First New Wheat Shipped from Ione

By MARGARET BLAKE

Harvest is under way north and west of Ione. Foster Odom is harvesting a field of volunteer wheat that is making six sacks per acre. A field of volunteer belonging to Mrs. Davidson is making ten bushels to the acre. No reports on the yields of fall sown grain were received. Tuesday saw the first car of new wheat shipped out of Ione. It belonged to Otto Lindstrom.

Several contracts have been let for school bus routes. Three year contracts were given to A. E. Stefani for the Rhea creek route and Raymond Lundell for the Gooseberry route. One year contracts were given to Erling Thompsen for the Rocky Bluff run and James Lindsay who will have the same route he has had the last two years.

Charles Hudson of Pendleton is registered at the Park hotel. He expects to remain here until harvest is completed on his ranches near here.

Earline Ferris went to Portland on Sunday to spend a week with relatives.

Gene Grabill returned Saturday from Baker where he has been at the homes of his sisters, Mrs. Everett Keithley and Mrs. E. B. Wright. He was met at Arlington by Mr. and Mrs. Edison Morgan.

Mrs. Ida Grabill is recovering satisfactorily from a major operation she underwent in Baker two years ago. She will have to remain in the hospital for some time yet.

Mrs. Ivan Ringlinger and two children of Seattle are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morgan, Jr. Mrs. Ringlinger will be remembered as Miss Irene Anders who taught in the local high school eight years ago.

Wilma Dobyms has been visiting at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Olden at Gresham. She returned home on Sunday and was met at Arlington by her parents.

Mrs. Fred Mankin was hostess for a bridge party at her home last Wednesday afternoon. Three tables were in play. Prizes went to Mrs. C. W. Swanson, Mrs. E. M. Baker and Mrs. Clel Rea. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peterson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ture Peterson were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Ida Peterson.

W. A. Thomas, who has been ill in a Heppner hospital for several weeks, was able to return home on Saturday.

Betty Jean Mankin has returned from Cove where she attended the Ascension summer school of the Episcopal church. Mrs. Mankin drove over to bring her home.

Word has been received that Miss Frances Stewart and Miss Helen Ralph are enjoying a motor trip in British Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McCabe have returned from Heppner to make their home here.

Mrs. Werner Rietmann has received a letter from President Roosevelt in which he expressed his appreciation of the generous response made by the community of Ione in the recent drive for the infantile paralysis foundation.

Mrs. Holmes Gabbert and children, Dwight and Betty Ann, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mankin.

Mrs. E. C. Heliker and son Donald underwent operations for the removal of their tonsils last week in Pendleton. Donald returned home on Monday but Mrs. Heliker will remain there longer.

Women's Topic club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. W. Swanson on Saturday afternoon.

W. L. Mallory, a resident here many years ago, was in town for a day last week talking over old times with friends who still live here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Smith and son Philip drove to Fleck's last Sunday to meet friends from Redmond for a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mankin and family, E. C. Heliker and daughter Harriet, and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McCabe and Jessie, Ernest and Earl McCabe attended the picnic of the Lexington grange at French's ranch beyond Hardman last Sunday.

Leo Gorger received a bad cut on the hand when he got it caught in the straw spreader on his combine on Monday. The wound required several stitches but is not expected to give him any serious trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson of Pendleton were at the E. C. Heliker farm on Tuesday.

Lois Ring returned home Monday from Hood River where she had spent several weeks with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rowell.

Clifford Yarnell is visiting relatives at Bickleton.

Ted Thompson returned on Tuesday from Pilot Rock where he has been employed. He and a friend were working on a ranch which was in the path of the recent flood and lost their clothing and the car of the friend was damaged to such an extent that they were unable to get back over here to harvest jobs until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Blake and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bergevin and family and Peggy Kilkenny spent Sunday near Pendleton and at Bingham springs. They drove where they could see the pea harvest which is in full swing and made stops at the farms of Mr. Bergevin and his parents near Gibbon.

IS IRKSOME OFFSPRING

Few parents there are who do not know the whereabouts of their offspring at three weeks of age. Such, however, was the case of Mr. Buck and Mrs. Doe Deer last Monday, or at least of their owner, Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman. The little speckled fawn had made its arrival in the deer pen at the Bauman home just three weeks before, but when Mr. Bauman went to look after the family that morning, the babe was missing. He wasn't particularly worried as the youngster had already taken French leave twice before, only to show up at the next feeding time. It apparently had located an exit too small for the older animals to get through. Speckled as a mountain trout, the new arrival at the Bauman home has attracted much interest since putting in his appearance.

