Hither and Thither

Who is Sage Brush Merrill's Prairie Flower?

Why has Don Bennett suddenly turned night-owl? (Football season is only half over.)

Milton Morgan had a lot of fun Saturday night, although he didn't go to the Lexington dance.

Bogger was seen in the company of two girls Friday night but at different intervals. (Who played second fiddle?)

When the student body clears five dollars, they will buy a fire permit for rallies.

Our football team played with ten men for a few minutes Friday. (An explanation can easily be given by Howard Patton.)

Competition will now become keener because Art (Bazooka) McAtee has decided to woo the girls with his music ability.

Original Poem

A creature sat on my backyard fence And made an awful wail. I wonder what kind of a thing that was.

It had two eyes and a tail.

Have You Wondered Why—

Mr. Peavy wears a mustache? The "Hoop Skirts" didn't parade Friday?

Howard Patton never gets girl-crazy?

The Heppner High constitution never changes?

Sibyl always keeps at arm's-length?

The English IV class is never quiet?

Students don't pay taxes?

There wasn't a social hour Wednesday.

Answers next week.

Student Opinion on Rallies

Art McAtee—Too hard on the firemen.

Omer McCaleb—Wear the football players out.

Emery Coxen—Need more noise.

Dick Wilkinson—Kind of hard on the voice.

Bob Scrivner—We need more than a rally to get 'em out around here.

Mr Peavy (student???) — They haven't done any harm.

Marshall Fell—Not enough of 'em.

Bethal Blake—They aren't long enough to waste your energy to go to them.

Sybil Howell—Those that attend show school spirit.

Milton Morgan—Never get around on rally night.

Teachers' Opinion on the Freshman Class

Mr. Peavy: Small but willing.

Miss Smith: Best behaved class in school, except for one or two people.

Mr. Blankenship: Rapidly making adjustments.

Miss Nordstrom: Good material.

Mr. Knox: Nice wide awake group.

Faculty Doings

Mr. Blankenship went to the high school principals' conference at Salem, which lasted all day Friday and Saturday. Saturday night he went to the football game between the Oregon and Oregon State freshman teams at Portland. The score was 0 to 0. He came home Sunday.

Mr. Bennett, while deer hunting Saturday morning, started talking with several other hunters. He had laid his gun down, and as they were talking a buck came about 50 feet from them. The buck got away without anyone shooting at it.

About all Mr. Peavy did over the week end was to keep time at the football game Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Knox went pheasant hunting Saturday morning and was at the football game Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Buhman went pheasant hunting Saturday and killed two birds.

Miss Nordstrom, Miss Smith and Ruth Green remained idle over the week end.

GAS HOUSE GOSSIP

By JOE AIKEN

Heppner again chalks up a victory, making three wins out of four games played. It has been said, "It takes a winning team to bring out the crowd." Apparently this statement is wrong because out of a student body of 125 only twenty-five members attended the game to root for the home team. Yet when it is said that no town support is given, the ones who don't attend are the ones who comment most. People say the school is "cliquey;" but students whom they accuse of being in the clique are the ones who attend the games. When any committee is appointed, these people are on it because they work for the student body's interests. The saying, "Charity begins at home," might be revised to "School support begins in the student body."

Every stadium has its humorous incidents. The Rose Bowl saw a man run the wrong way in a football game. (They say it's possible.) The Rodeo grounds witnessed another humorous incident, which was revealed at the half of Saturday's game. It seems that a fellow, his first year at football but a ready-made veteran, was used to having one man replace him, and when he saw this man coming on to the field he quietly returned to the bench. However, the man replaced another player and the play was resumed. It was not known until the half whistle sounded that Heppner had been playing with ten men.

On the home field this next Friday the local pigskin pushers meet an out-of-state team. This team is Touchet. You may recall from last year that they gave the local players a hard afternoon. With a pass offense that put Heppner back upon their heels for the better part of the first half, they were very near the goal several times. The Heppner lads got tough and held them to six points, while the Mustangs ran up a score of 25 for themselves. This year Touchet will run up against a much more experienced squad in the Heppner lads. The out come: who knows?

Here and You

The high school really brought the town out for the last rally. The bonfires on the hill back of the school became the arousing factor in the rally. Someone became excited and, upon seeing the glow, drew the conclusion that the hill was on fire, so turned in the fire alarm, arousing many citizens.

Fred Hoskins Jr. has been out of the E. O. N. line-up due to an injury. He has been playing in most of the games, but hasn't started a game as yet.

