Leaguers Meet Again

BACKED by a strong record of meritorious service the Eastern Oregon Wheat league started grinding out a new year's program at the annual conference in The Dalles today. Preliminary committee sessions at which recommendations will be taken from county reports for future action on the floor are the order today. While this part of the conference is not spectacular, it is highly important; for in the committee rooms is expressed the sentiment of the "grass roots" that will later be coordinated in the conference resolutions.

Today's groundwork will be followed tomorrow and Saturday by enlightening addresses delivered by leaders in all fields affecting wheat production. Thus will the final conference reports and recommendations be based not only upon the expressed desires of the growers themselves, but these desires tempered with the best information obtainable from highest sources.

It is this policy followed through the league's history that has made the Eastern Oregon Wheat league such an effective instrument for united action. But the policy alone would not have been sufficient. The fact of the effectiveness is largely attributable to the high type of leadership that the league has commanded and developed.

It is to Morrow county's credit that this year's sessions will be presided over by one of her own sons. Through the last year, George N. Peck has dignified the league's presidency with the same high concepts of service and unstinted loyalty that have marked his predecessors in office. Again, Morrow county may feel a kinship to the league's veteran secretary, Chas. W. Smith, who started in that capacity at the league's inception when serving as county agent here.

There is no need to say that the league's destiny is in competent and sympathetic hands. The record speaks for itself. What should be emphasized, however, is the need for a personal and active interest of every wheat grower in the league's affairs. Not only should every grower attend the conference sessions and have his say, if at all possible, but he should contribute the dollar membership fee for another year. The price is an investment and not a gift.

And what goes for the grower goes for the business and professional men of the wheat section as well. For only as the farmer prospers does business of the wheat area generally prosper.

TUBERCULOSIS is still the first cause of death during the age period from 15 to 45 though it has been reduced to seventh in importance as a cause of death in the entire population. The sale of Christmas Seals furnishes the funds used in the campaign against T.B. in about forty other countries, as well as in the United States.

The first Christmas Seal sale was held in Denmark in 1904, the result of an inspiration by Einar Holboell, a postal clerk. The first Christmas Seal sale was conducted in the Uni-

LOST CAMP GIVES DOCTOR LONG TRAMP AND AN EARLY BREAKFAST

"I wasn't lost; the camp was," declared Dr. A. D. McMurdo in relating his hunting experiences of the elk season just past before the Monday Lions luncheon.

The doctor went over on Cable creek in the Ukiah district early in the season with his son Scott, F. B. Nickerson and Owen Leathers. Climbing back up the ridge from the camp (they had a cozy cabin belonging to Neil White), he sought to find where the elk might be one morning. He continued to hunt thru the day separate from the rest of the party, and as twilight settled he decided to head for camp.

But where was camp, up or down the creek? That he didn't remember. He tried up the creek first, but on coming to a barbed wire fence he didn't remember having seen before, he decided down was the right direction. He then went down, a mile or so—and darkness had completely set in. Again he decided he was wrong, and turned back up the creek. After going a short distance, he fired a shot and was pleased to hear an answering shot from above. That convinced him.

ted States by Miss Emily P. Bissell at Wilmington, Delaware, in 1907.

This year each sheet of 100 Christmas Seals contains the engraving of four of the world's greatest tubercular specialists in each of the four corners of the sheet; these Seals being greatly in demand by stamp collectors. At the present time, stamp collectors must have 36 designs for a complete set, as there were two designs in 1907 and four in 1913.

Protect your home and family from tuberculosis, for a portion of all monies obtained from the Christmas Seal sale goes to wage a campaign of prevention of tuberculosis. Christmas Seals, purchased now, carry on a year-round battle against the great white plague, tuberculosis! Buy Christmas Seals!

Community Xmas Set at Hardman

By Hardman High School

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gammell and children spent Thanksgiving day at the J. E. Stevens home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leathers and daughter Jean spent Thanksgiving at Kimberley with relatives and friends.

Among those attending the dance at Monument Thursday evening were Miss Murl and Darrel Farrens, Mrs. Pat Robison, Delvin and Dallas McDaniel, Case Adams, Bud Cannon and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leathers and Jean.

There will be a special school meeting on Saturday, Dec. 17, at 2 p. m., in the grade school for the purpose of voting on transporting children to and from school.

Floyd Adams and family spent from Wednesday until Monday in Portland with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Batty and family had Thanksgiving dinner with the Joe Batty family in Heppner.

Pat Robison was absent from school Monday and Tuesday on account of illness.