PETERSONS TO THE DALLES

The Victor Peterson family left the first of the week for The Dalles where they are establishing their home, having moved their household goods the end of last week. Mr. Peterson will serve this territory in his capacity as land salesman with Federal Land Bank of Spokane, but the family home is being made at The Dalles as that place is nearer the center of his recently enlarged territory. The well wishes of many friends here accompany the family to their new home.

CARD OF THANKS

Our sincere thanks are hereby extended to the many neighbors and friends for their kindness, helpfulness, expressions of sympathy and beautiful flowers at the time of bereavement of our beloved husband, father, son and brother, Vinson Dale Bleakman.

Ora Bleakman and Evonne, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bleakman, Mr. and Mrs. Rho Bleakman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hynd.

Triple-A Market Programs Receive Oregon Backing

Prospects for at least two and possibly three federal marketing agreements being in force in Oregon for this year's crops are seen by AAA officials as a result of recent action at Washington and sentiment expressed at hearings held in this state.

The proposed marketing agreement for handling Oregon and Washington fresh prunes in the Milton-Freewater and Walla Walla districts has been given tentative approval by the secretary of agriculture and will go into effect if finally accepted by a vote of the producers. This district has been working for several years under a voluntary agreement plan worked out with the assistance of the extension marketing specialists at Oregon State college, which led to a request to go a step farther and obtain federal support for a more inclusive marketing program.

Hearings on the proposed potato marketing agreement held at Klamath Falls, Redmond and Portland brought considerable enlightened discussion and suggestions from the growers and dealers, according to those who attended the meeting. Growers in the chief commercial areas were sympathetic toward any promising effort to stabilize the marketing procedure, but made a number of suggestions in connection with possible administrative defects.

The most serious question raised at the hearings in Oregon was over the inclusion of western Oregon in the proposed marketing control area. It was pointed out that a comparatively small percentage of western Oregon production enters interstate commerce, and that perhaps the general plan would meet with better success if the valley region were omitted.

Hearings on the proposed hop marketing agreement held in Salem, Santa Rosa, Calif., and Yakima, Wn., brought fairly unanimous approval of such a program from the growers and brewers, in contrast to similar hearings held in 1935, when growers were divided in sentiment and brewers mostly antagonistic. Brewers this time agreed to cooperate in the plan with the understanding that at some future time they would urge eliminating more of the low grade product, instead of a horizontal reduction.

Jobless Claimants To Use Pass Books

Salem, June 24—After the July 4th holiday every claimant to jobless insurance under the state unemployment compensation law will be issued an individual "claim book" which will summarize his status for benefits in a manner corresponding to the more familiar savings bank pass book and the individual pay record carried by Uncle Sam's expeditionary force in the world war.

The new claim book, together with a new form of continued claim payment voucher, will be synchronized with the recently authorized change from a benefit week to a calendar week period of seven consecutive days ending each Saturday at midnight to further simplify and speed administration of the unemployment compensation law by the commission.

Just as in the old army pay record, the claim book will contain the jobless claimant's name, address, claim number and weekly benefit amount when determined. To this information will be added social security number, maximum benefit amount, day for reporting to employment office and earnings by week, if any.

Claimants will be required to present claim books when reporting to the local employment offices.

The new procedure becomes effective July 3, but that date falls on Sunday and the next day is a holiday. Books and a manual of instructions have been supplied to each of the commission's 22 offices over the state and deputies now are transferring data from the old forms to the new. They will be ready for distribution to claimants immediately after the holidays.

Oregon is the first state among the 28 that will be paying benefits by July 1 to adopt the claim book, and commission officials expect the new procedure will not only simplify and reduce the cost of administration but will minimize hazard of error and facilitate identification.

ORCHESTRA TO KENNEWICK

Andy's Rhythmeers, local orchestra headed by Andy Davidson, will play for dances at Kennewick, July 2-4. Included in the organization are Norbert Peavy, piano; Gerald Cason, trumpet; Andy Davidson, saxophone; Charlie Davidson, banjo, and Bob Davidson, drums.
