It Must Happen Here

Can a football game be played without rules and regulations? Can a business meeting be carried on intelligently and efficiently without parliamentary procedure? Is either going to be successful without any such standards whatever? These are the questions a majority of students failed to ask themselves before defeating the motion to establish Roberts' Rules of Order as the parliamentary procedure for the student body meetings. It is to be taken for granted, then, that the freshmen and several upperclassmen do not yet fully realize the value of parliamentary practice. Did they vote against themselves to shirk responsibilities in high school or to deprive themselves of something that will be so essential to their success after leaving school? More logical reasons are hardly in order.

Should this issue again become active, let careful consideration be the ruling factor in determining whether or not this shall be a much needed phase of our education. The following are a few opinions on the need and use of parliamentary procedure in student meetings:

Howard Patton—"Develops initiative and leadership."
Don Frederickson—"Essential to good business meetings."
Betty Happold—"What can be done without it?"
Art McAtee—"Excellent practice."
Mr. Blankenship—"It is absolutely essential to any type of democratic organization, and students who fail to realize this have not developed a very good set of standards for judging values."

New Records Wanted

Someone started the cry for more and better records for our social hours. This cry brought forth the idea of each student contributing a small amount to this fund at each social hour. A can was placed within the reach of everyone, but to date the total is but 72c. This is only enough for two records.

If the students who are interested in the social hours and in dancing would contribute 5c every two weeks, the money would be sufficient to buy at least four new records each month; then we could all dance to the newest and swiftest hits.

Come on, students, let's quit wishing and secure results.

Hither and Thither

We wonder what complications Dubby is having with Harry O'Donnell?

It has been rumored that Carolyn Bobs around too much.

Cora would let Hugh take her home, even if she had to turn Alex down to do it.

Gilman found that the first few times are the hardest, on a dance floor.

Bethal can say no, especially to freshmen.

My, my, it's been rumored that Don Frederickson has found his first love. It is said that romance begins in the hallway—How about it Don E.?

GAS HOUSE GOSSIP

By JOE AIKEN

The local eleven has been on the shelf the bigger part of this last week enjoying a much needed rest. This Friday they meet Hermiston for the final game of the season upon the Bulldogs' home field.

It is hoped that Hepner will get a post-season game with one of the "A" schools in the Blue Mountain league. It seems that the town supporters believe we would give any one of these schools a run for their money, but it is hardly possible that such a game could be arranged as the larger schools have everything to lose and nothing to gain.

The local team has a record they can point to with pride, as they have won six out of seven games and have chalked up a total of 153 points to their opponents 12.

The Bulldogs haven't fared as well as Hepner, having lost all but one of their games this year. Hard luck struck them in the first game of the year, against Pasco, when Marvin Rankin received a shoulder injury that has kept him out of the games played to date. This lad was Hermiston's biggest threat this year, due to his ability of lugging the old pigskin.

On paper, the Mustangs have a decided advantage over the Bulldogs; however, a number of upsets have occurred this season, and the fact that Condon beat Hermiston and that later we beat Condon, doesn't mean that Hermiston is going to be a push-over for us. There is no advantage to either side in weight, and as we all know, many things can happen in the game that can mean victory or defeat to either side. In picking your favorite, I would say flip a coin and bet on Hepner.

The Lexington Jackrabbits, having finished a successful football season, have shelved their football shoes in favor of their basketball togs. They have been practicing the fundamentals of basketball for the past week. The Lexington team lost six "vets" through graduation. Among them were Davis and Peck. Peck is attending Oregon State this year. Good luck, Peck! However, with such veterans as Jackson, Padberg, Campbell, Dinges and Rauch, Lexington should have a better than average team this season.

Here and Yon

Evidently those Seattle frosh are big. Van Marter, one of Hepner's ex-stars, tackled one of them, only to be dragged six yards for a touchdown. Van Marter only weighs 180 pounds.

It seems to be the custom among the football boys that after a game those who have white jerseys wash them and wear them as an extra shirt. The intended use of the jerseys was to be in games only, and the student body's finances are not sufficient to furnish shirts or sweat shirts for the boys' personal use.