Marvin Saddler returned Sunday from Portland where he had been visiting his parents.

Ollie Hastings was ill all last week but is recovering rapidly.

The "Community Sings" and Let's Talk clubs met Wednesday evening at the regular hours. Between the two clubs there were two songs by Vera and Maxine McDaniel, Nona and Alene Inskeep and Juanita Byers, accompanied by Mrs. McCutcheon on the piano, and a piano solo with encore by Mildred Clary.

Mrs. Muriel McCutcheon and son Glenn visited relatives in Boardman over the Thanksgiving week end.

Mrs. Carey Hastings had some dental work done in Heppner the early part of the week.

Mrs. Roy Robinson, Creston and Rita spent Thanksgiving week end at the ranch.

Mrs. Owen Leathers lead Christian Endeavor. The topic for discussion was "Thanksgiving."

Sam McDaniel, Jr., and Dallas McDaniel started falling timber for

But the going was tough through the brush and along the abrupt creek banks; so he decided to take farther up the mountainside. In doing so he did not immediately become aware that he followed alongside a tributary canyon instead of the main creek. Intuition, however, told him to go back to the bottom and check his course. This brought him to the waterless canyon bottom, and immediately realizing his mistake, he followed back down again to the creek, and at 1:30 in the morning was warmly welcomed into camp by the other worried members of the party.

It had been tough going through the snow, and having had nothing to eat since 8 o'clock the previous morning, he welcomed a good warm 2 o'clock breakfast.

The doctor said his party made a mistake by going to the high mountains first, as the elk had gone into lower country with the early snow. They got back in time to take another hunt in the Sunflower flat district but had just located the elk when the season closed.

Reed's mill on Tuesday. Others also hired by William Greener for logging are Owen Leathers, Harlan Adams and Victor Lovgren.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson and children of Heppner were visiting friends here Sunday.

An impromptu dance was given Thursday night at the I. O. O. F. hall. The attendance was small as it was gotten up in a short time, but those who went had a good time.

Miss Frances Inskeep, Jim Stevens and Tommy Graham attended the show in Heppner Saturday night.

Mrs. Ted Burnside has been visiting her parents and sister, Mr. and J. B. Adams and Mrs. Duff McKittrick, for the past two weeks.

The pupils of the primary room acted as hosts for a party given Wednesday afternoon in honor of the upper grade room. The afternoon was spent in playing games. Refreshments consisted of cocoa, cookies and jello.

Among those attending the dance at Rhea creek Saturday night were Pat Robison, Burt Burnside and Tommy Graham.

Duff McKittrick, Raymond McDonald and Carey Hastings left for the Hughes ranch Wednesday where they are going to make some fence.

Archie Nichols was brought here Saturday night to take the second degree in the Odd Fellows lodge.

There were several other guests present, three from Morgan, three from Heppner and five from Lone. The Odd Fellows served supper, consisting of sandwiches, coffee and strawberries.

Hardman will have a community Christmas program again this year, with Let's Talk as sponsors of the evening and Mrs. G. I. Clary as general chairman. One-act plays, readings, musical numbers, etc., will be given by the various organizations and in most cases they have already selected chairmen of their committees. Primary grades, Mrs. McCutcheon; upper grades, Mrs. Brannon; Sunday school, Elsa Leathers; Christian Endeavor, Rita Robinson and Mildred Clary; Community Sings, Mrs. McCutcheon; Birthday club, Pat Robinson; high school, Vern McDaniel. There will also be contributions by the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows.

Kinnard McDaniel is busy taking out wood from the mountains and passes through here several times a day.

Restricted Relief Seen in State Report

That relief expenditures must be kept within budgetary allowances of counties and state was the policy unanimously laid down by the meeting of the state relief committee in Portland last Sunday, announces Judge Bert Johnson. This includes all types of relief, old-age assistance, blind assistance and aid to dependent children.

Substantial reduction of caseloads and relief expenditures is indicated in Multnomah and a few other counties, discussion with Governor Martin revealed.

Defeat of the special tax levy by Multnomah county voters at the Nov. 8 election, and reduction in funds budgeted by certain counties, has created a situation requiring that relief for employable persons shall be provided on basis of temporary emergency care only, and will further require that no new cases may be accepted for old-age, blind or dependent children assistance in Multnomah and several other counties until, and unless, additional funds are made available.

All county committees have been requested by the state organization to begin immediately a review and investigation of all relief and social security cases, taking into account all resources and funds available for care in each program.