It has been rumored that if Heppner doesn't beat Arlington in the return game that the lads will receive a beating from the local fans. The definite date for this game has been set for October 31.

This last Tuesday, the local second team of Heppner's grid men played Ione a six-man game on Ione's field. This is the first time the local lads have attempted six-man football, and they found themselves a bit confused once in a while. The half-time score found Heppner with 7 points and Ione 0. The final score was Heppner 26, Ione 6. This new and unfamiliar type of ball was soon grasped by the lads, and as a result they pushed over a touchdown early in the second quarter. Touchdowns were made respectively by Aiken, Moore, Merrill, and Moore again.

A news photo which was placed upon the bulletin board created much interest, as it was La Verne Van Marter, the flashing red-headed halfback of Heppner. He is packing the ball for the Oregon Frosh in the photo, and he played three quarters in this game. Another man from this league to turn out for Frosh football is E. Willis of Condon.

The lad who wrote the Pinto Points for the last two years in Hehisch now has a column of his own in the Oregon Emerald. The column is of the same manner of his previous one and has the appearance of being better. Good luck, and more power to you, Paul.

Humor

Mr Peavy: "Explain this sentence: 'Take the cow out of the lot.' What mood?"

Jack Vaughn: "The cow."

Howard Patton: "What makes you think Omer McCaleb would make a good politician?"

John Crawford: "He can say more things that sound well and mean nothing than any other man I know."

Joe Farley: "What do you slick your hair with?"

Milton Morgan: "Crisco."

Joe Farley: "Why?"

Milton: "Because I don't have to get any hair cuts."

Joe: "Why?"

Milton: "Because it's shortening."

Jack Merrill: "You are not afraid of insects, are you?"

Norma Prock: "No, indeed! I feel perfectly safe with you."

Frances McCarty: "Don't you ever speak of love?"

Bill Barratt: "Er—yes, lovely weather, isn't it?"

Ten Years From Now

Thomas Gonty will be head designer for Oldsmobile cars.

Dean Gilman will be world's champion buckaroo.

Omer McCaleb will be producing barrels and hoop skirts.

Eileen Kelly will still be making up hours for being tardy.

Girls' hats will be so small they will be almost invisible.

Miss Smith will be principal of a girls' school.

Connie Instone will have been queen of the Pendleton Round-Up.

SNELL CLUBS NUMEROUS

Portland, Oct. 18.—Friends of Secretary of State Earl Snell are voluntarily rallying to his candidacy in all parts of the state, Jerry Sayler, campaign manager, revealed. As the campaign enters its last few weeks, 42 clubs have been organized in various parts of the state and more are in formation.

These clubs, Sayler points out, are working in conjunction with a "Snell Veterans' club" which has committees in 35 counties. Both groups are co-operating with the county Republican committees.

GRAF HEADS CONVENTION

Oregon State College—S. H. Graf, chief of the department of mechanical engineering at OSC and president of the National Council of the State Boards of Engineering, presided over the national convention of the examiners at Des Moines, Iowa, October 17 to 19. He is visiting various engineering schools on the trip.

American Use of Farm Surpluses Sought by USDA

Use of the facilities of the U. S. department of agriculture to "dump" some of the excessive farm surpluses into the homes of low income groups at lower than regular prices has been decided upon by Secretary Wallace, though details of the program for handling this procedure were not explained with the original announcement.

The new program is expected to be handled through the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation which was given full bureau status in the recent reorganization of the department of agriculture. J. W. Tapp, one of the assistant administrators of the AAA, is continued in charge of the bureau.

Assigned to the new bureau is also the marketing agreements program of the AAA as well as the surplus diversion activities provided for under section 32 of the amended agricultural act which sets aside a certain percentage of customs receipts for this purpose.

In discussing the reorganization of USDA functions, Secretary Wallace points out that the changes involve four important phases. The first is to group the work that has to do with agricultural planning and place it on a permanent footing in the bureau of agricultural economics and with provision for close co-operation between the federal agencies and the state land grant colleges.

The next step brings together all the work of the department that deals directly with marketing and distribution. The SCS under Mr. Tapp is part of the unified setup. By thus caring for the planning and marketing work, the AAA officials are left with the conservation and adjustment programs to occupy their entire attention.

The third change puts all physical handling of farm lands under the Soil Conservation service, including flood control and water facilities. Finally the fourth change is designed to speed up the research program for finding new and expanded uses of farm products. This change puts H. G. Knight in charge of the new regional federal laboratories soon to be established.
