HARDMAN NEWS

Hardman Teacher Injured by Clam Shell

By OPAL HASTINGS

After supper Saturday night at the party held by the Rebekahs several people were throwing clam shells. One of these shells accidentally struck Miss Iris Morton's glasses, breaking the glass and cutting the eyeball. Mrs. Neal Knighten and Marvin Brannon took her to medical aid in Heppner. She was not hurt severely and was able to teach school Monday.

On Saturday night before installation the Rebekahs served clams, pie and jello to the Odd Fellows and those who were interested in the lodge. After supper installation was held and a dance followed with music by James Stevens and Richard Robison. Several songs were sung by Delvin McDaniel and Richard Robison.

The largest attendance of the new year was at Christian Endeavor on Sunday night. Marvin Brannon was leader and topic for discussion was "What do we owe the public in appearance and actions?"

Miss Opal Hastings, Claude Hastings and Leon Chapin were business visitors in Heppner Sunday.

Don't forget the big dance to be held in Hardman Saturday, Jan. 15. Music by the Brown orchestra. Everybody come; a good time is guaranteed.

TIS HUMAN—

It is human to err, quoth the sage. That is what we did in an item last week in reporting that Elbert Cox went off the highway at the scene of the wreck of the Walter Eubanks car. It was W. C. Cox, Morrow County Creamery manager, whose car was involved. He did not drive off the highway, but had left his car standing on the edge of the highway and it decided of its own accord to move on into the ditch. Our apologies to brothers Cox.

"OH WHERE OH WHERE CAN I PLUG THIS IN...?"

Electrical appliances are so easy to use. Why let lack of outlets make their use a problem?

A RECIPE FOR LOW-COST COMFORT

This is a community where electricity is cheap. That's why so many families now use it liberally for all household purposes. Adequate convenience outlets will make it easier for you to take full advantage of Pacific Power & Light Company's new low rates—among the lowest in the United States.

● Convenience outlets are a modern necessity. You can't enjoy Better-Sight electric lamps, electric clocks, electric cooking appliances and other electrical equipment unless you can use them easily in their proper places. Makeshift arrangements are unhandy, unsightly and often very annoying. Convenience outlets cost little and can be quickly installed just where you need them. Ask any electrical contractor for details.
