Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cleveland motored to Corvallis the end of the week, taking their son Howard who is resuming his studies at Oregon State college with the beginning of the fall term. On the way they stopped at Timberline lodge on Mt. Hood, and Mr. Cleveland was impressed by the scarcity of snow. He climbed the mountain once as a boy and recalled there was much more snow at that time. Some 200 cars were parked at the lodge when they were there and people were seen all over the mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Merriman of Gold Hill passed through the city Friday on their way to attend the Round-Up at Pendleton Saturday. They returned Saturday evening and visited over Sunday with relatives of Mr. Parker, including brothers Frank E., Arthur and Loyal, residing here. Oral, youngest of the Parker brothers and former Morrow county boy, is now in the service station business at Gold Hill.

Henry Krebs was transacting business in the city Tuesday from the Cecil ranch. He arrived home the end of the week from the Browning, Mont., district where he spent the summer season with sheep on the range. A very good season was reported. All the market lambs had been disposed of before he left, having been fed onto the eastern market at intervals during the season as they became ready.

J. G. Barratt returned Saturday evening from a three weeks' business trip to his summer sheep range near Browning, Mont. He reports that a fine season has prevailed throughout Montana with showers keeping the range grass in good condition and the new grass was starting when he left.

J. H. Padberg was transacting business in the city Monday from the farm near Lexington. He had not started seeding for the new wheat crop, but thought he wouldn't delay much longer.

Jackson Gilliam has gone to Walla Walla to enter Whitman college at the beginning of the fall term as a freshman. He was among graduates of Heppner high school last spring.

"Gar" Swanson, junior member of the firm of J. E. Swanson and Son of Ione, was a business visitor Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lutkins returned to their home at Hardman the first of the week. Mr. Lutkins was able to be up following a three weeks' bedfastness from an injury received when he caught his foot in a combine at the Hilma Anderson farm. While it will be necessary for him to use crutches for some six weeks or longer, the physician's advice was that good progress toward recovery was being made.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Green had as house guests this week, Mrs. R. A. DiGiorgio and daughter, Miss Evelyn, of San Francisco, who attended the Round-Up daily at Pendleton. Mrs. DiGiorgio expected to take the train for Washington, D. C., while Miss DiGiorgio and Joe Green left yesterday for Eugene where both are students at University of Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hicks of Ridgefield, Wash., visited friends here for a few hours Sunday on their way home from attending the Round-Up. Mr. Hicks, printer on the Heppner Times when the paper was edited by his father, the late A. J. Hicks, now publishes a paper at Ridgefield.

Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers, county school superintendent, and Miss Althea Stoneman, county health nurse, called at the Balm Fork and Matteson schools Monday, and at the Morgan, Rocky Bluff, Ione and Lexington schools Tuesday.

Comprising a party going over into the Desolation country for a week's hunt were Gene Ferguson, D. A. Wilson, Ed Bennett, L. E. Bisbee, Glenn Hayes and Fred Mankin. They left Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bret Palmateer were business visitors in the city Tuesday from the farm near Morgan. Mr. Palmateer reported that he had not yet started seeding but expected to get under way soon.
