Where the Teams Play Next Sunday:
Echo at Heppner, Ione vs. Squaw Creek (place not announced), Indiana at Pendleton.

Heppner pulled into a tie with Pendleton for leadership of Blue Mountain league as a result of defeating Squaw Creek here Sunday, while Pendleton took its first loss at the hands of Echo. What the locals can do with Echo will be determined next Sunday when the Echo boys play here.

Heppner's Blue Mountain leaguers made a 6-run eighth inning rally to overcome Squaw Creek's 7-5 lead at that point and to win a hotly contested game from the CCC visitors on the local diamond Sunday. The corps boys added two more in the ninth when C. Orkus clouted a home run over the centerfield fence, driving Thayer in ahead of him, but that left the score still 11-9 in Heppner's favor.

Ray Massey struck out eight CCC batsmen in the first four innings but got into trouble in the fifth when the visitors got their first seven runs. The trouble wasn't all Ray's making, but with one run across, the bases loaded and none away he turned the chucking over to McKenzie. With no chance at warm-up, "Mac" was cold and unsettled, and six additional runs were across before the spree was quieted. A triple by Allegrette, who later scored himself on a wild pitch, accounted for the last four tallies in this frame.

Heppner worked in two runs the first inning when Al Massey walked, advanced to second on McKenzie's free pass, took third on brother Ray's fielder's choice on which McKenzie was caught at second, and scored, along with brother Ray on Lowell Turner's double base blow. Rodman struck out in the interim and Rod Thomson was out, second to first, to complete the inning.

Two more runs came in the third. McKenzie singled and was out at second on Rodman's fielder's choice. Rodman scored on Ray Massey's two bagger, Ray taking third on the throw in of the left fielder's catch of Turner's long fly and scoring on the third sacker's bobble of Thomson's grounder. Ferguson fanned to end that rally.

Another score came in the fifth when, with one away, Rodman took first on being hit by pitched ball, stole second, and scored on Turner's single after R. Massey had flied out to left field. R. Thomson, in turn flied out to left to end it.

The remaining six runs came in the eighth. Thomson and Ferguson were on base by a walk and a short stop's error. Fish struck out. Davidson singled, scoring Thomson, and Ferguson took third. Davidson stole second and scored, along with Ferguson, on Al Massey's single. Al took second as McKenzie fanned and scored on Rodman's single, Rodman in turn scoring on Ray Massey's triple, and Ray making it home as the third sacker muffed up Turner's grounder. Thomson was out, pitcher to first, to end it.

The hot point of the game came in this inning. At the beginning of the inning, Ferguson's hot grounder was booted by the shortstop toward second base and the spheroid hit the cleat of Thomson's shoe as he was going into the base. Contending the ball was still a "batted ball" after it had caromed off the shortstop's glove, the CCC boys demanded that Thomson be called out. Al Macomber, field umpire, ruled against the visitors and play was finally resumed after much heated argument.
