Change in Ione Phone System Set

Installation of new telephone central office equipment at Ione will be started in the near future, according to announcement by J. R. Farrington, manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

With the new equipment technically known as an R. C. X. (remote control exchange), Ione customers will be given new telephone instruments. Ringing will be automatic without the use of a crank as is now the case with the present magneto service.

Farmer line telephones served from the Ione office will continue on the present magneto ringing basis.

Work of changing the telephone instruments on the premises of Ione customers will be started about September 1, and the cut-over to the new type of operation tentatively is scheduled for about the middle of September.

Most of the Ione telephone numbers will be changed, and a new directory will be issued at the time of the cut-over.

Mrs. Della Corson, agency manager for the company, it is understood, officially will retire on pension when the cut-over is made. However, she will continue to represent the telephone company in one as collection agent.
