

Loans on Wheat Pass Million Bushel Volume in State

Sherman County in Lead; Wallace to Attend Kansas Meet

With more than 100 warehouses throughout eastern Oregon approved for storage under the wheat loan provisions of the AAA, actual loans are being made rapidly at present, according to latest reports to the state office at Corvallis. The chief limiting factor is the delay in getting the large Portland terminal warehouses qualified under the act, says N. C. Donaldson, secretary of the state AAA committee.

At the end of the third week in September, offices in seven eastern Oregon counties reported 366 loans made on 1,475,000 bushels. Loans at that time totaled $629,257.11, or an average of approximately 43 cents a bushel. While this is considerably below the average loan rate at country points for No. 1 wheat, the loans reported include all classes offered.

Sherman county, with every warehouse except one qualified to store wheat on which loans have been made, has taken the lead in the number of loan applications completed. A total of 227 loans had been made there, involving 730,000 bushels, with total loans of $371,620. Umatilla county, which eventually will probably show the greatest number of loans, was slow getting started because of delay due to the warehouse situation. All warehouses in that county, with the exception of one chain, had been approved late in September, and it was expected to qualify within a few days.

The importance being attached to the wheat situation in Washington is indicated by the calling of a meeting of state committeemen from wheat growing regions at Hutchinson, Kan., Thursday, September 29. Scheduled to address the committeemen at that time on an important statement of policy was Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace. His speech was to be on the subject of the present situation of American wheat farmers in the light of existing conditions here and abroad and included a discussion of plans for administering the AAA wheat program during the coming twelve months.

Religious Embassy at O. S. C. for Week

Oregon State College—A week of emphasis on the place of religion in modern life under the leadership of some of the world's greatest Christian leaders is to take place on the Oregon State college campus from October 2 to 7.

Headed by E. Stanley Jones, probably the world's most outstanding Christian statesman, a group of religious leaders will devote the week jointly to the University of Oregon and Oregon State college on a program of similar visits to colleges and universities throughout the United States this fall and winter. The plan is to carry out on the college campuses a program somewhat similar to that carried out in the major cities of the country a few years ago under the name of the National Preaching Mission. Leading speakers may be heard over radio station KOAC from 5 to 5:15 o'clock daily through Friday. Dr. Jones will speak Tuesday evening.

The program at Oregon State, in which the churches are cooperating, will include special services and convocations for the entire campus community, classroom lectures, evening discussion groups, after-dinner firesides, personal interviews and radio addresses.

Rhea Creek Grange To Entertain Pomona

Rhea Creek grange will be host to Morrow County Pomona grange on Saturday, Oct. 1, for an all-day meeting. At the close of the forenoon meeting lunch will be served and the lecturer's program will begin at 1:30. Walter Pierce, representative in congress, will be speaker on the program. There will also be several other numbers by the subordinate granges of the county, as well as speakers on various topics of interest to people of the county. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Conferences of officers and members in various phases of grange work will be led by officers of the state grange who will conduct the conference. The state grange or 6th degree will be conferred there by state grange officers. All grangers in the county who desire to receive the 5th degree should attend the evening meeting at Rhea creek on October 1st and be initiated into that degree. They will then be eligible to receive the 6th degree.

Since national grange meets in Portland in November of this year, it is to the interest of all Oregon grangers who can attend the national session to be ready to attend all meetings by being in good standing in their own grange and by having received the 5th and 6th degrees.

A positive safety program for bicyclists is being studied by a committee of Portland citizens representing civic organizations and city and state officials, according to Secretary of State Earl Snell who is cooperating with the group. While no definite program has been adopted, the committee is giving thought to bicycle ordinances in other Oregon cities embracing codified rules of the road, registration and licensing of bicycles, and some means of dealing with violators, such as impounding their bicycles.

Cooperation on the part of motorists with schoolboy safety patrols will not only make the work of the patrols much simpler but will render more fruitful their efforts to protect the lives of thousands of youngsters who cross the street several times daily on their way to and from school, Secretary Snell says.
