Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom

Successful

The Junior-Senior banquet and prom were held Saturday, May 14. house; the prom, in the gymnasium. The banquet consisted of a ham dinner with orange sherbert for dessert. Place cards were cleverly fixed with small pieces of lilacs, which held each card in place. The program consisted of the following: Welcome, John Crawford; response Blankenship; violin solo, Laura War field; remarks, Paul McCarty, Mrs Rodgers, Spencer Crawford, N. E Peavy; duet, Juanita Phelps, Harriet Hager; senior class prophecy, Robert Scrivner; senior class will, Bertha Akers; presentation of key Jack ford.

The gymnasium was attractively carrying out this idea rock gardens were constructed in two corners.
Colored lights were used as a means of cutting off the ceiling lights. A large moon, run on a pully served for lighting during moonlight waltzes. From the center of the gym lilaes.
The corner in which the orchestra Andy's Rhythmeers, sat was decorated to represent a flower garden faced by a hedge.
During the intermission a short program was given by members of the faculty, grade school and high school, with Joe Aiken acting as the school, with Joe Aiken acting as the master of ceremonies, as follows: Song, Pat Dooley; tap dance, Mary Lou and Ted Ferguson; imitations, Mr. Peayy; violin solo, Laura Warfield; song, Jack Merrill; piano solo, Dorothy Howell; duet, Juanita Phelps and Harriet Hager Fight Shown in Loss to Hermiston Last Thursday saw a fighting Last Thursday saw a fightin much that it didn't look like the same group of players. Although Hermiston beat them 12 to 4 , it was Hermiston beat them 12 to 4 , it was a fight up to the end of the game with lots of razzing and chatter that can only make baseball what it is. came when Marvin Rankin laid a homerun over the fence at right field with the bases unloaded. John Crawford showed a new technique of catching a ball on the run with one hand in the face of a tail wind. The odds against this particular catch were about 100 to 1 ; consequently Jack Merrill proved himself to the hardest hitter on the Heppner team by obtaining a three bagger in the fifth inning, and a single in the first inning.
It is sincerely hoped that the local people will be looking forward to next season's athletic games as much as the students are. From the sound as the students are. From the sound ing teams will be among the best put out in years. This fact is probably due to the coaching of Robert Knox, whom the students are fortunate whom the students are fortun enough to have back next year.

PINTO-POINTS

 Winto-Points that will be penned located it, instead of using his shoulunder the banner of yours truly, and it . . . the same physician advised the usual custom in a case where him to lay off baseball, and afte produce a long farewell article; how- he decided to quit, even though he ver, as such writings are boresome and often the source of illusion, it wound be proper and fitting to dis-pense with the previously described type of sob story. But to compensate somewhat, this writer has a bit somewhat, this writer has a bit of advice that he would like to pass on to his successor, should there be one. There are a few facts of life that your correspondent picked up while travelling in connection with high school sports, and it is his intention to present one or two of them, perhaps for the benefit of the hem, perhaps for the benefit of the next sports scribe, perhaps not.

1. Never offer your auto for tran 1. Never offer your auto for trans portation to a football game unless you receive gas money from the passengers before leaving for your contrarily, the trip will not mak expenses, and no money will be received, at least not enough-just a little personal item along this line, one that is most painful when brought to mind... this writer was hooked on a similar deal last fall and in doing so, contracted "assets-due amounting to $$ 1.25 \ldots$ the cartwhee and a quarter haven't arrived yet. 2. Use noiseless typewriters when ever possible, else some disturbed sleeper voice harsh, profane and ill-mannered words against your better mannered words against your bette elf. Use words common in usage .
2. Use his writer was severely ridicule for placing one word in one issue of the Gazette Times that couldn't be fo Gazette Times that couldn't be found in the English book, even Webster's famous, timely, widely used publication.
3. Never stress training rules ago the local school baseball team danced and enacted all other closely related features until the wee hours of the morning and then tried to play ball that afternoon. . . "tried to play" is just about the word for t, nothing more and possibly less .. the reason for this specific exmple being used was to show the effects it had . . the Heppner team effects it had... the Heppner team club and the title at stake was the and Wheeler counties . . . Fossil ook the steak.
4. Mention occasionally the name and doings of the athletically inclined alumni who is thought, only in his own estimation, however, that he is making good after all. 6. Above all, never write sports, ointly run the high school motion picture machine, act as apprentice in operating the down-town cinema projection outfit, hold a student body office, and at the same time carry five, subjects... it can be done . . it can, but not properly done . . it can, but not properiy.
The last sports ditties of the year this week go to the tennis team and the orchis of congratulations its coach, Alden Blankenship. starting out this year with the first tennis team since 1917, the Mustang net squad tied two matches, one each with Pendleton and Hermiston, and lost one to the latter ... howand lost one to the latter... however, the crowning glory came in ever, the crowning glory came in the tournament at Hermiston last week . . . although the recent smallpox vaccinations put Hugh Crawford, bespectacled freshman star, out of competition, two others, Frances McCarty and La Verne Van Marter, reached the finals . . . both were tired in their title matches, because after winning their matches on the first day of the tournament they had to drive back to Heppner with their coach . . . the next morning at 6:30 the tennis ensemble again pointed to Hermiston ... both Mc-Carty and Van Marter won their matches, but being at an disadvantage because of the long trips they had made, they lost out in the finals . regardless, their showing is ind a credit to the school.
The trick shoulder that cause him so much trouble in high school when it put him out of football for ne season and basketball for part of another has now pushed Don Turner off the University of Oregon er off the University reshman baseball team scuffling with one of his housemates, he latter happened to hit the exright spot and dislocated his shoulder...t the infirmary doctor told him that if he had his shoulder taped
