J. G. Barratt motored to Portland Monday morning, accompanied by Mrs. W. V. Crawford and R. A. Thompson. Mrs. Crawford went to the city to join her husband and to assist in locating a residence where the family will live while Mr. Crawford, recently transferred from San Francisco, is employed with a casualty company there. Their daughters, Nan and Jo Ann, remained here with relatives until living quarters are established in the city.

Four copies of the booklet "Are Young Drivers Good Drivers?" issued last year by Secretary of State Earl Snell were mailed recently to the Arkansas Automobile club for use in its safety reference library. Two copies of the Teacher's Manual, similarly prepared, were also enclosed. The Arkansas organization is about to introduce a course of study in automobile driving in the state's high schools.

Wid Palmateer was a business visitor here Tuesday from the farm in the Morgan district. He said he had hopes of starting some farming that morning but found the ground too frozen. There was snow in his district Monday, which melted rapidly, and Monday night brought about the hardest freeze of the season.

Locals Take Game From Irrigon Team

Possessing an enviable record of ten straight wins and one defeat, the latter number was increased last Saturday as Heppner edged out a 24 to 23 victory over the championship-labelled Irrigon squad.

This game gave Heppner its second win in two nights, a decided change of basketball menu for local fans. Irrigon put up a better battle against the Mustangs than did Fossil the night before, but they were still unable to match the speedy play of Heppner's surprising squad.

Van Marter didn't have quite the eye for hitting the basket that he did the night before; none of Coach Knox's hoopsters did, for that matter, but the Mustang center still managed to fatten his game average with 14 points.

Heppner's victory came close not to being such, as their 24 to 21 lead with two minutes to go diminished rapidly when Houghton, Irrigon forward, sank a basket to just miss surpassing his host's score.

Oregon AAA Officials Called to Salt Lake

Corvallis—N. E. Dodd of Haines, chairman of the State AAA committee, and N. C. Donaldson, secretary, were called to Salt Lake City about the middle of January to confer with national and regional AAA officials.

Although no advance announcement was made regarding the business involved, it is believed that progress on agricultural legislation has proceeded to the point where early work towards coordinating the new plans with the 1938 agricultural conservation program would be undertaken. For a number of weeks state and county officials have been marking time in connection with the 1938 program, awaiting the results of congressional action.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank our many friends for their kindness and gifts given us after the loss of our home by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ball and family.

CONDOLENCE

Whereas, it has pleased Our Heavenly Father to call to his eternal home, Brother D. O. Justus, who was long a faithful member of Heppner Lodge No. 66, I. O. O. F.

And whereas, the loss of our brother is deeply felt within our ranks; Therefore be it resolved that in recognition of our sorrow and in memory of the deceased, we drape the charter of Heppner lodge for thirty days and extend our heartfelt condolence to members of the bereft family; that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the lodge and a copy published in the Heppner Gazette Times.

Jeff Jones, Ralph Beamer, Cornett Green, Committee.

Experiments with a thoroughly-enforced city speed limit of 25 miles per hour in Providence, R. I., has proved highly successful, officials of that city say. The purpose of the ordinance was to reduce the high proportion of deaths and injuries resulting from automobile accidents.
