Local Invention Shown at State Fair

Salem, Sept. 6—(Special)—A special hitch for drills behind tractors, invented by Leo Gorger of Heppner, is being shown in motion pictures at the state inventors' show at the Oregon state fair here.

With Gorger's invention it is possible to back the tractor and still have all the drills remain behind the machine without any one of the drills leaving a predetermined line of travel. Damage to drills is also eliminated.

The state inventors' show is a new feature at the fair this year, and it is in charge of J. T. Anderson, industrial coordinator of Portland. Motion pictures of inventions and working models are being shown.
