jaw, setting her on the floor and putting a blinker on the lights as far as she was concerned. And for several minutes, the twirling stars twinkled quite brightly.

Curfew chatter . . . The opening game of the current basketball season for the Mustangs, last Tuesday night, placed the locals in the position of host to the Ione hoopsters. . . the last time these two teams met, Jim Driscoll, star Mustang player of two years ago, set something of a record as far as high scoring is concerned . . . this son of the school's janitor went stark wild at the hoop that night and ran up the amazing total of 31 points, the entire Heppner five scoring 47 tallies, which gave Driscoll a very favorable percentage of total points scored . . . this high score of the aforementioned basketballer was also 8 more points than the sum of the Ione score. The smartest boxer on last Wednesday's boxing card was not a Yellow Jacket from Boardman but a "Wild Irishman" from Heppner. . . Jack Healy proved himself to be the cleverest fist flinger on the socking menu . . . this son of Erin has a peculiar left punch that swings almost entirely from the elbow . . . when his opponent, who carried the name of McDonald, split the atmosphere with a round-house swing, Healy quickly stepped inside the swing and let fly with his elbow-swivel punch. Heppner's "farmer boy" leather pushers may have annexed the smoker from Boardman, but they were also the annexers of something besides a victory . . . when it came time to examine the local FFA boys for bruises, broken bones, and the like, some of them were the possessors, proud or otherwise, of a few of the blackest shiners seen in these parts for some time. Arlington high considers itself holder of the Class B high school football championship. This writer is not questioning that claim, but according to a Portland paper, that team was undefeated both this season and last by other Class B teams, and received only one defeat in Oregon, that by Hermiston, a Class A team. Now, that's where the case of a technicality steps in. The Honkers, as previously stated, claim to be undefeated both this season and last by teams of its same class. If the students of Arlington high, the members of its football team, the athletic manager, and the coach, Vince Barrett, will scout through the records, they will discover undoubtedly to their surprise, that Arlington "unblemished" record has a black spot on it. In 1936, playing on the Arlington home field, the Heppner team, led by Len Gilman, who as a freshman this year at Pacific university was the leading scorer in the Northwest conference, opened up with an effective variety of running and passing plays that all but swept Arlington off its feet. The host team that day, who in a previous game had knocked over Heppner 12-0, lost to Heppner's Mustangs by two touchdowns and two conversions for a total of 14 points. (Hermiston, it must be noted, also defeated Arlington, 6-0, in 1936.) And with that defeat Arlington lost all rightful claim to the title of having been undefeated both this season and last. Another thing, Hermiston is not rated as a Class A team, Class A meaning that school has an enrollment of more than 150 students. As Hermiston is in the same group as Arlington, that gives the Honkers three defeats in Oregon, covering this season and last. As just a reminder, sports readers were misinformed when they read that Arlington has been undefeated both this season and last by other Class B teams.

Gossip

What's this! Some freshmen boys are feeling sort of let down because of the vacation. Seniors, get busy; you can't let this happen.

What next? Bethal Blake has just found out a new technique used by the college boys.

Another crash on the market! Jackin Gilliam and Betty Robinson have split up. It couldn't be because of a certain dance.

Have you noticed the popularity of a certain student since he has the use of the family car?

Some students are wondering who Joe Aiken's next flame will be. If anyone has some suggestion, he might help Joe.

Flash! John Crawford has taken a sudden interest in church. Sybil Howell joined the Christian church.

It must be a fad! Everyone seems to be using the Southern accent now.

What's this? Two college boys and two high school girls were seen riding in the country Friday.

Somebody said that you can fool some of the teachers all the time and all of the teachers some of the time, but you can't fool all of the teachers all the time.

Ho hum, guess I'll sign off—oh, wait a second—Harriet Hager was seen about town over the vacation. She is thinking of attending the university next year.

NEWS FLASH! Donne Bennett can come out of seclusion now that the vacation is over.

Mr. Peavy: "Use 'cauterize' in a sentence."

Joe: "I knew she was mine the moment I caught her eyes."

Jean: "Why the patch over your eye?"

Rufus: "Had a big blowout last night."

Coach: "Has your wife changed very much since you married her?"
Mr. Blankenship: "Yes; my habits, my friends, and my hours."

Kemp D.: "Mother, you didn't expect to have so many people to dinner, did you?"

Kemp's M.: "Did a little bird tell you?"

Kemp: "Yeah, the little piece of turkey on my plate."

Emmet: "Mother, what did you do with my shirt?"

Mother: "I sent it to the laundry."

Emmet: "Ye gods, the whole history of Ireland was on the cuffs."

Jackson: "Two seats."

Arlene: "A little bird told me you were going to give me a box of candy for Christmas."

Jack: "It must have been a little cuckoo."

Harriet: "How many ribs have you, Omer?"

Omer: "I don't know. I'm so awfully ticklish I never could count them."

Harold: "What did you get in Geometry today?"

Jackson: "90."

Harold: "How far were you from the answer?"

Don E.: "Name some liquid that won't freeze."

Laura S.: "Hot water."

Don B.'s Dad: "Son, I'm spanking you because I love you."

Don B.: "Dad, I wish I were big enough to return your love."

Mr. Bennett: "Did you test that oil?"

L. Wehmeyer: (wiping off his mouth): "Yeah, and it sure tasted awful!"

J. Logie Richardson and Dr. J. H. McCrady spent Thanksgiving in Portland.
