GAS HOUSE GOSSIP

By JOE AIKEN

On every team there are cases of what is known as the athletic head which, by the way, is not a type of head useful in athletics. It is known in a more harsh sense as swellhead. The cases in Heppner high school are comparatively few, for which we may be proud. However, once in a while you find a lad in his second or third year of athletics who occasionally forgets that there are ten other men, or whatever the case may be, besides himself in the game; but in due time he finds out that these other men come in handy, and if the others work together a great deal can be accomplished.

Confidence is a great thing, but over-confidence can spoil many a player's chances of becoming a star. Another item in which Heppner players have made a reputation for themselves is the clean play that they indulge in while on the athletic field. Most of the teams that we have played so far this year have remarked that we are the cleanest playing team they have encountered. When a team is playing good hard football, they haven't time for dirty work or foul play.

One should consider the fact that the game may be close, and it is at times like this that the most evil things occur. Some are done with malicious intent; others, merely to get the other fellow's goat.

This six-man football, a five-year old game (two in eastern Oregon) is up and coming. It has taken the place of eleven-man football in many of the smaller schools where material is scarce. Not only have these small schools adopted it, but the larger schools and even college fraternity houses are promoting teams.

This game differs from the eleven-man game in that it is more open and gives the spectators a chance to see what actually happens upon the field. It not only is faster, but also demands skill in blocking and tackling. A more important advantage is that injuries are fewer, and the sport is less dangerous due to fewer men piling up, for it is in these pile-ups where the largest percentage of injuries occur.

Perhaps in a few more years Heppner will be promoting a six-man team, as more schools every year are using six-man football as their major sport.

Here and Yon
 Dutch Clark has invented a new boot to be used for kicking purposes. As yet it hasn't had many encouraging words from college coaches. Sutherland of Pitt states that previous gadgets of its kind have been impractical.

Over in the Grant county area, touch football and volley ball seem to be the major sports in season now. Mt. Vernon won from Long Creek, 30 to 0, in a touch football game, and the Mt. Vernon girls volley ball team defeated Mitchell, 72 to 18, and the Long Creek girls, 42 to 23.

Two of the Heppner high school sport fans, Jack Vaughn and Hugh Crawford, toured to Portland to witness the U. S. C.-Oregon game.

One Year Ago This Week—Heppner makes ready for the much-advertised game with Arlington. The seniors presented "The White Phantom" last Friday night as their annual class play.

Five Years Ago This Week—Judge Sweek of Pendleton acted as toastmaster for the annual fathers and sons banquet, sponsored by the Boy Scouts. Thursday evening the Pep band led the rally through Main street to the hill above the school house where a large H was burned. Heppner was defeated by Hermiston, 12 to 0, on the Rodeo field, Friday.

Ten Years Ago This Week—Heppner's Fighting Irish swamped the Arlington Honkers, 55 to 0. The Honkers failed to get the ball past their own 20-yard line for the most of the game.

Girls' League Holds Meeting

The Girls' League of Heppner high held their first meeting Friday afternoon. The food, entertainment, and decoration committees for the approaching party to be given by the league made their reports. This took care of all the business at hand.

Each girl now told the place that she would like to visit and why. Many interesting places and reasons were given. After this Rose Leibbrand, dressed in the correct attire of the tourist, gave the girls a very interesting account of her experiences in China, and promised to return at a later date to again entertain the girls with her travels and experiences in Mexico.

Faculty News

Mr. Bennett went duck-hunting last Saturday and killed four ducks. Mr. Blankenship went to The Dalles with the pupils who took the T. B. test.

Mr. Peavy went to Condon Saturday, where he was official timekeeper at the Condon-Heppner football game.

Local Future Farmers Begin Year's Projects

A large part of the boys enrolled in vocational agriculture have chosen as projects for this year the fattening of steers. The local bank has agreed to finance the projects, while the Hartford Insurance company is handling the insurance.

Howard Patton, Junior Greely and Douglas Drake have recently purchased young steers from R. A. Thompson, each getting one. Doug plans to enlarge upon his project later. James Mayer bought his steer from Roy Robinson, while Ervin Rauch will have his delivered from the stock of Tony Vey. John Lane and Dick Wilkinson each expect to buy their's from their fathers; John is getting one and Dick three.

On June 1 the steers will be shipped to Union where they will compete with other steer projects for awards. This will be followed by an auction, also at Union, where all steers will be sold.

SPONSOR AUCTION

PROSECUTOR

says—

"Under the existing laws of this State there is—
NO AVAILABLE REMEDY for the members of labor unions to enforce an accounting by officials of the unions for funds received and expended.

NO AVAILABLE PROTECTION AGAINST ... industries being driven into bankruptcy and ruin through improper picketing and strikes.

NO AVAILABLE PROTECTION for ... the public against injuries suffered and financial losses sustained by reason of jurisdictional disputes, strikes and lawless molestation and blocking of trade and commerce by labor bosses and racketeers.

These facts must be brought home to the voters with the greatest possible emphasis, in order that another reign of labor terrorism, such as we have just experienced, may not re-occur in Oregon."