Fred Hoskins and Vernon Knowles were here to witness the Arlington-Hepner game. Vernon has only one more quarter in which to make his letter in football at E. O. N.

The saying goes that a man is no stronger than his legs. Howard Patton brought that out very clearly the other day when he was in the act of lifting a model T Ford. He had hoisted it about shoulder high when his knee started to slip out of joint. Immediately, he forced it back in place, but he hasn't been able to navigate as well as he did.

Len Gilman, all conference half-back, has been laid up due to a bruised elbow, but was instrumental in making Pacific University's only score against the University of Idaho. The final score was 14 to 7 in favor of Idaho.

Five Years Ago

"The Yellow Shadow," a mystery, was selected as the junior play. . . . Hepner was defeated by Pendleton, 19-0. Pendleton scored in the first, second and last quarters. The Irish offense, because of inability of the line to open holes, consisted mostly of passes. . . . The high school safe was ransacked last Wednesday night. Sheriff and his deputy were working on clues. $4 was taken.

Football Squad Guests of Theater

Last Thursday, the local football players were treated to a free show by the management of the local theater. The show consisted of a news-reel which showed how football rules were made and how the game has such a grip on the American people. A few scenes of the thrills given in the Columbia-Navy game were also shown. The main feature, "Hold That Coed," also gave many laughs to the boys.

Girls' League Party Success

On November fifth the Girls' league held an all-school party in the gymnasium. The Thanksgiving theme was used in decorating. Group and relay games were played, the winning team receiving confetti as a prize. Groups for games were divided according to the designs on the programs. These designs consisted of turkeys, pilgrims, geese, and Indians. After the games, refreshments of pumpkin pie and cocoa were served. Dancing followed the refreshments, with music being furnished by an orchestra under Mr. Peavy's supervision.

Ten Years From Now

The student body tax will be three dollars. Hepner will be able to beat Arlington on Arlington's field.

Hepner high school will have elevators instead of the stairways.

The freshmen will be able to salute the flag correctly.

Hepner will win the national championship with its band.

Mr. Blankenship will be running for U. S. senator.

Lexington and Ione students will all come to Hepner high school.

Dean Gilman will shave for the first time.

Boys' Opinion of Hepner Hi Girls

Omer—All right, if I could rate.

Bob S.—Don't know where you will find any better ones.

Joe A.—They are all right in a way, but most of them weigh too much.

John C.—Fairest in the land.

Andy D.—They don't worry me much.

Thomas G.—Can't say on the spur of the moment.

Art Mc.—Since I am uninformed, I will refrain from any opinion.

Marshall Fell—They ain't got no fetchin' up.

Milton M.—Should be a lot more of them.

Floyd Williams—O. K., if you've got a gift of gab.

Leland Edmondson—They pass for beginners.

Humor

Sibyl Howell "I wonder what sort of hats women will wear this winter?"

Dick Bogoger: "There are only two kinds of hats, the kind you can't and the kind you wouldn't go to a dog fight in."

In Italy, bachelors are aghast at the new taxes heaped upon them. They have gone on in their innocence, supposing one could live as cheaply as two.

Dean Gilman (in Orientation class): "What is the principal course in Barbers' college?"

Mr. Blankenship: "Public speaking."

I wonder who had to stand in the corner in the Civics class?

Shop Nearing Completion

The new shop for agriculture students is reaching completion. Although it is constructed of wood, the outside is finished with stucco, which gives the appearance of concrete. There will be no floor constructed this year, but it is hoped that a layer of cinders will be put on the dirt surface.

There will be no heating unit installed, but Mr. Bennett has plans for a stove made of oil drums which he hopes will furnish sufficient heat. Two forges of concrete will be constructed as soon as the dirt floor is leveled. The shop will probably be in use within another month.

Muddled Mutterings

You don't need bank references to borrow trouble.

We're against the people who are against everything.

Better to shun the bait than to struggle on the hook.

People are like rivers. Whatever is in them comes out at the mouth.

Faith and fear cannot exist in the same mind; you must choose between them.
