GOING TO OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Deulen expect to leave the first of next week to make their home near Talala, Okla., which will be their address though they will do their trading at Claremont, old home of the late Will Rogers. Mr. Deulen was in the city yesterday winding up business matters in preparation for leaving. He said he was leaving with a clean slate and the best regard for Morrow county and its people. Having stayed home and tended to business in the several years of wheat operation here in which time he farmed a large acreage, he was glad to say that the county and its people have treated him well. However, he has found a good investment in 5000 acres of grass land in Oklahoma which he considers an ideal set-up for wheat tractor farming. He will be joined there by a son-in-law, Clifford Hawes and family who is turning to farming after five years of barbering. His son, Don F. Deulen, will remain at Portland where he has a good position.

LIONS HEAR REPORTS

With Tom Wells, the club's second vice-president presiding, the Lions club Monday received reports on Rodeo from various members who played prominent roles in its conduct. Frank C.
