

Two Criminal Cases Disposed of in Circuit Court

Indian Freed, Gallagher Sentenced; New Grand Jury Drawn

Henry George, crippled Umatilla county Indian, was a free man while Fred Gallagher will be incarcerated in the state penitentiary for a year as a result of the two criminal cases which came up for action at the June term of court which closed Tuesday. Judge C. L. Sweek presided and Henry Neer was court reporter.

Indian George was taken into custody last week, resisting arrest at the time, on charge of malicious destruction of fences and driving stock off the range in the Porter creek district. The new grand jury returned indictment Tuesday afternoon, a jury was drawn, and verdict of not guilty returned shortly. Judge Sweek's instruction that willful intent to destroy must be shown under the statute and that if the defendant were unduly inebriated the act could not be taken as willful precluded return of a guilty verdict, as evidence of the prosecution had definitely established that George was in a state of intoxication. Vawter Parker represented the defendant and Frank C. Alfred presented the state's case.

A signed verdict with recommendation for leniency was returned against Gallagher. The rested state's case showed Gallagher to have received sheep pelts from Dudley Flynn under false representation that he was agent for a Bend company. Gallagher had acted as agent for this company in years previous. Complaint was made by Flynn when he failed to receive payment, value of the pelts being set at more than $35. The defense attempted to prove that Gallagher had not represented himself as agent of the Bend company in this year's transaction. Jurors for the case were Alonzo Henderson, Clarence A. Warren, J. A. Anglin, Wm. Lee McCaleb, Clyde Denney, Cora Warner, Margaret Sherer, Edgar Ditty, Fred Fulgham, Victor G. Peterson, Bert Bleakman.

Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman left for Salem Wednesday morning with Gallagher.

The new grand jury named was Jack Hynd, foreman; C. F. Bergstrom, A. V. Wright, L. H. Frederickson, H. M. Miller, F. P. Leicht, E. C. Heliker.

Decrees of divorce were granted Annie from Darrol E. Hiatt, and Edith from T. E. Hendrick. Dismissal was made of several cases in law and equity.

TENT MEETINGS

Evangelistic services are being continued in the tent opposite the postoffice. Interest is being taken in these meetings. The evangelists, Robert Wainwright and Ronald Campbell extend an invitation to all. Interesting messages are given on the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. In rightly dividing the word truth as follows: The life of Christ our example; the death of Christ our atonement; the indwelling of Christ our power; the intercession of Christ our comfort; the coming of Christ our hope. Come and bring others.

Crop Institute Features Fruit, Vegetable Items

Fruit and vegetable growers of Oregon will find many special conferences related to their business at the fourteenth annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation at Pullman and Moscow, July 11 to 15, according to Paul Carpenter, extension specialist in cooperative marketing at Oregon State college. OSC is joining with Washington State college and the University of Idaho in serving as joint hosts to the convention, which is open to the general public.

Eight conferences have been arranged particularly for the fruit and vegetable people. Among the problems to be discussed will be competitive changes in market outlets affecting Pacific northwest tree fruits; cooperative sales promotion and international trade; credit and transportation problems of fruit and vegetable cooperatives; trends in consumption and a discussion of the problems surrounding the rapidly expanding frozen pack industry.

The place of federal and state control of shipments as a means of dealing with surpluses is the program for discussion, as is the possibilities and problems of fruit grower supply purchasing.

Of particular interest to Oregon nut growers will be a special conference dealing with, among other items, the operation of the federal walnut marketing agreement, widening market outlets for filberts, and a proposed national advertising plan for filberts.

ATTEND GRADUATION

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barratt and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baldwin were among Heppner people attending graduation exercises at Pendleton high school last Friday evening. Included in the graduates were Mrs. Baldwin's brother, Don Hiatt, and

Mrs. Barratt's sister, Miss Annis Lieuallen, both former Heppner young people. Fred E. Farrior, Jr., another former Heppner resident, was also a member of the class. Hiatt was honored by having his name inscribed upon the scholarship plaque and also held the distinction of serving as president of the class of 106 graduates. Miss Lieuallen graduated on crutches, having been injured when thrown from a horse recently.

AT EPISCOPAL SCHOOL

Morrow county's contingent of enrollees at the Ascension summer school of the Episcopal church were taken to Cove last week by Warren Blakely. Included in the group were Jackson Gilliam, provincial president of Young Peoples Fellowship. Bethal Blake, Buddy Blakely, Scott McMurdo, Kemp Dick, Shirley Wilson, Carolyn Vaughn, Kathryn Thompson, of Heppner; Mary Kathryn Blake and Betty Jean Mankin of Ione.
