League to Hear Wheat Analysis By Stanford Man

The Dalles—The present economic position of wheat throughout the world, which is one of the principal topics interesting the Oregon wheat grower, will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Eastern Oregon Wheat league by Dr. M. K. Bennett, economist of the food research institute at Stanford university, it is announced by C. W. Smith, league secretary.

The eleventh annual convention of the wheat league will be held here December 1 to 3, with the public program on the last two days. The first day will be devoted to preliminary work of the various committees in preparing tentative reports for consideration by the convention.

Governor-elect Charles A. Sprague and Senator-elect Rufus Holman have been invited to attend the annual banquet Friday night. Congressman Walter M. Pierce, who has just been re-elected, is also expected to attend both this and other sessions of the convention.

Those who attended the previous convention of the league in The Dalles recall that Dr. J. S. Davis, director of the food research institute at Stanford, spoke on the wheat situation at that time. His analysis of the wheat problem throughout the world was very well received, and it is believed by those in charge of the program that the analysis of Dr. Bennett of the same institution will be equally illuminating this year.

Interest is also being shown in the scheduled address by C. I. Sealy of the federal weed experiment station at Genesee, Idaho, who will report on results obtained through recent research in the control of the more important noxious weeds.
